Junior Jennifer McGlauchlin smiles broadly at the comments she receives on "Dork Day." Many students dressed the part during Sectionals week.

Cleaning out chemistry equipment is part of senior Andy Duncan's job during a lab. Chemistry students worked in labs along with classroom studies.

Running out of the reach of opponents is one of senior Todd Cochenour's specialties. Football games were an exciting part of student life.

With a toss of a rifle, Mr. Stan Emerson is transformed into a member of "Guarders." This group, and others like it, performed at many convocations.
The spirit of ...

The silent halls were livened by the sounds of new shoes and students greeting one another. Unique individuals associated with a variety of backgrounds, activities, and people, came together to form a unit. This unit represented our school, our pride, and our future.

The students were taught by one faculty of teachers, studied in one common environment, and shared the outcomes of events which took place after school. Students bonded with one common goal; to make Mooresville High School stand out among all others. When personalities, talents, and skills came together as one, victory was almost definite.

As extra curricular activities were a big part of the school year, many MHS students strived for success as others lent their support. Sharing their joys, their tears, and their dreams, Mooresville High School students grew into one body, one personality, a student body with the spirit of one.

By Ryan Milburn

Showing off her acting skills, Stephanie Van Vlymen participates in the Drama Club's production of "Santa Sees a Shrink." The Drama Club and other organizations held convocations during school which gave students a break from class.
After blowing by Evansville Reitz in the Regional Championship, football team members celebrate. They were honored in the gym following the victory.

Senior soloist Derek Osstrum "toots his horn" for the football crowd. The Pioneer Band and Guard provided entertainment during halftime.

Members of the Pioneer basketball team show their enthusiasm in a game against the Bloomington South Panthers. They were victorious many times throughout the season.

"There was nothing like varsity football on Friday nights. Being out on the field in front of all of your friends really gets you excited."

--Brad Sturm
"Pep sessions were very important. They gave the students a chance to get involved in activities and get the teams fired up for competition."
--Paige Miller

In a convocation during school, senior Scott Lundy and the Spotlighters perform "Rhythm Nation" from their spring show. The show was later taken to several area competitions.

Awaiting the opening tip-off, basketball team members huddle to discuss last minute preparations before the contest. Large and boisterous fans frequented many of the home games which proved that Pioneer spirit was second to none.

Showing her school spirit by dressing up as a "Dork" during spirit week, Robin "Pee-Wee" Knop tutors her new found friend. The Cheerleaders tried, throughout the year, to get everyone involved by holding various dress-up days.
After battling the alarm clock, students strolled into the halls of their second home. Friendly greetings use for "lunch," and hostile remarks echoed. "Lunch is the only time of the day that I get to see my friends," said senior Darlene Eastes. MHS constituted a big part of life for many. By indulging in activities other than academics, students discovered opportunities for learning different from those found in textbooks. Convocations created a special spice to add to the ordinary day of homework, classroom lectures, and hallway traffic jams. The rush to the school bus and an occasional wait on the stoop for mom concluded many days at MHS. Some only to return for another.

By Ryan Milburn and Sandy Parrott

Students laugh as senior Jeff Overholser tells Santa his wishes for school year. Many teachers and students decorated classrooms and hallways to celebrate the Christmas season.
"School spirit was great this year. I think spirit is reflected by athletic success. When the team does well the fans are great."
--Todd Cochenour

Pioneer Guard members Jennifer Doyle, Leslee Sachs, Heather Moore, and Cheryl Gibbs anticipate a performance in front of the student body. Hours of hard work paid off as the group was successful in competition.

As members of the "Ten Little Indians" cast gather around, Drama Club member Robin Knop portrays the death of Antonio Marsden. "Ten Little Indians" showcased eleven members of the club and was the group's major production.

Mouth wide and teeth glaring, junior Spotlighter member Angel Shillings performs a song titled "Taking the Narrow Street" as part of the group's spring show. The Spotlighters spent many hours after school preparing for competitions.
As students back-tracked through the day to remember homework assignments, traffic in the hallways accumulated. Though some ventured toward the parking lot, others remained at school to participate in extracurricular activities.

Some worked on drama productions while others practiced for the speech team or indulged in the cuisine of foreign lands.

School sports required athletes to spend great amounts of time running laps, lifting weights, and polishing fundamentals. “At the beginning of the year things can be difficult,” said junior volleyball member Janelle Beebe. “But things get easier as time goes on.”

The struggles of athletic, band, and choir practices went hand in hand with the competitions which also required after school time. “Spotlighter practices are very long and tedious,” said senior Jeff Overholser. “But, performing in front of a crowd makes all the work worthwhile.”

By Ryan Milburn and Sandy Parrott

Junior Pep Band member Dean Zlatinski helps the basketball team pound their way to victory during a home game. The Pep Band provided arousing music and great support throughout the season.
"We knew our class pride was at stake, so we knew we had to win. That was our motivation for victory."
--Brad Phillips

Aaron Patrick and Ray Lucas, juniors, watch the action in the stands. Juniors were announced champions of the overall competition at the carnival.

Showing the excitement that led them to victory, seniors display their pride. The class defeated the freshmen by a score of 18-0 in the final game at the carnival.

Sophomore sponsor Dale Graves shows his frustration from the busy week. Classes worked on floats several weeks before the actual week of Homecoming began.
Bright colors and mismatching stripes zig-zagged through the hallways as Homecoming '89 got underway. The week started with "clash" day and continued with Hawiian, hippie, and hex day.

The annual bonfire allowed for senior football players to voice their feelings about their game against the Franklin Grizzly Cubs. "I think the bonfire allowed us to become closer to the players and see their point of view," commented senior Dennis Dunham.

The anticipated day arrived and blue and gold "splashed" through the halls. Although the dreary weather put a damper on many of the Homecoming festivities, it was impossible to dampen the spirit of MHS students as they herded to the football field.

The festival was the test to see if they could unite in the spirit of one to give the support needed for Friday's battle. The afternoon activities ended with, "Go Blue, Beat Franklin," resounding through the damp air.

