THIS WAS YOUR SCHOOL
"Just think, we’re the last graduating class from this school” was a familiar phrase with our seniors as history and progress were being made. We said goodbye to the old familiar red brick and ivy-covered buildings which had guided students on their way for the last 97 years.

This year, like every year, was unique in itself with events that happen only once. We remember when it got so cold and snowy school was dismissed and when the flu absences left classrooms half full. We read Pat Boone’s ‘TWIXT TWELVE AND TWENTY and the DIARY OF ANNE FRANK. We watched "Maverick” and "Rifleman” on TV and talked about Brigitte Bardot and Ricky Nelson. We found time to hum "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes” and “Alvin’s Harmonica.”

With you, the reader, we look back on this school year not as an end but as the consummation of a job well done. May you look forward to the new school as a challenge of new ideas and things to be done; however, keep this thought in your minds and hearts—THIS WAS YOUR SCHOOL.
Three of the oldest living graduates, Mr. R. D. Sellers (class of 1892) Mrs. Ida Rushton (class of 1891) Mrs. Gertrude Likely (class of 1894), and Superintendent Warren Hert are shown in front of the oldest building, the Academy, erected in 1861 by the Friends Church on our campus.

Serving the first six grades of Mooresville children, the Newby Building blends beautifully with our campus.

This four-room building, built in 1924, houses not only the home economics classes but also the central heating plant.

The gymnasium has set the scene for cheers and heartbreak for over 300 basketball games since 1921.

For 52 years this building has served primarily the high school students; however, as the new building is erected this one will open its door only to junior high pupils.

This is the way our new high school looked in the spring as it was being constructed.
Enthusiasm ran high as school doors opened;

This was a typical scene on August 29th, our first day of school, when we paid our hard earned cash for books.

Do you remember the first day of school when classes seven through twelve met in the gym to receive their initial greeting from Principal Mr. Curry? With the completion of the new school our system became the 6:3:3 thus this was the last time for this type of assembly.

Classrooms were so crowded that even the library and the cafeteria were pressed into service at various periods during the day.

There are many things we remembered from this year. One of the most interesting and confusing was the time factor as many homes were on "fast time" with the school on "slow time."

All in all it was fun; it was hard; and everyone, so the administration hoped, gained valuable knowledge.

Seniors Jim Gross and Tom Downey confer about today's algebra assignment before the 8:15 bell.
Initiation, Band Festival are first events.

Jill Casey and Bill Norris, freshmen, become "man and wife" as part of the initiation ceremony performed by senior Linda Lugar.

To this blindfolded freshman, Karen Harris, these seniors, Jack Perry, Jerry Fishel, and Jeanine Collier administer the "blood test" as part of the "horror chamber" at the initiation party.

These weary band members return to the bus after the long parade at the Elletsville Fall Festival held on September 12th.
This is one of the bright yellow buses that bring our sometimes eager and sometimes reluctant students to school.

Every morning before 8:20 the office is full of students like Mike Hundley thinking up fantastic excuses for the previous day's absence.

Upon arrival at school each day many students dash hurriedly to the top floor of the Newby Building where they purchase paper, pencils, and other items to aid their quest for good grades.
bustling to eat, study halls make day complete.

Each period of the day some office girl, in this instance Sylvia Smith, makes the rounds and collects all absentee slips for the office record.

This looks too peaceful and uncrowded for most study halls although if one applies himself they may prove very beneficial.

Throughout the third and fourth periods many students while in class are tantalized with a yearning for this moment—the lunch line.
Homecoming highlighted the fall festivities

"Run 'em through the Mill" was the theme of the second place senior float.

The homecoming festivities were composed of a parade to the business district in the afternoon and the crowning of the queen at the dance after the football game. The parade consisted of class and organization floats, the team riding on fire trucks, the high school student body, and the queen candidates riding in decorated convertibles. The court of the queen, Lorna Glidden, was Ramona Steinbrook, Judy Riggs, Nancy Lightle, Karen Barnhart, Carol Borders, Rita Russell, and Donna Rudolph.

