

WAGON TRAILS

Many things enter into the making of a high school. Many types of students are brought together under a common roof for a common goal—an education. In the strife for this education, many young adults work, play, and support a common interest together. They work and live together for the better part of their lives for four long years. All of these students working together have varied interests and goals. Some of these people are striving only for a diploma never intending to further their interest only possibly in a trade school. Others are training for an advanced education, specializing in professions which they will pursue the rest of their lives. Although professions may vary from artist to chemist; all, nonetheless, are different. The school, teachers, administrators, and counselors must hope to build and develop the maturing mind and body of the student in preparation for an old and complicated world. The teacher in his academic major must work to stimulate and develop a young mind. The dances, formal and informal; the class parties; the club parties; and the field trips are a direct approach for introducing the young person's actions to a very critical and socialized world. Athletics—for girls as well as boys—help build the young maturing body. School must guarantee their services and hope that no student need ever be recalled. With all the divergent interests and backgrounds, this is formidable. Let us look at what M.H.S. has to offer us.

"Bonjour!"

"Entrez!"

"Entrez!"

"Come on in!"

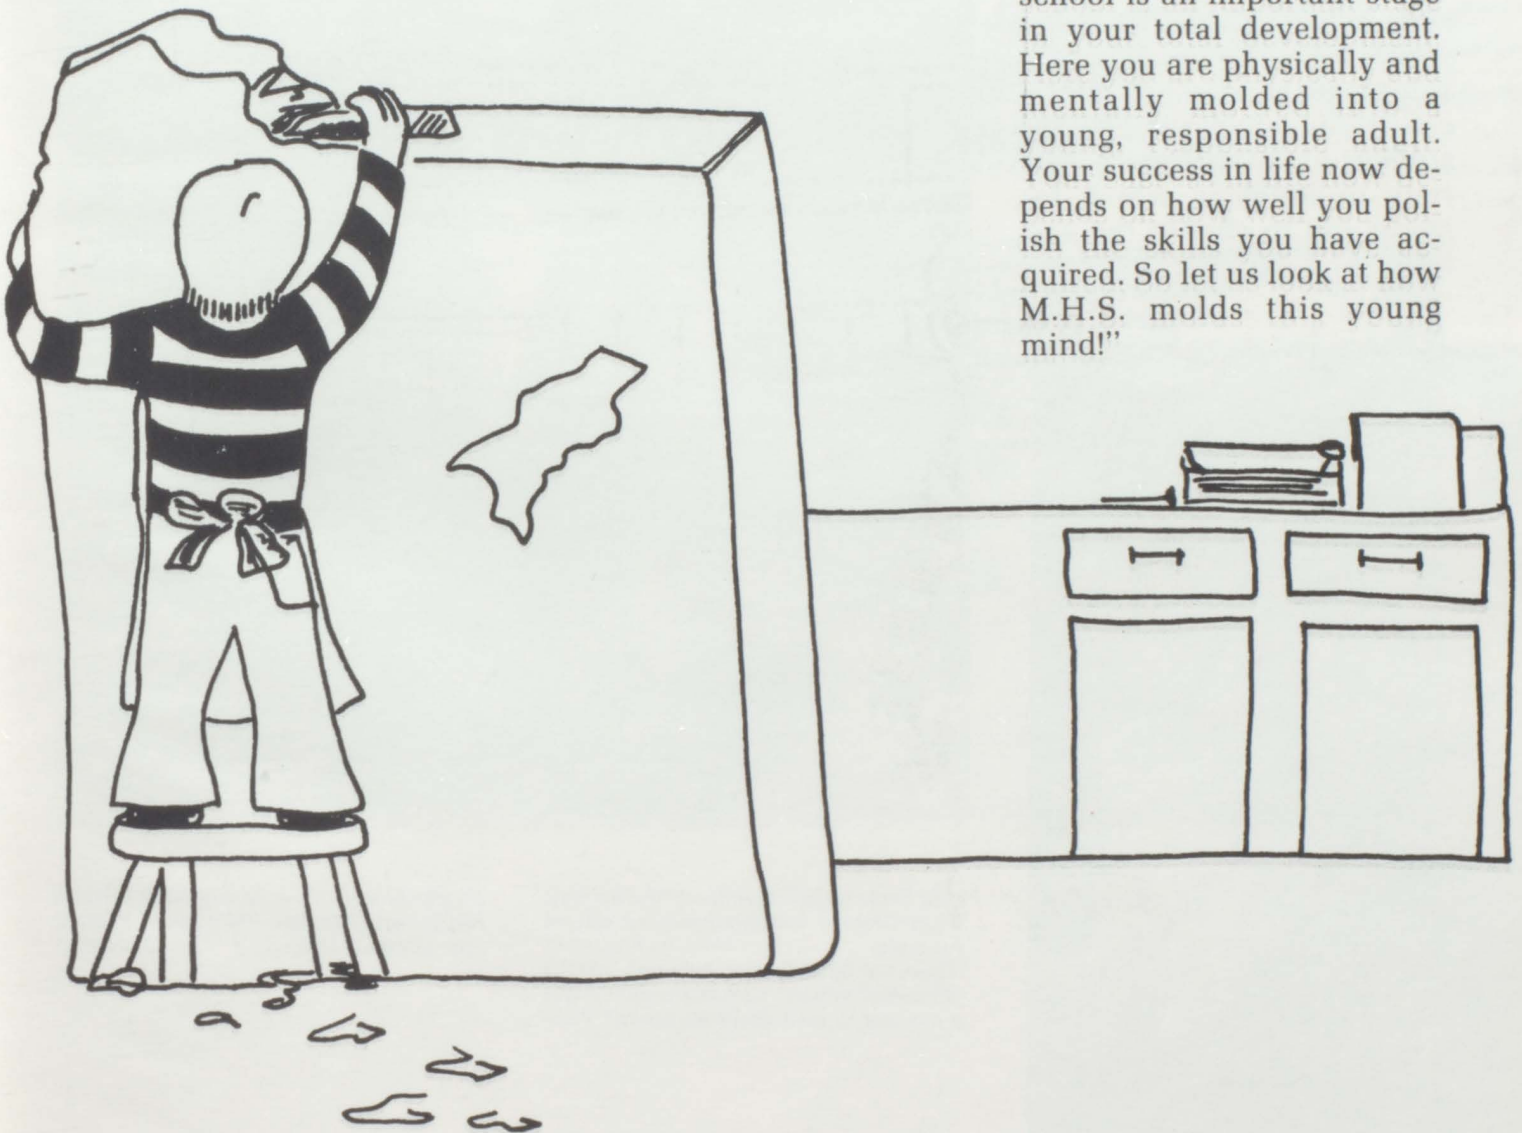

"Let me show you around my workshop. Excuse-moi! Let me introduce myself. I'm Monsieur Roi D'ecole, the sculptor. I represent the high school stage of your education. I am a sculptor and so is your high school. Just as I chip, mold, and shape a character, the high school chips, molds, and shapes your character. It hammers away at you constantly for your four-year stay here. Many things are involved in the making of a statue, and many things are involved in the molding M.H.S. has to do."