By Heather Davis

Several students display their school spirit through "Hippie" clothing and attitudes. The entire week of Homecoming was dedicated to raising school spirit and pride.
The game could have gone either way. We just made too many mistakes during crucial situations."
-- Ryan Milburn

Conducting the band’s performance during the halftime activities is senior Amanda Curtis. This was Amanda’s second year as drum major.

Taking down the opponent is senior Allen Young, as fellow class member Shawn Witt runs in to help. Allen assisted in many tackles and key plays during the game.

Radiating her happiness and joy, Queen Kim Miller looks into the crowd of anxious spectators. Kim was an athlete and student body president during her senior year.
The night of the “big” game the fatal blow as the team arrived in a fit of anticipation. As the football team breaker to the Cubs, 7-6, burst onto the field, fireworks “Even though we lost, erupted in the damp night air. everybody stood and The blazing letters “Go cheered for the team Blue” fired up the crowd, because, up until the last and senior Todd Cochenour second, we thought we scored the first touchdown could win,” said junior to give the Pioneers a 6-0 Robert Hubbard. After lead at halftime. the stands had cleared, the

During halftime, Kim lights turned off, and the Miller was announced teams had gone home, there Homecoming queen and junior Wendy Evans, princess. hanging in the air, letting

Then Franklin’s Grizzly everyone know that Cubs scored a touchdown Mooresville was still num-against the undefeated Pio- neers, which proved to be

By Heather Davis
I enjoyed being in the Revue; it was a lot of fun. I liked hearing the applause. Everyone likes to know they are appreciated.

--Shawn Witt

With great concentration, spotlighters Ryan Burnette and Michelle VanHuss perform "All the Things You Are." The spotlighters enhanced the audience with choreography and music.

With excitement and enthusiasm, Genesis celebrates the "Fiesta" with bright colors and energetic songs. Freshmen performed "Do-Re-Mi," a hit from The Sound of Music, as the second half of their show.

Putting on the finishing touches, junior Kaci Brown and senior Yvette Kirk get ready for the first performance of the spotlighters. Behind the scenes activities were an important aspect of the show.
Amidst the applause and a flowing blue curtain, students provided a variety of entertainment for the audience of the 19th annual Wagon Trails Revue. The sounds of instruments and the voices of choirs traveled through the air as spotlights danced upon the crowded stage.

Individual acts intermingled with the traditional commercials provided by the yearbook staff. "I felt like I had four years of wanting to sing at the Revue bottled up inside me," said Senior Brenda Clements. "That first night it was really awesome to be able to perform. It was one of the most exciting things that has ever happened to me."

The Revue concluded with a blast from the past as the audience gazed upon a slide show prepared by Mr. Robert Grosskreutz. "I think things went a lot better than we expected," said junior Vocalise member Rachel Bare. "We were prepared for the worst. So, I guess the Revue was another success."

By Sandy Parrott

Making their debut appearance, Irving (Ryan Milburn) and Myrtle (Amy Crose) advertise the importance of remembering to buy a yearbook. Commercials by the yearbook staff brought a touch of humor to the Revue.
"The teachers here at Mooresville seem to really care about their students. For me, they have become more like friends than just teachers."
--Erin Collins

Senior Tim Viles eagerly pecks away at a keyboard while completing a program for his PASCAL class. Computers proved to be convenient for students throughout the school year.

Protecting his face, senior Brad Phillips shrieks as his teacher and classmates test a law of physics. Hand-on experiments and demonstrations helped students to relate to difficult concepts.

Using steady hands, senior Marybeth Lane measures the volume of displaced water with a graduated cylinder. Chemistry students spent many class periods in lab which broadened their knowledge of the field.
As students rushed through the hallways shuffling books and papers from hand to hand, the clamor of the bell rang and silence flooded the corridors. Conversations were put to memory to be continued at a later time and the pattering of feet turned into class discussions and the sound of scratching pencils.

Although typical tests, homework assignments, and pop quizzes filled the days, many found other ways to complete assignments in certain subjects.

"The English teachers let us use our creativity in other areas besides classroom work," said senior Cari Mathis. "We are able to do projects, group experiments, and go on field trips to make an assignment more interesting."

"Mooresville has a curriculum that prepares its students for the future," said senior Laura Leffler. "Graduates of Mooresville have gone on to college and done exceptionally well compared to students from other areas of the state."

By Sandy Parrott

With great concentration, Jason Cosand and Gary Franklin work diligently in an electronics lab. Lab experiments and projects gave students opportunities to develop their abilities in certain areas.
This year's Valentine's Day dance gave me a chance to share special moments with the one I love and gave me many memories.

--Ryan Burnett

Ninja warrior, Kim Miller, poses with Herman (alias Mr. Norb Johnson). The student body was encouraged to dress up as a favorite character on All Hallow's Eve.

Ignoring everything around them, sophomore Heidi Stutz, and her date, Richard Napier, enjoy the night of romance. Many students said the dances provided an opportunity to share an exciting evening with their dates.

Moving to the rhythm of the night are freshmen David Manning and Abby Paxton. The Valentine's dance gave several underclassmen a taste of what the future could hold for them with prom around the corner.
Melodious tones floated down the hallway. Another dance was underway. Students trampled into the upper level of the new gym, only to find a dim area barely lit by the multi-colored strobelights cutting through the darkness. The gym was one of many settings for the dances.

A variety of occasions brought about many rhythmic evenings. Halloween allowed the student body to become different beings for an evening. The night was filled with music, masks, and mayhem.

When Valentine's Day rolled around, students found an old idea gaining ground. The semi-formal was officially reintroduced to the students and faculty by the Student Council.

"All the dances were fun to work at, but the Coca-Cola dance was the most fun, because I was in charge of setting it up and getting things out," said senior Allen Young.

Student Council, along with S.A.D.D. and others, sponsored many dances throughout the year.