The gym was the center of our many dances this year. From the after-game sock-hops in the fall and winter to the semi-formals in the spring, the floor was filled with teenage couples. Disc jockeys, Baker, Hardwick, and Longfellow, entertained us at our "big" dances while senior records spun for the sock-hops.

Surprise queen of the homecoming festivities was freshman, Loma Glidden.

The highlight of homecoming was the crowning of the queen at the dance.
and dances enhanced the social life.

At the initiation party, after a day of tiring experiences, the seniors and freshmen gathered in the gym for a dance.

This is a typical scene of the many after-home-game dances throughout the year that the seniors sponsored.

The first of several spring semi-formals was the "Sweetheart Dance" sponsored by the G.A.A.

Mock election made government realistic

On November 4 in conjunction with the national elections juniors and seniors held a mock election. Here Jeanine Collier, Larry Stewart, and Bob Turner wait their turn to cast their ballots.

Learning to figure Federal Income Tax and outlining the Constitution were extra projects of Mr. East's government class.

Special reports on Civil War leaders and other famous persons was a feature of Mr. Sparks' U.S. History class.
Business program offered advanced courses

The foundation of the business program is to acquaint students with business fundamentals. General Business provides a background of business knowledge. Bookkeeping I and Typing I are general courses for everyone.

Business English strengthens the grammar of these students and applies it to business writing.

Shorthand I equips the student with the theory while Shorthand II applies it through rapid dictation and transcription.

Bookkeeping II, Shorthand II, and Typing II have been added to increase the skills of those students going to work in stores and offices immediately upon graduation.

Advanced bookkeeping students, Bill Haskett, Joann Shortt, Judy Bell, and Carolyn Moore are working on their practice sets.

Mrs. Cowen dictates to her students in Shorthand I.

With the arrival of space rockets and satellites interest has increased in the science and math departments as evidenced by the larger enrollment.

The math department offers a total of eight semesters of work. A student may take algebra I and II, plane and solid geometry, and trigonometry.

Six semesters of study are offered by the science department. Biology is required of every student for graduation. Electives are chemistry and physics which are taken the last two years.

IN ACTIVITIES...
By now you have thumbed your way through 33 pages of a "Wagon Trails" which 15 staff members labored 2400 class and after-school hours to produce. Adding a full-color page and establishing a self-supporting annual fund made this a year of firsts for the '59 staff.

Traveling to institutes and conventions were high points of the year. The editor and his assistant attended the High School Journalism Institute at Indiana University. Eight Typists Harold Gray, Morris Carmichael, Karen Goodrid and Jackie Littell planned layout for advertisers and found time to help other staff members plus doing all the typing.

staff members spent two days at the Indiana High Press Association at Franklin College. Each person brought back experiences, new ideas, and improvements for a better yearbook.

Starting with hopes and ideas and working until the annual was completed, the staff members learned the satisfaction connected with the publishing of a Mooresville High School Annual.

Mrs. Virginia Jackson, sponsor, gives the entire staff some pointers on attractive layout designs.

One of the many duties of Editor Jim Harvey, Assistant Editor Bill Haskett and Mrs. Jackson was to keep an accurate record of all subscriptions sold.
Mr. Morlock (Jim Harvey) is a fidgety and nervous family man. He is very strict with his wife, (Dora Giffin) and their daughters, Mary (Nanci Love) and Jessica (Gwen Ferguson). Mary wishes to become engaged to Joe Lanconi (Bud Swisher) and Jessica aspires to be a champion wrestler.

Joe’s papa, Luigi Lanconi (Morris Carmichael) pleads in Joe’s behalf and starts a feud. He has a heart attack and returns to haunt Mr. Morlock and to obtain permission for the wedding. Under this pressure, Mr. Morlock takes too many sleeping pills. During the remainder of the play he encounters various characters. They are: Martha Lanconi (Nancy Brown), Lucifer (Roger Neal) and Mrs. Schmaltz (Susie White).