"I use many techniques in the creating of a masterpiece. In like manner, carefully hidden plans of development are laid-out for you through the activities which you perform everyday. Such things as field trips, dances, and athletics are a clever means of disguising such things as social graces and bodily development. More obviously, the everyday classroom activity is a sometimes not so pleasant action to discipline your mind.

The four-year stay at high school is an important stage in your total development. Here you are physically and mentally molded into a young, responsible adult. Your success in life now depends on how well you polish the skills you have acquired. So let us look at how M.H.S. molds this young mind!"

Every snowflake that falls—

is different.

Every creature that cralls—

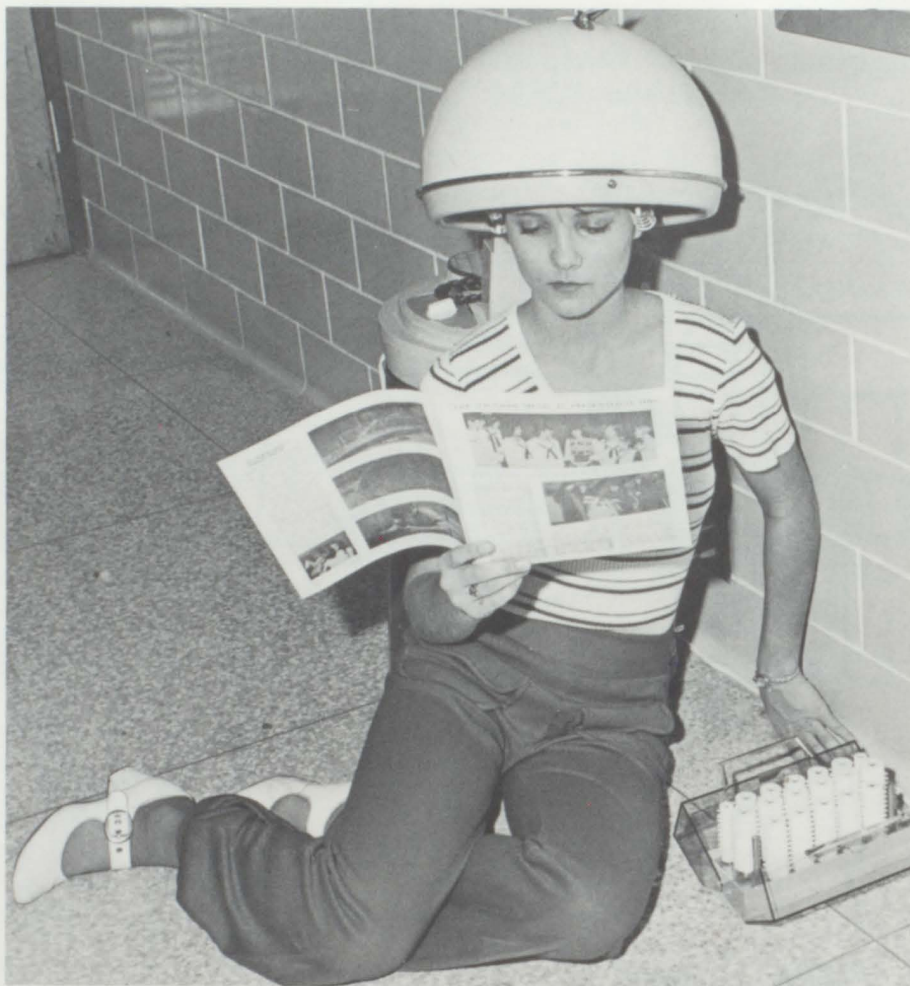

is different.

Every student in M.H.S.—

is different!

Each person is individual and original in his own thinking. He has his own ideas and his own interests. High school gives this individual a chance to begin developing his personal interests. High school allows the student to select from a variety of fields in which to study and to choose the activities he experiences.

ABC's of School

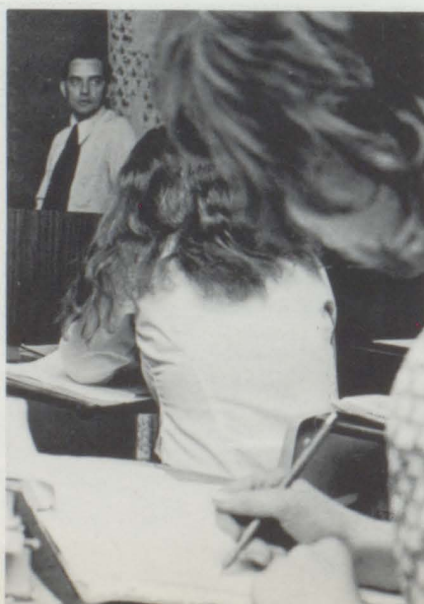

School is part of a learning process necessary to a young mind. M.H.S. offers a variety of courses of study allowing a student to enrich his knowledge in a particular field. The high school career of a student can be hard, it can be easy—often unpleasant, but sometimes fun. Teachers as well as students partake in this everyday ritual of strengthening skills.