By Heather Davis
18 Prom

Prom made me feel just like Cinderella and I was afraid I would have to change back to the same ol' girl and life at midnight."
--Kim Pugh

Whispering sweet nothings into his date's ear is junior Andy Lasiter. The romantic mood of the prom was carried out for the entire evening.

Enjoying the snacks offered during prom are junior Nikki Newcomb and her date from Monrovia. The buffet table was a popular gathering place for people throughout the night.

Queen Amy Crose and King Todd Cochenour pose for a quick shot during their dance as royalty. The court danced to the last song of the enchanted evening.
Money, time, and anxiety were all part of prom. Many students started preparing for the special evening months in advance. Tanning bed appointments were made and shops were attacked. Just the right accessories had to be found.

At last, the expected evening arrived. Downtown Indianapolis was an array of colors and styles. Carriage drivers delivered their passengers to the Convention Center for the beginning of a romantic evening. The lines were already forming early in the night. Lines for the photographer backed down the hall.

Finally, the doors of the ballroom were open where a multitude of balloons and other decorations were exhibited. The mauve and blue theme was carried out with the table and wall decor. "One Step From Paradise" decorated the walls. At the end of the night, the annual tradition of crowning the prom court was carried out. Juniors named as prince and princess were Jimmy Cornett and Wendy Evans. To complete the evening, seniors Todd Cochenour and Amy Crose were named king and queen respectively.

By Heather Davis

Taking a little time out from dancing are juniors Jenny Owens and Gary Collins. There was little time for conversations and "get togethers" during the night.
Once upon a...

Time

The mystical wonderland their first customers. The had been transformed. There reward for these games was no longer a gymnasium were fake dollar bills used in the back part of the high to “buy” prizes donated by school. Merlin, from King businesses in Mooresville. Arthur’s Court, changed the To add to the atmos­ gym into a castle with all the trammings. Well, not exactly. as medieval peasants and
So much for that fairy tale. royalty. Jesters and kings

Through hard work and operated the games made determination, junior parents for student enjoyment. In created the “Medieval order to cure the craving for Knights” theme for post prom. munchies, Mexican food As students entered the hall­ way, they found themselves cream and colas. Post prom in a castle courtyard, com­plete with armored knights safe and to give them a fun­ and thrones. The interior was full of games just awaiting

By Heather Davis

Entering the "courtyard" of the castle are juniors Jenny Owens and Gary Collins. Great pains were taken in order to make the gym become a castle during King Arthur's time.
Trying out for the part of "Robin Hood," senior Allen Young takes aim as classmate Marcy Swallow watches. Many games filled the gym to allow for fun.

Posing for a picture are junior parents/staff members Jerry Weber, Peggy Weber, and Karen Yeager. Some costumes fit the personalities of the parents.

Obviously enjoying herself, Cindikaye Burrows has a good laugh while trying to pick a prize. The wide range of prizes caused lots of decisions.

"The evening was filled with so many things to do and so much fun that it tired me out. It was all worth it in the end."

--Matt Chafey
Sensation

Lights cutting through the got a standing ovation,” dark air; people dressed in blue commented senior Spot- and white running down aisles. lighter Mary Winters.
At first glance, one might consider leaving, but in the twinking of an eye, melodious the entire company. This tones filled the air and the number combined the emoaudience was impressed. tion and energy put forth Spring Spectacular was on its during the entire night.
way to another good year with “Seeing the faces of the sen-
“A Spectacular Good Time” iors helped contribute to the for the theme of the evening. emotional tone of the crowd
The show consisted of to make the 1990 Spring Spec the four choirs singing together the best,” said junior Varsity and individually throughout member Brenda Holmes.
the night. To add a little variation, two acapella groups and a dance group also performed.
“Even though it was a lot of hard work, it paid off when we

Emphasizing words of a meaningful song is freshman Ann Truong. Genesis performed different types of songs throughout the year; including performances at Wagon Trails and contests.

Senior Amy Kollmeyer performs choreography to the song “We are the Music Makers” during Spec. Amy received the award for "female performer of the year" in Vocalise.

By Heather Davis
Taking a little dip during "Neighbors Chorus" are junior Janelle Beebe and senior Ryan Burnett. Spotlighters sang this song to release the tension from the other songs performed during the show.

Showing glitz, excitement, and pizzazz, senior Jeff Overholser adds the finishing touches to a song. Jeff was a three-year member of Spotlighters.

As senior Dennis Dunham sings base, fellow classmate Mike Stewart sings lead. Two groups performed acapella songs during the show.

"All four Spring Spectaculars were great, but this years' show meant the most to me because of all the emotions."
--Brenda Clements
"It was a great experience to speak at commencement. It makes all of the hard work pay off when you are recognized in that way."

--Ryan Milburn

Departing with a smile, Lisa Preston prepares to walk down the aisle. Mrs. Sue Stewart and Mr. Robert Grosskreutz continued to organize commencement.

Before the commencement ceremony, Ryan Burnette and Laura Lefler share a few moments. Time spent with friends helped to ease the nervousness of many.

Stooping to get everybody in, Dennis Dunham photographs a group of fellow graduates. Several used the time before the ceremony to capture memories on film.
With teary eyes and anticipating spirits, seniors took their last stroll in front of friends and family as Mooresville students. They had finally reached that long awaited goal of graduation.

There was a potpourri of emotions, as seniors reflected on days past and friendships made during their years at Mooresville High School.

Salutatorian Ryan Milburn's speech on years gone by was followed by speech on the future for the Class of 1990 given by Valedictorian John Truong.

After each senior had received his or her diploma, they gazed at the slide show prepared by Robert Grosskreutz, which documented their lives.

As class president Danny Perkins led the turning of the tassels, the realization hit that this was the last time the Class of '90 would sit together in the same room. Never again would they be together as one, but the memories of days at Mooresville High School would always keep them in the Spirit of One.