Meanwhile Mrs. Morlock calls Dr. Brown (Bob Sisk) and the undertaker Mr. Black (Bill Jones). Well-wishing friends of Luigi who visit Joe are: Mrs. Frinck (Jeanine Collier) Jake (Richard Davis) and a washerwoman (Tom Downey).

The surprise ending delights everyone with Mr. Morlock’s waking from a long night’s sleep a much-improved person. This pleases most his able assistants, Miss Akers (Dorothy Peterson) Mr. Plew (Lanny Smoot) and Mildred (Mary Deibel).

The juniors presented "Just Ducky" as their class play under the direction of Mrs. Veva Spear.

Betty Lou Maxwell (Nancie Hert) and Bernadine Smith (Judy Clair) were active teenagers. A spring day started peacefully enough and Mr. Maxwell (Frank Featherston) was chosen to head the Citizens Committee; but the lack of excitement caused the girls to write a scandalous letter to Miss Blayne (Jane Record) a lovelorn columnmist. Instead of publishing the letter, Miss Blayne called on Mrs. Maxwell (Betty Fenwick.)

Other visitors that day were Mr. Moore (William Robinson) and Del Marshall (Steve Hilliker) They dropped in to interview Mr. Maxwell. The girls mistook Mr. Maxwell for a state marshal and fearing arrest, they plead insanity. Assisting the girls in the act were Wilbur (Joe Norris) and Hercules (Kenny Comer).

Much to the dismay of Aunt Mary (Jacki Littell), Connie (Paula Swisher) and Craig Moore (Frank Lowry) things reach a most feverish climax. The ending found the audience sore from laughter.

Nancie Hert and Judy Clair, teenagers always in trouble, are horrifying Steve Hilliker and William Robinson with their crazy antics.

Behind the scene workers were: Sandra Van Hoy, Karen Shepherd, Sue Head, Steve Cooper, and Phil Coleman.

Joe Norris, runaway son, is telling Betty Fenwick, his mother, and onlookers William Robinson and Nancie Hert, that he has returned for his pocket knife.
Student Council and Honor Society assisted

Student Council members are busy during the Christmas season as they decorate the tree in the study hall and the larger trees outside. Putting the finishing touches on the tree are: J. Adams, G. Kenworthy, L. Lugar, and C. Littell.

As the nation, city, and state needs a government so does Mooresville High School. That is the job of the student council. These students are elected by their respective classes and have the responsibility of expressing the students' view. The student council is composed of three members of grades 7 through 12.

The student council has had several projects this year. One of the first was to draw up a new constitution that better fits the growing student body of our school. As always at Christmas time the student council decorated the study hall and the windows in the gymnasium. Instead of decorating the large pine trees this year, the student council decorated the outside of the high school building. With the purchase of several new strands of lights, this was an attractive change. This organization is under the leadership of Mr. Boyd.
administration with school government.

Belonging to the Mooresville Chapter of the National Honor Society are ten seniors and five juniors. These students are active in school clubs and outside activities and strive to render service, promote leadership and encourage the development of character in fellow students. Therefore leadership, services, and character are considered with scholarship in choosing members. This is one of the highest honors conferred at Mooresville High School as membership represents only 15 per cent of the classes.

The Honor Society has many projects throughout the year. New members are initiated once a semester with an impressive ceremony. At Christmas, several baskets of food are taken to needy families in our school district. One important project this year was publishing the student handbook.

Some of the Honor Society members sit and chat at the annual picnic at Martinsville City Park, May 12.

Treasurer Jerry Fishel shows the cost of foodstuffs purchased to give to needy families at Christmastime to other officers: Secretary Joyce Boyer, President Jim Harvey, and Vice President Tom Downey.

BOYS’ 4-H
The Mooresville Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America is composed of 50 girls. They have meetings twice a month under the supervision of Mrs. Alexander the first semester, and Mrs. Shufflebarger the last semester. For the first time, the officers and two club members attended the district meeting at Martinsville.