Sharing Work, Ideas, and Services

Many clubs organize, work together, and share ideas throughout the course of the year. Each club, whether it be chess club or FHA, serves the purpose of allowing the student to share with other students, to learn to work with others, and to further specialize the student's interests. Every club in some manner helps a student to learn about and develop his individual interests.

Fun via Experiences

Many activities around M.H.S. that serve no useful purpose other than developing school spirit and being fun are such things as hall decorating, float building, playing in the pep band, singing a song for the team, and acting a fool at a pep session. These are fun experiences for everyone involved.

These activities give the student a chance to work with different people and perhaps make new friends.

There are other activities that many students get involved in that are also fun but are extracurricular. Such things would be starring in the choir musical, playing a role in a drama presentation, or playing in the band for a performance. These activities give the student a chance to use and display his particular talent. It gives the young performer experience on the stage.

Athletics are a vital part of most high school programs. They involve many students in their activities. Girls are now allowed to participate in non-contact sports increasing the number of eligible participants from just boys to all students. Athletics build the school spirit. They are designed to build character and physical strength in a young body. They help teach teamwork and self-discipline. Athletics are more than winning or losing a contest. They play a major role in the development of the person that participates in the program.

Experiences

M.H.S.'ers have opportunities to grow socially, physically, and mentally; and they do visibly proceed from awkwardness to sophistication. Without participating in curricular and extra-curricular experiences, students miss the fun of school; and they lose pride in their school. Most students do take part in the program; and to a visitor, Mooresville is a happy school, full of lively, active students.

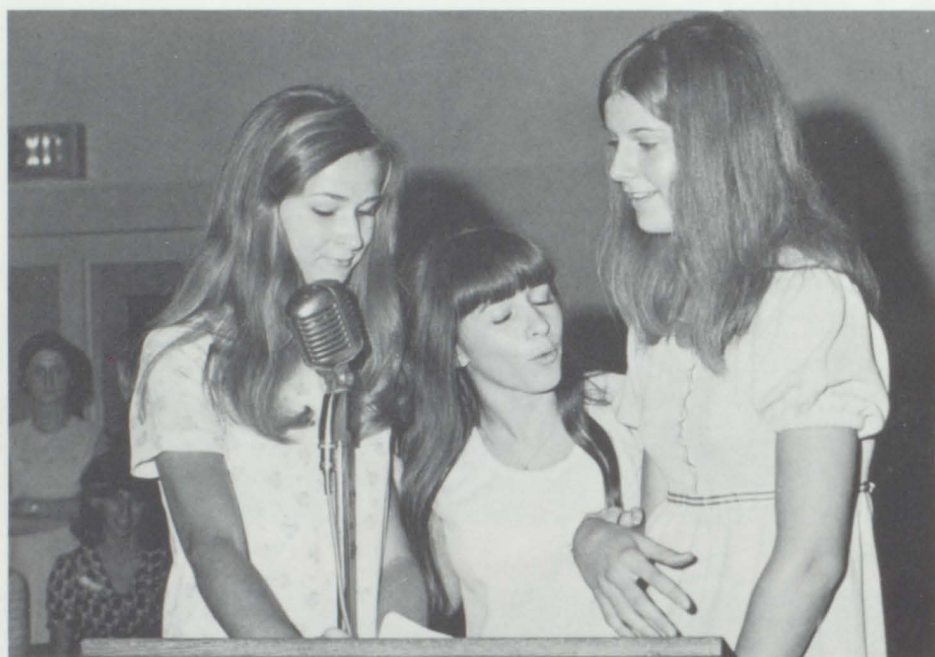

CALENDAR OF EVENTS 1972-73

August 28 marked the beginning of the 1972-73 school year. Since Seniors were not required to attend the first day, Honor Society members volunteered to help teachers on enrollment day at the grade schools.

September's events included the taking of underclass pictures and the annual Junior magazine sales. Honor Society held their fall tapping ceremony at a special convocation for the student body. Initiation took place the following evening with a candlelight ceremony.

The guidance office sponsored College Night on October 3. Several Indiana colleges were represented, and they brought valuable information for college-bound students. October 13 marked the day of Homecoming festivities, and students were entertained on this day with a Campus Life sponsored convocation featuring a singing group "Under New Management". The group brought to students the special message of "brotherly love" and tried to express it through their music. The tennis team won the Mid-State Conference which completed their undefeated season. With the end of October came Halloween, and Honor Society members donned costumes and paraded from room to room singing "Gobblingrams" to students and teachers.

Friday, October 13, 1972, was the day set for Homecoming, one of the biggest events of the year. School was dismissed at 10:45 for parent-teacher conferences. Instead of returning to their homes, students were seen at various places putting the finishing touches on their floats.

Even though the Pioneers had failed to win any of the previous games, the stands were still filled for the Homecoming game against Cascade. At one end of the field, an "M" was set afire symbolizing the Pioneer Spirit. The Pioneers couldn't quite pull it through, though, we lost 0-19.

Halftime arrived; finally, the rewards were given and received for weeks of unending toil on the class floats. The Juniors were awarded first place for "Skunk Em," the Sophomores finished second with "The Victory is Hours." The Seniors were third with "It's Plane to See We're Pioneering a Victory," and the Freshmen were fourth with "Ring the Victory Bell."