By Sandy Parrott

As the Class of 1990 looks at their programs to see what is next on the agenda, many reminisce about days gone by. This was the last time they would sit together as one class.
The school was on the line with two evaluations, North Central and PBA (the state's Performance Based Accreditation). For each, the staff evaluated itself in such areas as academics, extracurricular activities, etc. and then received an evaluation from either a committee of educators from other schools or state officials. While PBA results wouldn't be announced for a year, the North Central evaluation was quite favorable.

Junior Jamie Carpenter commented, "I think that the evaluator did a thorough job and discovered that the people in our school had more to offer than those from other schools; they had personality!"

Students enjoyed a variety of classes with many different activities.

Some elective classes such as auto shop and biology, allowing them to "tear things apart" and learn the operation of various mechanisms. By taking such classes as wood shop, geometry, and physics, students learned to "put things together."

"On the job" classes such as computer programming, business, and typing, provided students with training which would aid them in their chosen field of work, while "on the road" experiences were gained through ICE and field trips taken by various departments.

Students pushed themselves to complete their "required" classes, while such "electives" as music and art allowed students to showcase their talents.

"The class selection is really pretty good. It allows us to pick enjoyable classes and still remain academically sound," said junior Angel Shillings.

With a great selection of classes and an interested student body, Mooresville completed another academic year.

By Ryan Milburn
Sophomore Danny Rooker shows his gas welding techniques during a metals class. Classes such as this allowed students to learn skills with hands on training.

Demonstrating a ball which "floats on air" for a physics project is senior physics student Allen Young. Students were required to explain scientific phenomenon while the rest of the class listened.

Taping a newscast for their Journalism II class, are sophomores Crystal Lee and JoBeth Cox. The class did some radio and television newscasts in preparation for Channel 1.
Yuck!!...I'm going to be sick!!...Is it dead?!?! These words of disgust were heard throughout the halls of Mooresville. Once again the biology classes had the opportunity to dissect. The class also gave students a chance to experience what a college course would be like.

"I thought dissecting was sick, but I learned from the experience," said freshman Shannon Smith.

Many opportunities for preparing for the future came in the form of "hands-on" classes. Auto mechanics taught students how to spot problems and how to repair them. Students were taught with computers and updated technology.

Other shop classes offered the chance to create, build, weld, and repair. Students took the classes to prepare for future careers, as a hobby, or to break the monotony of the academic schedule.

"Shop prepared me for mechanical breakdowns of my car," said junior Mandy Smith. "I won't have to be dependent."

Through these classes students learned basic skills to succeed. The classes were for advancing in the future.

By Kristy Carter

Preparing to "operate" on their pig are freshmen Michelle Stevenson, Doran Ostrum, and Ward Daniels.

Using a blow torch to spot weld are sophomores Marcus Williams and Brent Miller. Welding gave students hand-on experience.
Sophomores Chris King and Brian Crossland prepare to "rip" a board. Woods class created many projects.

Freshman Adrin Varga dissects a baby pig during a lab. Biology students also dissected frogs, crawfish, and worms.

Doing last minute touches on their homemade carburetors are sophomore Jimmy Huneycutt and junior Mike Mullins.
Shielding his face while working on delicate measures is senior Kevin Lennis. Shields and goggles were required when working with machinery.

Determining specifications of an electrical current are seniors Ryan Milburn and Tom Vogel. The study of electronics was part of physics.

Working carefully not to make a mistake on his wood's project is junior Brent Miller. Students made a variety of projects.

Seniors Dennis Dunham and John Truong carefully work on the physics project. Every physics student was required to do a project for second semester.
Putting together pieces of wood, metal, and information were part of the daily routine for students in physics, geometry, woods, and advanced English classes. Project assignments were given to establish a grade.

Physics was a combination of labs and demonstrations of how it is used in everyday life. "It is the hardest class I have ever taken, but it is the most interesting," said senior Heather Davis.

"Geometry helped with reasoning. I learned to look into things before making a final decision. I think it really helped me with what is coming in future years," said junior Becki Cunningham.

Projects were the name of the game in woods. These students knew what they were supposed to do and were given the tools to work during class time.

"Teachers in high school say that in college you write three or four research papers a year, so I guess this will help when I have to write one in college," said senior Todd Cochenour.

by Tammy Moore

Junior Bill Cordis puts finishing touches on his clock. Woods class gave many students the chance to show true craftsmanship.
"Typing is a class that is very different from anything I have ever taken. You get the chance to actually be involved in the class. It is something different than just sitting and listening to a teacher talk all period," said junior typing student Linda Grubb.

At MHS, students had the opportunity to choose from various classes that would prepare them for the future. Some classes included word processing, shorthand, and auto mechanics.

"I really enjoy taking auto mechanics. Many of the things you learn could help you out if you got into trouble. I even learned how to change a tire," said junior Kelley Beasley.

Other classes that students participated in were metals and wood shop. Several students also took advantage of the word processing classes at MHS. "Word processing helped me a lot. I feel more comfortable with computers now," said junior Tina Doyle.

Students at MHS had a chance to expand their future by taking advantage of the classes offered. Because of this, many students felt more secure about the future.

By Jenny Yeager

During a timed writing junior Derenda Barton tries not to make any errors. Throughout the year, typing students did many exercises like this.

Working on a project for wood shop is David Delp. David spent many hours working on various items that he had to make in the class.
Junior Peggy Reed looks to the computer for information during Basic Office Procedures. Second semester, students got to go out on the job.

Typing carefully at the keyboard is junior Debra Kelley. Students tried to make the least amount of mistakes possible for each assignment.

Working on a lesson in typing class are Anthony Voi and John Reynolds. Many students learned how to type various letters because of this class.
Filing paper at Labco is a part of senior Lisa Whitaker's job. Lisa was an active member of Basic Office Services.

Starting to do her job for Basic Office Procedures is junior Amy Fisher. Students spent two class periods each day working for the organization.

Arranging shirts at Wards is part of senior Stacey Terry's job. Many students found jobs to help with finances.