Around Christmas time the girls were very busy making Christmas cards for the children's ward at General Hospital. In each of these cards they placed a brightly colored sucker. The club also sang Christmas carols to shut-ins around Mooresville.

Their first money making project was a chili supper on October 17 before the Edinburg basketball game. They held a dance on April 10. Its theme was "April Love." The disc jockey was Hardwick from WFBM. Maralee Gibbs was crowned queen.

The 1958-59 officers of the F.H.A. are: President, Judy Clair; Historian, Barbara Noble; Vice President, Patti Park; Parliamentarian, Wilma Willis; Secretary, Jaynie Boyd; Treasurer, Liane Hawkins; Reporter, Cindy McElwain; and Song Leader, Nancy Via.

Morris Carmichael (pictured) Bob Sisk, and Bob Starks demonstrated these two sets of switches and lights, connected by a single wire, one bulb lighting when one switch is pushed; the other when the opposite switch is pushed.

The Science Club is composed of 6 juniors and 17 seniors. To become eligible for this club, one must be a member of the chemistry or physics classes or have two previous semesters of chemistry or physics.

The club is a member of the National Science Club of America. Pins are given on the point system. Points are given for attendance, participation, and exhibits.

The club meets on the second and fourth Monday of the month. At each meeting, a program is conducted by members under the supervision of Mr. Sears. They have conducted several experiments with static electricity. The governmental Civil Defense Department sent a Radioactivity Survivor Kit for observation and study.

The science club had an interesting exhibit for the Achievement Day, May 6. The science exhibit is always interesting to parents and younger "scientists"
The Latin Club is one of the largest organizations on campus. Starting this year, students can enroll in Latin during their freshman to senior years.

During the meetings the members sing Latin songs and give reports in Latin. Latin club pins are given each year.

The Latin Club sponsored a dance "April Showers" in April for the student body. The Club is sponsored by Mrs. Lucille Richardson.

One of the highlights of the year for the Latin Club was the Roman Banquet. The pitch-in dinner was held in the Methodist Church annex on April 25. These first year students are enjoying the play "Virgil" performed by the advanced class. The students are: Cheryl Daily, Connie Chitwood, Judy Burke, Kay Allison, and Johnny Altman.

These club members seem to be enjoying seeing the Freshman "slaves" clear the tables. SEATED: Harold Gray, Rosemary Lamar, Terry Fenimore, and Bill Haskett.
Every member of the journalism class is busy when it comes time to assemble the paper. This type of assembly line production saves many steps and provides a chance to have friendly chatter while working.

The Campus Crier was published six times during the year by 17 seniors in Journalism Class under the direction of Mrs. Cowen. This was the first time the paper was a part of class work. SEATED: L. Lugar and Sponsor Mrs. Janet Cowen. STANDING: M. Haskett, Art Editor; J. Forrester, 9th grade reporter; N. Waltz, S. Altman, 8th grade reporter; and Editor Sylvia Smith.

Many busy hours are spent in typing dummies and stencils. The typists during this particular edition were: Suzy Medsker, Ruth Key, Raymond Johnson, Richard Chowning, David Kidwell, Wilma Mantooth, Judy Bell, Robert Starks, Joann Shortt, and Norma Waltz.

Lanny Smoot was in charge of lettering all the stencils, while Sue Perry had the task of operating the Gestetner. These particular jobs often required extra work after school and evenings.
1959 brought many awards to M.H.S.

Jim Harvey, Morris Carmichael, and Bill Haskett entered the local American Legion oratorical contest. Bill Haskett won first place, Morris Carmichael, second, and Jim Harvey, third. Bill went on to win the county contest at Martinsville, and placed 4th in the district contest at Brazil, Indiana.

The winners of the American Legion Essay Contest were: Carolyn Thompson, Norma Waltz, Sue Head, Morris Carmichael, Ronnie Harbin, and Jim Harvey.

The junior high spelling contest was won by May Ann Record and George Ann Fields was runner-up.
Mr. Christie gives the band some last minute instruction before starting the Mid-Winter Concert.