Linda Park was the Senior girl chosen as 1972 Homecoming Queen. Sophomore Linda Eaker was selected 1972 Homecoming Princess.

JAN GOODMAN IS MISS WAGON TRAILS

The annual Wagon Trails Revue was held on October 28 in the high school gym. The revue was a variety of acts which displayed the talents of many M.H.S. students and local talents. The show opened with the Flagtown Steppers who entertained us with their square dancing. Emmet Kelly visited us again and demonstrated the use of the senior paddle on Police Officer Mayo. Other outstanding acts of the evening were: the "Three Little Children," "The Lemmon Sisters," dancing numbers by some of the Kadettes, and singing numbers. The "Identifiers," a local, spiritual singing group closed the show with some musical numbers.

The highlight of the evening was the Miss Wagon Trails Pagaent. The title of Miss Wagon Trails 1973 was awarded to a senior, Jan Goodman. Chosen for Miss Junior Class was Shelly Hiatt, and for Miss Sophomore Class was Sandy Helton. Charrie Rutledge was Miss Freshman Class. The girls were judged on poise and beauty by volunteer judges from local businesses.

FALL SPORTS BANQUET

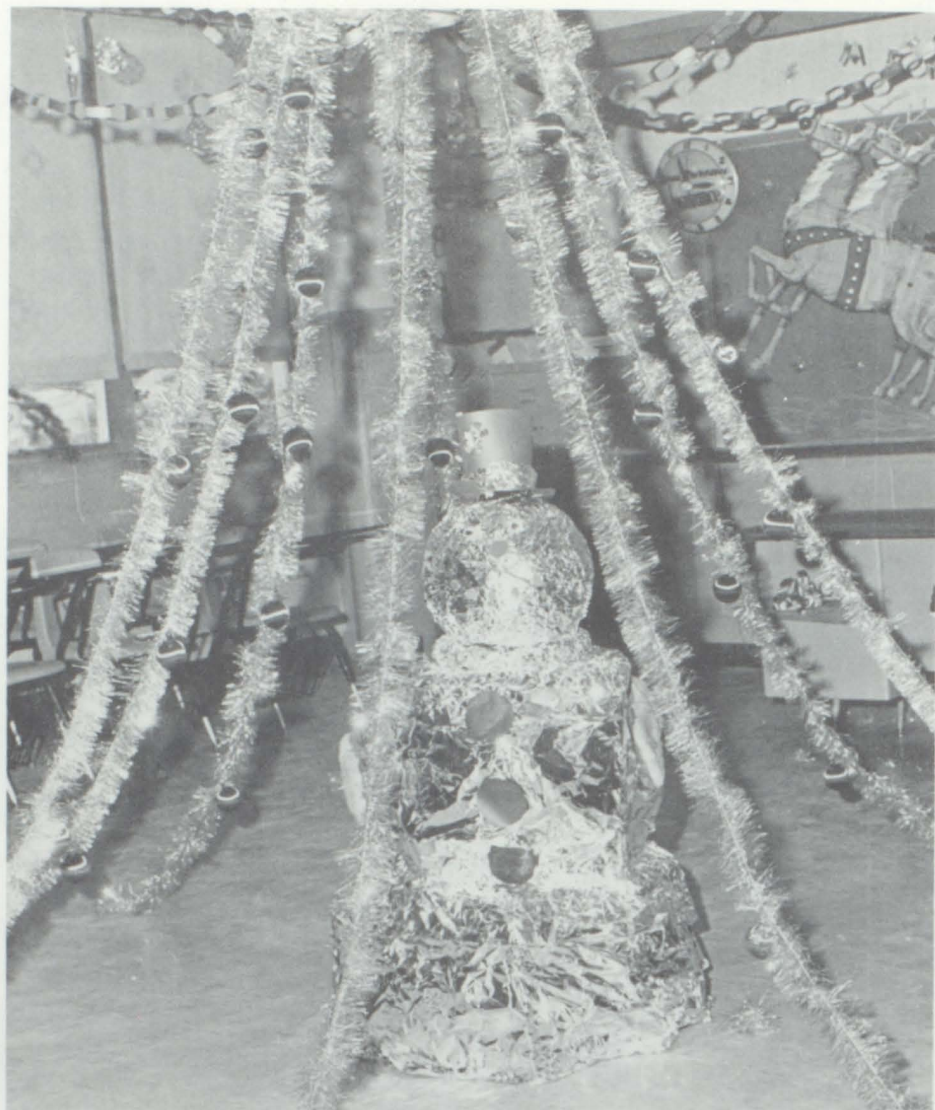

The Fall Sports Banquet was held on November 10 to honor those athletes who participated in football and cross country. Mr. Wendall Thaler, president of the athletic boosters, presided over the ceremonies. Mr. Baker, the varsity football coach, introduced his team and presented awards. Mr. Graves presented the cross country awards to his team.

Santa's Elves Strike

This year many students and teachers became involved in the room-decorating contest. When one walked into some of the rooms, he saw mobiles hanging from the ceiling, German bells, or a snowman made of foil. Christmas carols were ringing through the halls in four different languages: French, Spanish, German, and English.

Students were dismissed to the gym at 9:30 for the Christmas convocation. Mr. Pelley was the guest speaker while the speech team put on a skit in which Santa's elves were striking for better working hours. The band played and the choir sang. The awards were given for room decorations, Mr. Alexander received 1st place,

Mr. New received 2nd place, and Miss Gordon and Mrs. Bowman tied for 3rd. Students were then dismissed for Christmas vacation. Some students went to jobs, some left on family trips, and some just went home. At any rate everyone was glad to have the two weeks off.