Senior Amy Irwin does one of her many jobs at Grays Cafeteria. Restaurants provided many jobs for students.
Learning on the road

To help prepare students for the future, MHS offered a wide variety of business classes.

Some students had the chance to be a part of Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education (ICE). This allowed the students to have a job and continue to go to school.

Other students had the opportunity to take vocational classes at Ben Davis that were not offered at Mooresville. The classes varied from cosmetology to horticulture.

“It is really nice to be able to go to Ben Davis. You get the opportunity to take different classes that are not available at Mooresville. Not only do the classes prepare you for the future, but you meet several new people at the same time,” said junior Dalena Lundy.

Basic Office Services was a lab that met for two class periods each day. The students had certain jobs they had to do as if they were in a real office.

“At the beginning of the year we learn the procedures of the office, but second semester we get to experience a real job. The Basic Office Services gives us a piece of the real world,” said senior Lisa Whitaker.

By Jenny Yeager

Senior Kristi Billington practices on a computer at the Mooresville Times. Getting a job was a part of Basic Office Services.
Some monotony in the high school curriculum of required courses was unavoidable. “Every day the same classes get really boring,” said senior Kenny Welker.

One way to put a little freshness into school life was to offer other classes besides the required ones. “I look forward to fourth period (Spots) everyday. It is the only time I have to express my own interests and hobbies,” said Senior Mark Poole.

Without electives all students would have been forced to take the same classes which would have led to a lot of over populated classes and bored students. Some were rejuvenated each day with what they called “activity classes.”

“What would be the purpose of high school, if the classes taken didn’t prepare you for the career you wanted to pursue,” said junior Matt Chafey, a member of Spotlighters.

High school gave those looking toward college the knowledge base they needed to succeed in the real world, and different types of classes gave students the opportunity to broaden their horizons toward a variety of careers and hobbies.

By Mike Kourany
Creating a pencil sketch of a basketball collage is Mr. Amrhein's art class. The art class worked hard to add creativity to the year.

While singing his solo, Love Potion #9, Stacie Terry warms up the audience. Vocalise had a big part in making Spring Spectacular a success.

Combining forces to make a quartet was fun for the audience and seniors Scott Lundy, Jeff Overholser, Dennis Dunham, and Mike Stewart.
Every year in the spring the students received their white schedule sheets. If someone were not familiar with the school schedule they would think that the schedules were defective. They were partially filled in. But as things turn out, these schedules were correct. The classes filled in were the dreaded required classes.

English, math, science, physical education, and health were only a few of the classes a person could find on his class schedule. "Having these classes are good for students because if they were not required, most students would probably take other classes," said sophomore Jason Miller. The required classes were in general the classes that were designed to help people prepare for college.

While most required courses were not the most exciting or fun classes in school, with a little bit of effort they could be made into an enjoyable learning experience. Mrs. Darlene Lewis, English teacher commented, "A class can be fun and challenging; if a class is interesting it will be enjoyable for the students. That is what every teacher should strive for."

by Tom Vogel

While taking instructions from Mr. Alexander, Brad Phillips begins his lab. Chemistry lab was a very important part of the science class.

Senior Ray Miller enjoys some quiet time in the weight room during advanced P.E. Advanced P.E. gave students the opportunity to relax during school.
Using only a mirror, Mrs. Stewart demonstrates the power of the Sun. Her geometry classes participated in many special activities last year.

Testing her knowledge on aerodynamics is Junior Kristi Ransome. Kristi was involved in special projects in Mrs. Stewart's geometry class.

Learning about American history first hand, the social studies classes are spoken to by several members of the Armed Forces. Special speakers were an important part of learning.
Enjoying a bit of sunshine are foreign exchange students Anna Heiskannen and Markus Locher. Anna was a foreign exchange student from Finland, and Markus was from Germany.

Participating in Mrs. Karen Yeager's English Literature class are Tammy Garrity, Heather Stutz, and Marta Carlisle. Playing game show hosts was just one of the many projects they tried.

The German, "Karnival," is being celebrated by Jason Sumner, Billy Harless, Eric Reynolds, Jennifer Doyle, and Christina Neal. Constructing masks for their German class was just one of the many unique ways of learning a foreign language.

Angelically portraying the Fryer and the Nun from The Canterbury Tales are Missy Allison and Tim Viles. Extra credit was given for dressing like the character in the Gifted and Talented English course.
Mrs. Christine Ritter, French teacher, said, "I think students get much more actively involved because they're learning a language from the very beginning."

A foreign language class added more to the dimensions of a foreign country than just the history that one learned in other classes. It also helped those visiting a foreign country to feel more comfortable.

Flavio de Rezende, foreign exchange student, commented on how the English classes had helped him. "I have taken English since I was in the first grade, but I have learned here how to expand my vocabulary for conversation."

Although English classes varied in scope and activities, all attempted to help students communicate more effectively and study a wide variety of literature. Many classes incorporated projects, computer assignments or research to help students meet those objectives.

Both English and foreign language classes helped to unlock the doors of the future by teaching MHS students how to meet the demands of college and the work world.

By Erika Baumstark
Former student, Kelly Sheetz, shoots an actual commercial during Mrs. Lorie Harkema’s drama class. The commercial aired on cable TV.

Emily Dickenson comes back to life with help from junior Angel Shillings. Mrs. Phillips’ advanced class learned with costumes.

Cadet teaching gives grade school students someone to look up to and learn from. Senior Tricia Jones learned by teaching others.
Newer courses, such as Cadet Teaching, ICE, and At-Risk, gave students a chance to develop more skills to be used in their future occupations. Advanced and gifted English also helped many students experience literature through field trips and projects. Some of these classes allowed students to leave school and work in actual job situations.

Cadet Teaching involved seniors who were interested in teaching as a future profession. Mr. Keith Hill, Cadet Teaching coordinator, assigned each student to an elementary class for the year.