The band, being directed by Gwen Ferguson, is performing in the Fall Festival at Ellettsville.

By performing in the Farmer’s Day Parade at the Indiana State Fair the Mooresville band began the school year. They won honorable mention and a portion of the prize money. The band also attended the marching contest for the first time in several years and was awarded a Grade III, good rating. The twirlers wore costumes made by the Music Parents’ Club.

During the football season the band performed for all home games and gave examples of precision marching. They played at all home basketball games and the twirlers presented several shows at half-time for entertainment.

At the solo and ensemble contest the band was awarded 52 medals for District and 2 for the All State Contest. The band concert in February featured several solos and ensembles that were given at contests plus the dance band, which is a new unit this year. The band also performed at the County Music Festival held at Eminence.

Spring brought many new events for the band. They entered the Band Contest in Sheridan, Indiana. The band joined with the chorus in presenting the Spring Festival. They also participated in the 500 Mile Festival in May.
contests and festivals were highlights.

Senior Bob Sisk holds the upper hand over Jim Stanley as he carefully adjusts the senior sign on the float. The band performed in the afternoon and evening for the homecoming game.

The twirlers are: J. Casey, M. Deibel, G. Ferguson, Drum Majorette; T. Shlake, K. Shepherd, D. Hicks and B. Lighttle.

On November 26, 1958, the chorus made their first public appearance when they presented the Thanksgiving program to the student body. They sang several Thanksgiving songs with Dick Western featured as soloist. At Christmas and Easter the chorus also sang at the Convocations.

The Chorus gave two concerts during the year. The spring concert was given in conjunction with the band. On March 18 they presented a Pre-Easter concert with Jim Harvey acting as narrator. Gwen Ferguson was accompanist for the program with the trumpet trio and tympanist playing for one selection.
The chorus money-making project this year was selling bright colored Christmas candles to raise money for concert equipment.

January and February chorus practice was spent in getting ready for the district music contest at DePauw. Kay Allison and the senior quartet won first place awards at this festival. These two entries went on to the state contest in Indianapolis where the senior quartet won a first and Kay a second rating.

On the evening of March 20 the chorus participated in the Morgan County Music Festival at Eminence. They ended the year by taking part in the Sheridan Concert in the spring.

Kay Allison, sophomore, won first in the district contest at Greencastle. She then went to the state contest which was held at Broad Ripple High School in Indianapolis and won second. The song she sang was "Good-Bye My Lavender."

Pre-Easter Chorus Concert on March 19 told the Easter story in song and scripture.

The senior quartet composed of Paula Swisher, Karen Shepherd, Gwen Ferguson, and Mary Kay Deibel, won first in the district contest. They also won first in the state singing "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise."
IN SPORTS ...
Opposing the Pioneers, the Center Grove Trojans won 7 to 6 in an away game, Sept. 2. A much bigger Decatur Central team whipped the Pioneers 25 to 0 on Sept. 5. Encountering the Warriors of Danville in their first home game, Mooresville lost by only one point 7 to 6. A top-rated Bloomington University team beat the Pioneers 19 to 6. The Univees had not been scored upon this year. Mooresville was defeated in the homecoming game 19 to 0 by the Greenwood Woodmen.

The Pioneers bowed before Mid-State Conference champions Brownsburg in a tough game 28 to 13. Plainfield drubbed the Pioneers 31 to 0 in their homecoming game. Edinburg produced the same score as last year in downing Mooresville 13 to 12. Completing the season, Mooresville lost to the Flashes of Franklin Township 25 to 6.

Coached by Russ Forsyth, the Junior Varsity football team won four games and tied one. This young team, composed of sophomores and freshmen, showed much promise for the 1959 season.

Junior Varsity showed promise for 1959 team.

An Edinburg Lancer plunges his way through the M.H.S. line to pick up 5 yards in a hard fought 13 to 12 battle in favor of Edinburg. Coming up to make the tackle for Mooresville are: Don Daily, Richard Davis, and Jerry Fishel.