Sophomores Win Hall Decorations

January brought the ending of one semester and the beginning of another with all of its events. One of the highlight convocations of the second semester was the presentation of the "History of Rock and Roll" sponsored by WIFE radio. M. H. S. had two trophy winners during the first few weeks of second semester. They were the Speech Team and the wrestling team, who won the Wrestling Regionals.

With the ending of basketball season came the Sectionals, and the Pioneers expressed their never-dying school spirit as the games drew near. Loyal fans worked very hard to carry out their hall decoration theme ideas. The sophomores won the contest with the theme "We're Betting on a Victory." Seniors took second place for "Victories Are Made in Heaven."

Third place was awarded to the Junior class theme of "Somewhere Over the Rainbow, There Is a Victory." The freshmen were given fourth place for "We've got the Key to Victory." On Wednesday, February 21, the Pioneers journeyed to Brownsburg with hopes of bringing home a victory. However, M. H. S. was defeated by the Danville Warriors with a score of 75-66.

AWARDS

For the first time at M.H.S., student council sponsored ceremonies for those twenty-three students who graduated mid-term. Jim Many, student body president, gave the opening followed by the speakers for the evening, Jeff Quillen, senior class vice-president, and Mr. Curry, school superintendent. Refreshments were served, and Mr. Keller had his picture taken with the new graduates.

This year the sports banquets were divided into three different categories, fall, winter, and spring. The winter sports banquet was on March 9. Wendall Thaler, president of the athletic boosters, gave the opening and then everyone had dinner. Mr. Ricketts gave the awards to the basketball team first. Terry Reed received the most valuable player award. George Kopetsky was awarded most improved and Doug Sheridan received the award for best free throw percentage. Then it was Mr. Qualitza's turn for the wrestling awards. Ron Bean received most valuable wrestler and Jeff Graham and Chuck McKain tied for the most pins. Then the wrestling team was presented with a trophy for the Regionals at Decatur Central.

50's Day

This year, for a change in pace, the F.H.A. sponsored Teenangel Day. On April 4th, 1973, students at M.H.S. came to school dressed in black leather jackets, tight blue jeans, saddle oxfords, and bobby socks. Boys slicked back their hair, and girls wore red lipstick. At the end of the day, all students and teachers were judged for the best dressed boy and girl students and teachers. George Kopetsky and Linda Park were the students and Mr. Gregory and Mrs. S. Stewart were the teachers. The award? a bottle of 7-Up

Production

Each year, M.H.S. has two major musical productions, Musical Varieties, put on by the band, and the Musical put on by the choir. Both shows started practice several months before each was to be presented. The stage crews worked diligently to create the atmosphere of either an Austrian dorf or a railroad station, depending on which show they were working for. Many students and teachers put in a lot of time and hard work for after school and evening rehearsals. Needless to say, both shows were great.

APPLE BLOSSOM SPRING

At nine o'clock on May 12, 1973, the doors to the 500 Ballroom were opened and the students from M.H.S. entered "Apple Blossom Spring," the theme for the 1973 prom. The Jerry Kendrick Combo played for the formal event of the year. Susan Fuller, a senior at M.H.S. joined them for one number singing "We've Only Just Begun." There was punch and cookies, and pictures in an apple blossom garden. The tables had rose bowls with colored and scented candles floating in them. The sophomore class furnished hosts and hostesses who served punch and handed out memory books and favors. The highlight of the evening was the coronation, which saw Diane Dunn and Jeff Quillen as queen and king.

A "Hobo Railroad" greeted the students as they returned from the prom. There were different games to play, a dart throw, frisbee throw, and a tricycle basketball game. It was possible to win tickets at each of the games which could be used at the hobo shack for prizes. In a caboose at one end of the gym were hot dogs, cokes and brownies. Each of the students attending received a bandana and a tin cup as memories of the post prom of 1973.

had been presented, the underclassmen were dismissed to return to classes by the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" which was led by Tony DeBoor. The seniors remained in the gym for commencement practice in which Mr. Keller gave instructions as to when to report and be lined up for May 20, 1973. That day was the climax of their high school careers.

Sharing

Clubs organize to teach their members about a particular interest. They show the member what it's all about in their field. The club also helps to teach the student how to work and communicate with other people. The member has a chance to share his ideas and have fun in a social organization.

Care-Free Gum Contest Coordinated by Student Council

Student Council supervised Homecoming Festivities, class elections, seasonal convocations, and special convocations. The Care-Free Gum Contest was also sponsored by the Student Council. AFS Sponsors Exchange Student

AFS sponsored bringing Dung Khanh Pham to Mooresville High. To help with the expenses for the foreign exchange students, they sold charms, sponsored a glass recycling project, and collected dues. This was the first year for AFS; and they started off with a guest speaker, David Ryder, who spoke on the topic, Americans Abroad. The main plan for the future is to bring another exchange student to MHS. Officers were Sherry Keith, Arlene Goins, Nan Swinney, and Andy Ventrone.

Science Can Be Fun!

This year the Science Club was involved in activities associated with the fields of Chemistry, Physics, Biology and Geology. At one meeting the members experimented with chemicals which reacted rather vigorously. The members learned more about fast and slow oxidation from this activity. A study of the basic ideas of electricity was conducted at one of the club meetings.

Greenhand Initiations Held at Martinsville

Future plans were on the minds of the FFA members. Plans for renting a portion of ground for a demonstration plot came closer to reality because of the selling of candy, citrus fruit, and garden seeds. The District FFA Foundation kick-off was held at Triton Central High School. All officers from the Mooresville chapter were in attendance. A program on student loans was explained by a representative of the Farm Home Administration office at Shelbyville. The Scholarship award was given to the student enrolled in agriculture and a member of FFA who had worked hard enough to become the top scholastic student in FFA over a six-week period. The student received the pin during meetings and returned it if he did not maintain the highest grades the following six weeks. The joint meetings of Greenhand Initiation of Mooresville and Martinsville was held at

Honor Dilemma

Teamwork

Sports introduces to a young person the qualities of leadership and teamwork. It helps each person to be able to sacrifice himself to attain the ultimate goal. It also turns young people into men and women by teaching them how to work.

