"With the ropes of knowledge
We will ring the bells of success."

Dedication

To Miss Elsie Record, the former primary teacher of the Mooresville Schools, we, the seniors of 1948, wish to dedicate our manuscript of activities, histories, and memories.

Her tireless efforts, her patience, and her wisdom in guiding youth will have a never ending influence upon the lives of those who have come under her guidance. There is probably no resident who has contributed so generously of his time to any worth-while community activity as Miss Record.

To you, Miss Record, go our deepest respect, admiration, and appreciation.

Administration and Faculty

Our superintendent . . . . Head man in the Mooresville Public School Corporation is Mr. A. E. Smedley. Both the grade school and high school students have gained much through his experienced guidance in both curricular and extracurricular affairs. Both an A. B. Degree from Canterbury and an M. S. Degree from Butler are held by Mr. Smedley who teaches Latin, and health education.

Senior Class

The pride which we began to feel as our graduation day approached we hope was not misunderstood. It was only natural to have wanted to do things as well as, if not better than, preceding classes had done. As our last year was not characterized by so much lightheartedness as past years but by a more definite seriousness of mind, most of our time was spent in developing our school and ourselves, and in setting an example for underclassmen. Together we have turned our thoughts to tomorrow, and now with this tomorrow realized we are ready to trade our freshmen hats for our senior caps and gowns.

These four busy years have not hampered our spirit. Though we are now slightly weaker in number, the ties of our friendships, achievements, and aspirations bind us strongly together; and we now discover, despite the turbulence of our high school careers, we have realized real fellowship and have assured ourselves of lasting memories.

We, the 48-ers, are now prepared to face the challenges of the world - - - to step unafraid into the future - - - because we can say that we have found a spark that will help to light our way through life. Although we are filled with the enthusiasm of our achievements, we find ourselves surprisingly sad as we leave behind us our student days and carry with us in their stead a wealth of delightful memories.

Class History

In the fall of '44 when the school bell rang, eighty-six boys and girls took their dinner pails, kissed their mothers goodbye, and entered Mooresville High School as the class of '48. Fifty-four of these green freshmen were from Mooresville, and the remaining thirty were from Walnut Grove. Thus we began our high school careers.

At our first class meeting we elected class officers—Ronald Tressler, Donald Shrake, Josephine Olleman, Phyllis Copeland, and Charles Quillen. Class sponsors were Miss Tanner and Mr. Gross.

About two weeks after entering school the seniors devised a torturous plan of initiating us unsuspecting freshmen. All of us had to say a little speech to every honorable senior we met. How cute the girls must have looked with their pigtails tied with green ribbons, page faced (make-up was strictly forbidden), and carrying a doll wherever they went. The boys were every bit as cute as the girls with their clothes turned wrong-side-out, their faces besmirched with make-up, and their hair tied in ribbons that matched their equally green personalities. In the afternoon the seniors presented a program for the benefit of us freshmen at which disciplinary action was taken against those of us who had not paid the appropriate respect to our "superiors".

Even though we were just beginning our high school life, we did not take a back seat. Our class was represented in athletic, musical, and social activities.

Entering our sophomore year with a class of sixty-three was a bit different. We had only a few new faces with which to become acquainted.

Miss Moore and Mr. Bisesi were class sponsors; and class officers were John Stokesberry, Joan Graham, George Carlisle, Marilyn Miller, Max Isaacs, and Ruth Brown.

Our class gave a Valentine party for the entire high school, and each class entered a candidate for "Valentine Queen". Our class felt highly elated when Fleta Modlin won the crown.

Those of our class participating in athletics were Quillen, Carlisle, Percy, Wright, Poe, Percifield, Van Hoy, Stokesberry, Shrake, Dobbins, Ferguson, Fiscus, and Lively.

Since we were to have more responsibilities and new experiences in '46, we, a class of sixty boys and girls eager to gain knowledge, entered our junior year with an air of importance. We were busy selling pop corn, ice cream and cokes at noon hours and ball games to provide funds for our class events.

Class officers were John Stokesberry, George Carlisle, Marcia Carpenter, Mabel Marcum, Charles Quillen, and Maxine Park; and class sponsors were Miss Ragsdale and Mr. Finke.

In the latter part of October we presented "Spooky Tavern". The cast included Marcia Carpenter, Marilyn Miller, Betty Simpson, Josephine Olleman, Margaret Shields, David Lively, George Carlisle, Wayne Merriman, Howard Percy, John Stokesberry, and Charles Quillen. Barbara Head was student-director; Miss Ragsdale, director; and Miss Nay, assistant-director.

Juniors engaged in sports were Quillen, Shrake, Carlisle, Lively, Percy, Poe, Stevens, Percifield, Ferguson, Dobbins, and Fiscus.

The climax of our junior year was the junior-senior prom and banquet in honor of the seniors. As the theme for the occasion we chose a night club, and decorations carried out this motif. The evening was highlighted by the crowning of our prom queen, Jane Henderson.

Then came our senior year—the year that all underclassmen look to with eag-