At-Risk had only been around for 3 semesters, but it involved approximately 48 students. "It is the objective of the 'At-Risk' program staff to make available and provide the encouragement and instruction to any student, emphasizing the 'At-Risk' student, to avail himself to the opportunities open for the achievement of a diploma," said Mr. Stan Emerson, At-Risk coordinator.

These newer classes gave many opportunities to students who otherwise would not have learned through hands-on training.

By Janelle Beebe

Junior Brandy Carey portrays tocking shelves for IGA occupies Bernard Malamud for her advanced English class. This was one of many projects the class took part in.

Stocking shelves for IGA occupies assistant manager/senior Kevin White. This job allowed him to go to school and still have a career.
Individualized courses, such as agriculture and home economics, allowed students to get away from the usual routine of the required English and math classes. Many felt that these classes gave them a chance to learn more about everyday life.

Mr. Carrell, agriculture teacher, said, “Knowing that there are over 200 careers in agriculture with only one of these being farming, I concentrate my teaching on agribusiness and how other areas fit into the agribusiness sector.”

“Ag teaches us about the world around us, how to treat it, and how to respect it,” said ag student Steve Perry. Ag students sold fruit and plants during the year in order to make extra money.

Home ec. classes also were well-liked by many students.

“Family management was interesting. I like children and learned a lot more about raising them. I really enjoyed it, because it wasn’t something I had to take,” said junior Linda Grubb.

Even though these classes had been around awhile, their popularity remained.

By Janelle Beebe

While "babying" eggs, home ec. students learn to appreciate motherhood. Students enjoyed themselves while learning responsibility.
Sophomore Shannon Clipp attempts to master pancake making. Foods classes allowed students to prepare and eat their own creations.

With the aid of Mrs. McCoy, students experience hands-on mothering. Doll diapering was one tradition carried on in home ec.

Mini-barn building is one of the activities of Mr. Carrell’s agriculture class. The 11-foot structure took three weeks to complete.

Precision sawing is managed by senior Kevin Lindsey. Shop classes were popular with both boys and girls throughout the year.
As the school year progressed, so did the activities, obligations, and responsibilities of the students. Students involved in various activities worked toward a separate, but equal goal. To some this goal may have been to participate in a particular activity; to others it may have been to win a Sectional Championship, earn a 4.0 grade point average, or even pass a particular subject area.

Students represented tiny individual parts of a giant machine. Each student completed a different task, and each provided an individual service. All of the tasks, services, and activities combined to form the axis around which our school spun.

As the activities and accomplishments meshed together so did the students. The students formed the personality, attitude, and life of the school. They joined to form a student body which worked and acted like a student body together as ONE.

"Mooresville's student body is like a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. When separated you merely have two slices of bread, but when you put it all together you have a three course meal," said senior Eric Rutherford.

While forming the network which made up our school, students kept an attitude which differentiated them from students from other schools. All visitors to the school, from evaluators to substitute teachers and visiting parents, expressed the fact that something was different about the attitudes among Mooresville students. Guidance counselor Keith Hill commented, "I think the one thing about Mooresville students that makes them unique is the fact that they are so very accepting. Whenever a new student arrived, they were always readily accepted and never had trouble finding a friend."

By Ryan Milburn

Posing for the camera are senior Homecoming Queen candidates Amy Crese, Laura Leffler, Kim Miller, and Sarah Gardner.
A "hippified" junior, Peter Eicher, grins at the camera while taking part in Hippie Day. This helped students show their spirit.

Senior Amber Ashman shows her arm as she participates in Homecoming activities. The festival helped kids "fire up."

Freshmen Dennis White and Billy Harless arm wrestle before the start of English class. Students tried to remain active at all times.
Upon entering the doors the first day of school, the Senior Class could feel the changes about to occur in their lives. Not only were they reaching a final goal in their high school careers, they were also on their way to setting new goals for their futures.

For many months seniors anticipated an uncertain graduation date. After a struggle with the Indiana State Board of Education, commencement was set for June 2. To the disappointment of many seniors and sponsor Robert Grosskreutz the privilege of an early release was denied, but the traditional exercises were continued.

Senior expenses drained many wallets. Items such as paddles, keys, senior shirts, pictures, the prom, yearbooks, caps and gowns, announcements, and memory books were some of the extras that added up. But the additional costs were considered necessary for some to get the “full effect” of their senior year.

Senior paper provided students a chance to prophecize their classmates’ futures, will possessions to underclass-men, and say their last good-byes.

The final year of high school for most was unforgettable. It was a time to look back on special times and look ahead to an unknown but promising future.

Brenda Clements summed up the year for many when she said, “My senior year was what I made it. It was great.”
David Adams
Lisa Adams
Shelly Addler
Pam Aldrich

Chad Allen
Tammy Allen
Missy Allison
Stacie Altum

Jeff Anderson
Kimberly Andrews
Amber Ashman
Jennifer Baggett

Lashore Barden
Steve Barker
Christina Bateson
Erika Baumstark

Ed Becker
Angela Beikman
Kristi Billington
Walter Blondell
Elizabeth Boles
Jessica Bosaw
Darrel Bowen
Kevin Brewington

Debra Brickertt
Janine Brooks
Brian Brown
Matt Brown

Matt Bruce
Shane Buis
Elizabeth Burleson
Ryan Burnett

John Burnside
Cindikaye Burrows
Ladonna Bushong
Lori Cardinal

Marta Carlisle
Shawn Carson
William Carte
Cathy Carter
Working together to meet common goals was the purpose of special helpers

By Mary Winters

Helping others was a way seniors found self-fulfillment during their spare time. This was done in many ways, including Cadet Teaching, National Honor Society's tutoring program, Pairing and Caring, and Peer Counseling.

"It is fulfilling to be able to help the less fortunate who need special attention from someone who is just a friend," said Deanna Elsburry, Pairing and Caring member. The group, created to provide teen friends to children of low-income or one-parent families, scheduled group outings every other month.

Sounding out words, instructing crafts, and working with flash cards were a few of the activities cadet teachers helped with. "I am actually teaching the children how to do basic kindergarten activities," said cadet teacher Holly Knierim, who helped out at Northwood in Mrs. Joan Haymaker's class.