Runners Finish First Season On New Course

Starting the season, the harriers were composed of mainly inexperienced runners with only two returning lettermen, Don Lasley and Jeff Robinson. The harriers obtained their first victory from Greenwood after dropping five meets. After a disappointing loss to Whiteland, the Pioneers won their next two meets over Cascade and Danville. Their last win of the season was a victory over Indian Creek. The Pioneers finished their season with a 7th place in the Mid-State Conference meet. Dale Graves completed his second year as coach.

Season

Beginning the year with six returning lettermen, the Pioneers were looking forward to bettering last year's record. After losing the opening game to Martinsville, the gridders suffered the loss of three lettermen because of injuries during the Greenwood game. Coach Baker was then forced to fill the positions with inexperienced players. Playing against teams comprised of mainly seniors, the Pioneers lacked the offensive punch and defensive stability to establish a winning drive. After losing game after game, the Pioneers fought onward, looking toward their first victory which never came.

Reserve, Freshmen Compile 5-9-1 Record

After tying with Center Grove in the opening game, the reserve team, coached by Norb Johnson and Mark Brewer, lost their next three games. A strong comeback gave them their first victory over Avon. One more loss and a win over Danville completed the season with a 2-4-1 record.

Freshmen coaches Greg Silver and Denny Pelley guided the team to a 3-5 season record. After winning over Brownsburg in the opening game, the frosh gridders lost their next three games. A forfeit from Monrovia brought the Pioneers their second victory. The freshmen then beat Cascade after dropping two games, but could not pick up a winning drive and lost to Speedway.

Consisting of only freshmen and sophomores, this year's reserve wrestling team grappled their way to a season record of 3 wins and 7 losses. In the M.H.S. Reserve Invitational, in which the reserves placed seventh, Mike Murphy proved victorious and won his weight class—giving him a record of 17 wins and no losses for the season.

This year's freshmen wrestling team, coached by Ron Moore, had a season record of 6-1; their only loss was to Decatur Central. The frosh wrestlers had seven first-place finishes in the Freshmen Invitational at Center Grove and won the Mid-State Conference by a thirty-eight point margin, finishing with eight firsts.

Cagers Complete Second Season Under Coach Ricketts

Our Pioneer netters, coached by Dale Ricketts, ended the season with a record of 1 win and 20 losses. After losing a tight game to Brownsburg in the opener, the cagers lost 18 straight until morale tightened up and they pulled a victory from Brown County. Going against Indian Creek in the last game of the season, the players came close and went into overtime, only to lose by a technical foul. MHS faced Danville in the first round of the IHSAA sectionals, but the hopes of the Pioneers were crushed as they lost a hard-fought game by a score of 75-66.

Cheerleaders

Promote Spirit At MHS

Throughout the fall, winter, and spring sports programs, our cheerleaders worked hard to build school spirit and to support our teams. These girls proved their dedication by making posters, planning skits for pep sessions, and giving breakfasts for the teams. They remained faithful to MHS even when our teams were defeated. Our cheerleaders combined their ideas and thoughts in an effort to obtain a better year for 1972-73.

Learning

Learning deals with more than just the students attending class, doing homework, and participating in class. Students must want to learn from their advisors in order to gain knowledge. The vast area of subjects taught at MHS makes the students grow mentally as well as physically.

Public Speakers, Reporters

Students in the Language Arts Department enjoyed something different from the everyday classroom schedules. English, Literature, and Composition classes saw a variety of different films this year. Among these were MacBeth, Portrait of Jenny, and Majority of One. Themes were not the everyday classroom schedules. Some topics were syzygy, eulogy of a teacher, comparison of poetry, discussing Hamlet, and a character analysis.

This year, journalism dealt with a mass media of newspapers, magazines, radio, and television. Students learned to write news stories, editorials, sports, features, advertising, and radio newscasts. Debbie Spoon and Roy Spencer attended a workshop last summer in Ohio to learn more about journalism for Campus Crier.

Dick Shuck, a student teacher from Ball State University, did his student teaching under Mrs. Stewart. Some of the speeches of the Speech I class were to inform, to persuade, a discussion, and a demonstration. In Speech II, the students worked on oral interpretation and play production.

The Language Arts Department may influence students to become public speakers, reporters, or writers.

This year the Foreign Language Department differed in many aspects. The AFS International Scholarship members helped bring Dung Khanh Pham to MHS, the advanced French class wrote plays, 3rd year German class kept journals and wrote a radio play that was put on tape, and 4th year Spanish class wrote plays for puppets. German students had Mrs. Wetzel, a consultant, come to help them with their pronunciation; and the Spanish students had Doctor Fontana from DePauw University come to speak on what foreign languages are like in college and how Spanish is important in different areas of the United States. With the help of these two people, homework from books, and the use of the language lab, one hundred fifty Spanish students, fifty-five German students, and seventy French students tried to carry on conversations in the different languages.

The foreign language classes at MHS would help students become stewardesses or interpreters because of the ability to speak a foreign language.

Stewardesses, Interpreters

Secretaries, Accountants

work takes Beth Whitaker's time. Lower left: Mary Christofferson takes dictation in Shorthand II. Lower right: Max Milner and his classmates feel that Recordkeeping class is exciting, even with all the work that has to be done.

Students in business courses worked with different forms to learn the courses that they took. Secretarial Office Practice studied duplicating during the Christmas season, made recipe booklets for the teachers, and mimeographed a four page folder. Bookkeeping and typing did practice sets along with discovering the basic fundamental in each. Bookkeeping students had a Singer adding machine to help with their bookkeeping problems, and typing had five new Royal manual typewriters to aid in the student's typing.