A University back eludes a Mooresville tackler and goes around end for a 15 yard gain in a 19 to 6 triumph over the Pioneers. Through beaten, the team was the first team to score on University High School during the football season. Being blocked out on the play is Richard Short; coming up to make the tackle is Jon Mathias.
Varsity had mediocre season.

yet gave good sectional showing.

Swisher, Davidson, Johnson, and Harvey try to stop the Bulldogs of Brownsburg from scoring, but it was to little avail as the Bulldogs ran away with the game by a score of 69 to 38.

Jim Harvey fires one in against Speedway to tie the score in the early stage of the game. Hastings and Swisher wait for the rebound. Speedway went on to win the game 82 to 62.

Fishel, Harvey, Hastings, and Johnson close in for a rebound in the Decatur Central game. The Pioneers split two contests with the Hawks by scores of 60-69 and 54-50.
The junior varsity Pioneer team was composed of sophomores and juniors. The team played for the purpose of gaining experience in the game of basketball. Many junior varsity players of 1959 will be the varsity players of 1960.

Jon Mathias lays one in against the Decatur Central Hawks. Following Jon in on the layup are Jim Williams and Rick Clair.
Those two teams enjoyed seasons which afforded much valuable experience to them.

They both made good showings in their respective tournneys. For the first time it was possible to win numerals.

while "thinlies" set new records.

At right is track star Jerry Fishel who holds the all-time Mooresville pole vault record at 11' 9\(\frac{3}{4}\)". He won first in the regional and went to the state finals. Raymond Johnson possesses the all-time Mooresville high jump record at 6'0".

While practicing, Steve Hilliker clears the standards at 5'9". Steve set a new conference record at 5' 11\(\frac{3}{4}\)" in the Mid-State Conference Meet.

MHS had a strong field event team. They placed 4th in the Mid-State Conference Meet held at Washington High School. MHS had three boys go to the Regionals this year. They were Jerry Thompson, Steve Hilliker, and Jerry Fishel.

Most valuable baseball player Tom Downey, and most valuable track player Jerry Fishel.

Jim Harvey, most valuable basketball player, and Richard Griggs, most valuable football player.

Winning the intramural play-offs the fourth period was this team of Jim Tompkins'. ROW 1: Bill Smith, Ronnie Rairdon, Jim Cowen, Dennis Greene. ROW 2: Jim Tompkins, Bill Armstrong, and Gary Butcher.

This is a typical intramural scene during the lunch hours. All students who wish to play have the opportunity to do so. The older students are appointed captains, and this year approximately 150 students, grades 7-12, participated.

“We’re loyal to you, pioneer boys,” shouted the 109 members of the cheer block as they encouraged the basketball team this year. Sponsoring the cheer block was Miss Diggs.

Membership in the Letterman’s Club is chiefly composed of athletes who have won a varsity letter by participating in a certain sport. Sponsors of this group are Mr. Russell Forsyth and Mr. Glen Sparks.

Kickball and volleyball are among the sports the girls of the G.A.A. participate in once a week. Dorothy Peterson was disc-jockey of the Valentine’s Day dance. The G.A.A. is under the sponsorship of Miss Diggs.

Disc Jockey Dorothy Peterson played records for the Sweetheart Dance. Her assistants were Sue Perry, Mary Ann Earles, and Judy Bell.

As seniors we finished the furious foursome.

Seniors entered the doors of MHS in the fall realizing that they would be the last graduating class from the old Mooresville Campus. Money-making projects were launched early as plans for the senior trip were made. Enthusiasm ran high as they were measured for their caps and gowns, ordered announcements and cards, and had senior pictures taken.

Suddenly it was spring and they started practicing from six to eight in the morning for their class play, "Rest Assured." They were honored May 1 at the "Turquoise Twilight" Junior-Senior Prom. Bob Starks and Tom Downey were appointed Editor and Associate Editor for the printing of the senior paper.

Baccalaureate services at the First Methodist Church started senior commencement activities. Five forty-five a.m. the next morning seniors boarded two buses for the senior trip to Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, and Cincinnati, Ohio.