Peer Counselors were trained to work with peers and listen to their problems.

"I wanted to become a peer counselor because I thought it would be interesting and because I like to help people," said David Solberg, a two-year member of peer counseling.

"Helping others helps yourself," said Bryce Mansfield, "and that is a great feeling."

George Carter
Mark Caudill
Rachel Chappell
Debbie Clark

Brenda Clements
Todd Cochenour
Michael Cochran
Erin Collins
Nikki Corbin
Heather Cordes
Kari Cordis
Kimberly Cordray

Cheryl Corhn
Cheri Corwin
Lisa Covey
Denise Cress

Thomas Crockett
Amy Crose
Lisa Crouch
Chris Curry

Amanda Curtis
Billy Daniels
Heather Davis
Melodie Davis

William Day
Julie Dickens
Danica Downing
Andrew Duncan
It included completing forms and making numerous plans; it was exciting but frightening and it was all about college.

By Michelle Martin

Choosing a college was one of the many difficult tasks for some seniors. First, one had to decide whether or not college was the right direction. Fear of the unknown prompted many in their decision to go. “In order to get a better paying job, college is almost always a necessity,” said senior Heather Davis who had decided to attend Franklin College.

Marybeth Lane added, “Going to college will help me get ready for the work world.”

Upon deciding on advanced education, students took “preparation” classes such as advanced English, math, and science. Some students even took advantage when colleges offered special programs for experience or college credit while the student was still in high school.

College choices varied from person to person according to personal and professional goals. Some chose universities close to home; others chose ones as far away as possible, but even those who looked forward to going had some anticipation and fear.

Senior Sandy Parrott said, “Each time I go, I’m more relaxed. I guess it’s my way of easing into a difficult but necessary move in my life.”

The idea was often scary, but sharing the information was fun when seniors like Charlie Phillips, Lisa Preston, Debbie Brickertt, and Todd Gruver took advantage of a good excuse to visit the guidance department.

Tammy Duncan
Dennis Dunham
Melissa Dyer
Josh Early

Darlene Eastes
Dawn Eaton
Stephanie Elliott
Deanna Elsbury
Even though most students had known each other for at least four years, there were still some new faces

By Mary Winters

Adding some foreign flair to the student body of Mooresville High School were foreign exchange students Flavio de Rezende of Brazil, Marcus Locher of Germany, and Anna Heiskennen of Finland.

"Being an exchange student is a great opportunity to learn about another country and its culture," said Anna.

Also new to MHS were a few seniors from other schools who came to spend their last year here.

Whereas the language and customs were different to the exchange students, general attitude among students and teachers was noticed by all the new students. The lack of major violence was a relief to some of the new people whose old schools were ruled by various gangs and weapon-toting students.

"I like it here," stated Heather Stutz from Perry Meridian. "The students and teachers are much friendlier than at my old school." Even though Shane Keiser moved in from a more distant state, Minnesota, he actually felt most of the differences were minimal.

Tonya Erwin
Matt Fiesel
Anthony Finley
Jamie Fouty

Gary Franklin
Shawn Frederick
John Fultz
Tammy Garrity
Joseph Hubbard
Edith Hughes
Robert Hughes
Amy Hunt

Kelly Hutchinson
Kim Hutchinson
Shane Hyde
Amy Irwin

Leah Ann Jacobs
Tricia Jones
Gary Joseph
Tricia Jullian

Jennifer Kaufman
Shane Keiser
David Kelley
Barbara Kelsay

Katie Kinman
Brian Kinnick
Yvette Kirk
Marzella Kirkland
It wasn't a new disease and it wasn't deadly, but its symptoms were recognized quickly as the dreaded Senioritis

By Michelle Martin

"Senioritis" was an illness that affected most during their senior year. Symptoms included anxiety, tension and a small degree of insanity.

Anxiety was felt when some thought of the day in June when students would take those long awaited steps down the aisle to receive their diploma. Cheri Corwin said, "I’m real excited to get out. I’m tired of the work and the same thing for the past 12 years."

Some experienced tension when thinking of the placement tests, college applications or just trying to make the best of their last year. Tension also crept up and attacked some seniors when thinking of their futures outside the protection and security of MHS.

Many objects symbolized or even aggravated the illness. Senior paddles, class keys and class shirts were purchased to display impatience or reluctance to graduate.

"Senioritis" was an incurable, highly contagious disease. No vaccine was available. The disease was inevitable for some, but luckily, not fatal. Almost every senior had his or her own signs and symptoms of "senioritis."
Helping with Pacer games for five years gave Tim Viles a chance to meet numerous professional players.

It may have seemed impossible for a high school senior to be a member of a professional basketball organization, but for Tim Viles it was just a job. For five years he was a ball boy for the Indiana Pacers.

Since Tim's father worked as a security guard at Market Square arena, Tim decided he would like to have a job there. Luck played a big part in obtaining the job. Many young people would have liked to be a part of the Pacers but only a limited number got the chance.

Tim had the opportunity to meet many famous athletes. "I got the chance to work with others, and be around professional basketball players. It was work, but it was enjoyable," said Tim.

"Being close up to the pro's that I admired made them more human," Tim commented. He mainly assisted the opposing teams' players and trainers during the games.

Laura Lefler
Kevin Lennis
Bob Lewis
Alan Liford

Jeff Lindley
Kevin Lindsey
Dana Linkous
William Lloyd

Marcus Locher
Kelly Lowe
Scott Lundy
Eric Lynch

By Amy Kollmeyer
They felt the pressure as defending champs but managed to produce another first place float

By Amy Kollmeyer

There were high expectations for the class of 90’s float. After placing first their junior year the seniors had a lot to live up to.

After deciding on a theme, the float crew went to Scott Lundy’s house to transform chicken wire, wood and lots of tape into another winner. After several weeks of work, under the direction of sponsor Mrs. Ann Phillips, the “PIO-NEERS SHRUNK THE CUBS” theme began to materialize.