Businesses will be grateful to MHS when we turn out secretaries and accountants!

Contemporary writing led the number of new books bought this year in the library. Some were bought with $500 donated by the Tri Kappa Sorority from the used book sales. It was also used to buy supplies and to make big pillows for seating. The students use of the library depended on when he had time to use it. He could use it during class periods if he had a pass, before or after school, and when his entire class was using it as a group. The library also was used for displaying work of the Social Studies, English, and Art Departments.

Mrs. Beaver and the student aids made it easier for students and teachers. Mrs. Beaver had the task of handling the Audio Visual equipment for the first time. Student aids helped a student when he needed help, worked with some equipment, and checked books in and out.

The MHS library gives students the idea of what being librarians would be like.

and Marta Murphy dropped in to talk and to socialize with Cindy Gregory in the library during 4th period.

Scientists, Chemists

Science Department courses, physics, general science, earth science, biology, Chemistry I, and Chemistry II performed experiments in the different scientific areas. Newton's Laws were demonstrated in the physics class by an experiment with the air track. Biology students almost fainted when they pricked their fingers in order to type their blood. In first year chemistry, the students learned what they needed to pass and to advance on to the second year chemistry course. One experiment in first year chemistry was the performance of distillation. A challenging experiment in second year was determining the valence of a metal. The chemistry classes received a new cathod-ray tube this year.

Freshmen up to seniors, some students of MHS are preparing to become scientists and chemists as their future vocation.

Cartmell at the board. Lower center: Some students are not concentrating on their Algebra II! Lower right: Students use their study time to the best of their ability, but Paul Newcomer is learning to read upside down!

Mathematicians, Professors

There were different activities in the classes of our Math Department: general math, Algebra I, Algebra II, geometry, analytic geometry, senior math, trigonometry, college algebra, and basic math. During the Christmas season, the department participated in the room decorating contest. The theme of the geometry room was "Christmas in Geometry." Most of the classes had students participate in making mobiles and window and door decorations. Geometry students also did curve stitching projects, research papers on a math topic during the year, and the department showed a film on the metric system.

Mathematicians and professors would receive a great deal of benefit in training from our Math Department courses taught at MHS.

Social Workers, Psychologists

Our Social Studies Department consists of history, world history, geography, world geography, economics, psychology, sociology, international relations, U.S. government, civics, and family relations. By taking these classes, our students realized the different areas that made up the world around him. The teacher's methods of teaching plus the student's will to learn made up a combination of understanding that helped the student work his way to an education.

In Mr. Silvers' history classes they had a mock election in order to help the students understand the voting procedure. Government classes played football in which the students were asked questions and had to answer them correctly in order to advance forward on the field. Economic classes played monopoly so that they would understand the dangers of monopolies.

Available jobs in the field of social studies are sociologists, psychologists, lawyers, and social workers.

through different parts of Citizens Bank in Mooresville on a field trip to acquaint the students with the bank.

Advice

Everyone knows how difficult it is to begin life with no help from anyone. M.H.S.'s faculty helps to enable students leaving high school, after graduation, to enter the many different vocational and professional worlds. Among these, students entering the business world and the agricultural world and those who intend to further their knowledge by entering college are given advice and are taught by the administrators and teachers those skills which will help the students choose their careers.

Acquaintances

Everyday students of M.H.S. are making new acquaintances. They meet many different types of people which differ in religious beliefs, race types, political backgrounds, and various other beliefs. As the seniors graduate, they will be in a totally different world than that of the underclassmen. Some will be out on their own which will bring many new challenges to their ways of life.

Good leaders bring class

Senior class of 1973 had 220 members—being the largest class to graduate from M.H.S. We had a foreign exchange student and 23 mid-term graduates. Having the largest Honor Society ever at M.H.S., our class was ranked the highest academically with 33% college bound.

Senior activities were: building Homecoming float; decorating Sectional Halls; publishing the Senior Paper; getting senior paddles; taking the Achievement Test in May; boys taking Home Economics and The Betty Crocker Test, being members of FHA, and attending Indianapolis Skill Center; and 21 seniors being Cadet Teachers.

May 20, 1973, Baccalaureate services and graduation exercises were carried out to the theme of our class motto—"Make Your Fondest Dreams Become Tomorrow's Reality."

We selected our officers for leadership qualities. Seated in car—Pam Gregory, Secretary; Larry Sauerma, President; David Asher, Treasurer; Jeff Quillen, V-Pres.

Freshmen and sophomores had Physical Education one semester during the year. Freshmen boys and girls shared the gym but did not participate in co-ed activities; however, the sophomore classes had co-ed classes and participated in volleyball, bowling, and square dancing. Boys who bowled high scores and were league bowlers were Mike Harvey, Mark Hood, and Richard Squires. Non-league bowlers with high scores were Mike Riggs, Brent George, and Roger Neitzel. Non-league bowlers for the girls with high scores were Rhonda Powers and Terri Haymaker. Donna Rosebrough, from Ball State University, was the girls' student teacher.

In health, the students learned the systems of the body, mental health, sex education, the importance of food and nutrition, the bad effects of using drugs, alcohol, and tobacco, and First Aid Safety. As a semester research project, the students were required to research a health topic and present it to the class.

Health classes at MHS might help students to become doctors, and physical education classes could make students better athletes.

ing a favorite book as Tylor Rainbolt is shown doing in Mr. Moore's 4th period class.

Artists, Designers

At Christmas-time, 7-up cans were donated to the art students by students, teachers, and anyone who wanted to donate them. 183 cans were donated by the students and 300 cans by the 7-up Company. With the 483 cans, Mr. Kelly Maxfield constructed a Christmas tree that weighed 80½ lbs., had a circumference of 12'6", and stood 7½' tall. Jeff Justice and Kelly Sheets helped assemble the tree in the art room. Art students brightened up the MHS doors by painting holiday designs on them. The senior art students exhibited their art work during the second semester.