The long awaited night arrived—Commencement; this made the 75th graduating class. Seniors listened to speeches by Valedictorian Morris Carmichael and Salutatorian Jim Harvey. The class stood in the semi-circle receiving congratulations from their parents and friends; with the coveted diploma in their hands, this class realized the truth of their motto, "We have climbed the hills, the mountains are still ahead."

Transition into high school confronted large jump yet made change successfully.

Mrs. Kellum's 40 sixth graders spend their day in a classroom at the Friends Church. In this reading class they were reading "Beavers to the Rescue" out of their Wings to Adventure reader. Since they have class at the church they have the large playground to themselves for playing games.

The 41 sixth graders in Mr. Patterson's class formed an "Extra Club" as a highlight of their year. Another project the class enjoyed was the writing of letters to all 49 states to see what other sixth graders were doing. A space exhibit completed their year of various projects.

Mr. Reynolds' sixth graders were thrilled when the television newscaster, Frank Edwards, accepted their invitation to come and talk to them. They interviewed him and discussed "Flying Objects."

Besides this exciting experience, Room 26 has spent an interesting time studying the early civilization of ancient Europe as depicted by the mural on the back wall.
Mrs. Kendall's fifth grade is in the midst of a study of geography. They are discussing the South Central states. They also took time out to make a map of the country and show where different products are produced.

Room 22 is also very interested in science and history. During the winter they made posters and dioramas in order to learn more about the seasons of the year. They frequently drew pictures to illustrate their lessons.

This fifth grade class is located at the town library. Most of the children enjoy this since it is different from the usual school atmosphere. Their teacher, Miss Copeland, prepares the room for an arithmetic lesson the first thing in the afternoon while Linda Rudy, Patricia Altman, Phyllis Park, Rejeanna Lundy, Dale Swinney, Steve O'Dell and Dennis Parr finish putting up their health posters.

Room 23 made a thorough study of transportation in the western movement in history this year. Their posters on the bulletin board typifies what they have been doing.

The artistic ability of Mrs. Griffith's fifth grade children is shown in the decorations which are in keeping with the month of November.
The boys and girls in Room 25 with their teacher Mrs. Carmichael were quite excited the day the photographer came. They had been decorating their room in keeping with Valentine's Day and had just gotten out their geography books ready for class.

Fourth graders in Mrs. Young's room had been studying Presidents of the United States. On the bulletin board are their fantasy heart pictures which they drew in art class. To keep a record of "Good Citizens" they made a "Good Citizen" chart which can be seen in the background. On this particular Monday morning no one was in the dog house.

Miss Pickett's fourth graders were listening to Phillip Leath tell a story from their reading lesson. That is everyone except Odell Lundy who stole a glance at the photographer. Decorations made by the boys and girls were a valentine truck and their reading chart showing the number of books each child had read.
Arithmetic was interesting to 3rd graders.

The third graders in Mrs. Adams' room made a rather complete study of Indians around Thanksgiving time. Sara Smitherman is telling the class a story about the totem pole. On the back of their seats each boy and girl had their own Indian name.

During their study of Indians these third graders made their own teepee in the room using burlap sacks rather than animal skins. They learned Indian songs and did Indian dances during that time and made an Indian exhibit.

Miss Hayes' third graders thought arithmetic was one of their most interesting subjects this year. They learned how to carry in addition, how to borrow in subtraction, and how to multiply by 2, 3, 4, 5, and 10. They also learned division using these same numbers.

Working at the blackboard with subtraction problems are Jimmy Martin, Ron Merrifield, James Duke, David Greene and Marjorie Harbin.

These boys and girls decorated their bulletin board with a tree decked out in Christmas ornaments showing their pictures.

Third graders in Mrs. York's room also completed a unit on Indians and their work and habits around Thanksgiving time. Patricia Darnell and Jean Dickman are showing the bulletin board display they made during their study of Indians.