Art students of MHS may decide as their future vocation to become artists or designers.

Composers, Musicians

Varsity Choir started having a pre-Christmas sale of Christmas goods in December. Along with the Girl's Glee Club, they sang at Lafayette Square during the afternoon of December 14 and sang on the Circle that evening. On December 17, the choirs of MHS gave a Christmas concert in the gym. On January 27, 64 solos and 5 ensemble participated in the district contest. Twenty-three of the 64 people who sang solos received a first division rating, and six of the 15 ensemble groups also received a first division rating. As the year went on 150 students prepared for the musical production of "The Sound of Music."

A concert was held in December and February and approximately 20 students participated in the band contest in April. The 96 member band went to the Indiana Pacer game on January 23 where they played tunes while the kadettes performed a pre-game and a half-time show. One of the last events of the year was the Variety Show with the theme "Movin' Right Along."

If students were to become composers or musicians, they would have practice from the MHS Music Department.

Driving with drugs and a crash driving course at the GM Testing Center were examples of films showed during the first three weeks of Drivers' Training. Driving students led discussions, worked worksheets, and gave reports on these subjects.

Driving groups consisted of 3 people and 4 groups in each class. These groups drove to Plainfield, Martinsville, Indianapolis, and towns in surrounding counties. Driving ability, as well as the classroom average, was an important factor for students who were wavered. They obtained a B+ average in both. One hundred thirty-two students took Drivers' Ed during the school year and 264 during the summer.

Drivers' Ed may inspire students to become truck drivers and instructors in the future.

Dieticians, Housewives

Co-ed Home Ec. 4's was offered to seniors only. They cooked once a week; and the boys sometimes out-did the girls said Mrs. Harrington. She also said that Bruce Henson tried to broil a piece of meat in the storage department of the stove! She said Charles Hite caught a napkin on fire, and Diane Ratliff tried to blow it out! Frank Wilson used flour to put it out but left a two inch pile on the top of the stove!

Norma Hall and Cathy DeMoss designed outstanding dream houses as a semester project for the furnishings class. In Clothing I, Jowanna Amick did an outstanding job on a long sleeveless dress said Miss Logan; and Elaine Gunter made a pantsuit. Miss Logan thought they all did an outstanding job.

Home economics prepares the students of MHS for the world of dieticians and housewives.

Drafting, printing, woods, metals, and auto mechanics were the classes in the Industrial Arts Department. Drafting gave the knowledge of the drafting symbols and the language of this field by using these to the best of the student's ability. This class received a new White Printing Machine and some model homes. Printing gave the student a better understanding of the printing field by having the student print different materials. Printing classes printed the school newspaper this year. Woods and metals helped the student understand the jobs of carpentry and metal working by doing jobs with metal and wood. Auto Mechanics was a new class added this year which helped the student understand the automobile by working with it. To help the class get started, Mr. Riley, the drafting teacher at MHS, donated a car for the class to rebuild and to sell; Thompson Auto Supply donated a Cylinder Boring Machine; and the class received a new Snap-On Energy Analyzer and Craftsmen hand tools.

Our Industrial Arts Department may help students of MHS become skilled mechanics and craftsmen.

Juniors Work Together to Form Leadership

Class of '74 had its first taste of victory with a winning float. Their "Skunk-Em" float also traveled to Martinsville for third place in the Fall Foliage Parade and to Plainfield for the Forest Tucker Parade. Charlene McKinney and Darleah Eubank represented the class as Homecoming Princess candidates. Miss Junior Class candidates were: Shelley Hiatt, Debbie Patrum, Becky Tipmore, and Kathy Norton, with Miss Hiatt taking the title at the Wagon Trails Review.

At sectional time, Juniors failed to find a victory with "Somewhere Over the Rainbow", but with prom planning near, the loss was only a small defeat. Apple Blossoms provided a theme memorable to many, after a year of magazine sales, concessions, and many other fund raising campaigns.

Looking forward to their senior year, juniors chose dark and light green as their colors and the daisy as their flower. "Man does not find life worth living, but makes it worth living" became their theme as their last year at MHS came into sight.

Below: Making flowers is a large part of the work necessary for a winning float.

Spirited Sophomores Enter Second Year at

Entering their second year at M.H.S., the class of 1975 looked to the coming year with much determination and enthusiasm. Spirit ran high when their float, "Victory is Hours," placed second in the Homecoming competition. Linda Eaker was crowned Homecoming Princess. The class ring committee was selected and the rings were ordered and anxiously awaited. The prom steering committee was chosen and the "74" prom was in sight. A well deserved first was awarded for their "Bettin' on a Victory" casino theme in the annual sectional hall decoration contest. With the support and expert guidance of Mrs. Betty Roberts and Mr. Norbert Johnson, the Sophomores were successful in completing a very rewarding, fun-filled year.

Community

Growing up in the community, we find the businesses of the community a vital part in student development in MHS. With each new school year, more students are growing in knowledge and are waiting for their chance in the business world. Realizing this, merchants aid the students with many opportunities to learn about business. Merchants supply jobs, teach skills, and offer their services to the students; thus preparing students in the field of business. The progress of the community is truly a part in the growth of a student in MHS.

1972-1973 Wagon Trails Staff

After looking at how Mooresville High School helps to mold the student, we sincerely must thank those merchants who have faithfully supported our efforts to portray our school to those looking in. We appreciate this support—for without it, our work could never begin. We, the 1973 Wagon Trails Staff, would like to thank everyone involved in the producing of this publication. A special thanks goes to the 1973 Wagon Trails Staff.

Sincerely,

Jeff Patchett