These boys and girls molded Indian pottery from terra cotta clay and found it fun even though it was more difficult than they had anticipated.
The 37 second graders in Mrs. Gee's room are getting ready for the Thanksgiving season. They made a mural of the Pilgrims and Indians on the first Thanksgiving Day.

These boys and girls were reading "Good Times," a story in their Ginn Basic Readers about the children on Garden Street. On the bulletin board were birds they studied about which are found here this time of the year.

Miss Wadsworth's 37 second graders are studying the writing of tens to one hundred just before the Christmas vacation. They were trying to understand the meaning of place numbers.

The abacus, peg boards and sticks were devices used in the front of the room to assist the children in understanding the meaning of grouping of numbers by tens. John Reed put a problem on the board of visualize the answer.

A group of science-minded students in Mrs. Humphrey's second grade classroom gathers around the science table which has been a point of interest and information all year.

The remaining children listen as they are told about Tommy Turtle in the terrarium. This, along with plants and their care, and the fish and snails in the aquarium have been sources of many interesting activities during the year.
These first graders in Mrs. Axom's class are reading the story "Birthdays are Free." Most of these boys and girls are near seven so they understand the story about Tom's seventh birthday. They have all experienced birthdays and the sharing of another's birthday party is interesting reading.

A reading group of Mrs. Coffman's first graders enjoys a lesson out of their Little Blue Story Book, with a story on the board using the new words. The decorations are in keeping with the month of November as is the chart which represents some of the things for which they are thankful.

Mrs. Oliver's first grade class in Room 13 has been reviewing words and phonics. There are 17 girls and 17 boys in this room. Some of their art work is on display above the blackboard.
Mrs. McKamey and her first graders are having a number of lessons counting valentines. They were the first grade group that moved to the Christian Church when their class was divided into four groups. This first grade class considered it a privilege to get to watch the construction of the new high school building across Indiana Street.

Mrs. Martha Voight’s afternoon kindergarten class plays in their free period. This time is provided so the child may have an opportunity to choose his own activity and solve his own social problems. The folding screen lends itself to playing house, store, library, or holding a puppet show.

The other afternoon kindergarten session, taught by Mrs. Alice Jones, begins to take an interest in books despite the fact that they cannot read. They learn to notice the printed word and to handle the books properly in their library period; all of which helps make them better citizens for their following year—the first grade. The two morning sessions of kindergarten have similar programs.
Seventy-two pupils attend Waverly grade school which is a part of the Mooresville School Corporation located in Harrison Township. In this one-story basement building, constructed of dark red brick, grades 1-4 spend 176 school days. Their older brothers and sisters in grades 5-12 attend school in Mooresville.

Students in the first and second grade are learning reading, writing, and arithmetic from their teacher, Mrs. Hill. Third and fourth graders have Mrs. Holden for their teacher. Mrs. Dickman, school nurse, and Mrs. Graham, music and art teacher, visit school each day.

The rest of Mrs. Holden's third and fourth grade classroom are hard at work studying, while the reading class, Vicki Griffith, Stanley Barnes, Wayne Henry, Houston McIntosh, Kathy Lewis, and Donna Hinton, are around her desk spending some extra time on this subject.

Mrs. Hill's first graders learn the first steps of arithmetic at the board while the second graders study their spelling at their desks.
building improvement at Walnut Grove

Mr. Porter has a conference in his office with Bonita Jacobs, a second grade teacher.

The outside of the new addition, originally white block, was bricked to match the old building. It was started the second week of August and finished in October.

Some of Mr. Hill's sixth grade practices for the "Blue Willow" play on the auditorium stage. The doctor is Stacia Golden, the sick girl is Suzanne Wells, with Gary Angrick and Margaret Mason.
Mrs. Faye Rose’s fourth graders take their first wondering look at space as they study the planets in their science class.

Naomi Earles and a substitute, Betty Johnson, with the student help for this day, Connie Edwards, prepare one of the meals for the children here at North Madison.

Mr. Stringer and Mrs. Dickman, the school nurse, talk to students Margaret McKinney and Ralph Gilbert in Mr. Stringer’s office.