The outcome was a triumphant first place finish at Homecoming, after which the theme was modified for the Fall Foliage Festival where the float placed second.

Float Crew: Front: Trela Overpeck, Stephanie Elliot, Scott Lundy, Dawn Eaton, Heather Davis; Back: Kevin White, Mike Stewart, Amy Kollmeyer, Carla Griffith, Ginger Tandy, George Pointer, John Fultz, Kelly Lowe, and David Kelly.

California Raisin commercials gave the class a great idea for “Raisin’ A Victory” their junior year. Chad Mountcastle and Scott Lundy used Mrs. Sherry Foster as the raisin.

Kelly Myers
Angela Herron Nordhoff
Dwayne Norwood
Chris Nungester

Tina Nunnally
Jennifer O’Dell
Greg O’Neil
Charles Osborne
Deric Ostrum
Jeff Overholser
Mark Overpeck
Trela Overpeck

Tina Parrish
Sandra Parrott
Robert Payne
Mike Payton

Robert Payton
Danny Perkins
Christopher Perry
Shelli Pettigrew

Brad Phillips
Charles Phillips
Mark Poole
George Poynter

Lisa Preston
Wendy Pritchett
Charles Ragatz
Sarah Ragatz
They made most of the plans and struggled with the challenges because they were the leaders.

By Michelle Martin

“If you’re not ready for responsibility, don’t run for it,” advised Senior Class president Danny Perkins. “Officer” and “representative” were more than just titles. Many tasks were accomplished through the hard work and dedication of the people leading their class.

“Executive branch” powers were performed by Danny Perkins, president; Tim Viles, vice-president; Nikki Goddard, secretary; and Holly Knierim, treasurer.

Another vital part in Mooresville’s school government was led by Student Council president Kim Miller and vice-president Ryan Milburn. Regarding her experiences, Kim said, “It’s uncomfortable to get up and talk in front of an audience, but planning for dances is really fun.”

Senior representatives included Amy Crose, Cari Mathis, Allen Young, Eric Rutherford and Todd Cochenour. “I like the idea of people coming up to me with their problems. I feel really useful and important,” said Eric.

Brad Randolph
Richard Reynolds
Flavio de Rezende
Brian Roberts

Mark Rodriguez
Kenney Roe
Randy Rogers
Angela Runion

Eric Rutherford
Leslee Sachs
George Samuels
Shelie Scanland
Chad Shaw
Jennifer Shirar
Larry Silcox
Barbara Silvers

Charlie Smith
David Solberg
Tina Stacy
Mary-Joel Stewart

Michael Stewart
Kelly Stuckey
Heather Stutz
Marcy Swallow

Cassandra Swinney
Ginger Tandy
Steve Taylor
Stacey Terry

Greg Tinsley
Lora Tolle
John Truong
Timothy Viles
Thomas Vogel
Jeremy Vuurman
Paul Waddelow
Danny Wagner

Darla Walters
Kenny Welker
Danny Wells
Lisa Whitaker

Kevin White
Doug Williams
Tony Willis
Michael Winks

Mary Winters
Shawn Witt
Christina Woods
Dawn Worrell

Allen Young

Christopher Costin-Pearson
8/4/72 - 11/28/89
Many work hard enough to earn the distinction of all-school awards.

Business
Kari Cordis, Erick Mau, Andy Burnette, Angie Blackwell
Home Economics
Dawn Worrell, Kelly Stuckey
Mathematics
Ryan Milburn, Dean Zlatniski
Science
Dennis Dunham, Kari Cordis, Tim Viles, Debbie Brickertt, Brad Phillips, Mike Stewart, Tom Vogel, John Truong, Ryan Milburn
German
Chaelee Patrick, Kevin Shelly, Ray Lucas, Holly Knierim
French
Ann Truong, Anna Heiskanen, Hannah Haas, Debbie Brickertt
Spanish
Jason Shostrand, Michael Morris, Amy Cochran
Social Studies
Holly Knierim, Brad Phillips
Instrumental Music
Greg Bailey, Mike Fishero, Brian Doyle, Amanda Curtis
Guard
Emily Armstrong, Cheryl Gibbs, Anne Montgomery, Jenny Yeager, John Phillips Sousa
Amanda Curtis
Vocal Music
Genesis
Dennis White, Derek Crimmins, Jenni Eckert
Varsity
Marta Carlisle, Robert Payne, Jennifer Kaufman

Ginger Tandy receives one of the Ministerial Association awards.

Presenting his last science awards before retirement is a nostalgic moment for Hubert Alexander and the students.

Vocalise
Brenda Clements, Amy Kollmeyer, Anna Heiskanen
Spotlighters
Mike Stewart, Sandy Parrott, Jeff Overholser, Angel Shillings, Aaron Patrick, Spencer DePoy, Todd Gruver
Journalism
Holly Knierim, Chris Perry, Sandy Parrott, Heather Davis, Ryan Milburn, Kathy Kober, Ginger Tandy, David Solberg, Brian Kinnick, Deric Ostrum

TIMES and Kappa Kappa
Kappa Journalism Scholarships
Trina Brown, Julie Wallman, Christi Ransome, Andrea Pygman, Marie Kober
Butcher Attendance Awards
Kari Cordis, John Truong
Speech
Terri Burns, Robert Hubbard
Drama
Deric Ostrum, David Solberg, Scott Lundy
Scholarships, Page 179
Prom activities
keep juniors busy all year

By Maureen Weber and Jenny Yeager

"I'm really looking forward to the prom. There is a lot of work to be done, but I am sure that with this year's committee, the prom will be one of the best ever," said junior Ray Lucas about that time of year when juniors rent a tux or buy an elegant dress, go out to a nice restaurant, and have a night on the town.

Mr. Jim Bradshaw, head of the Prom Steering Committee, said, "Setting up prom takes a lot of time, a lot of expenses, and a lot of work, but, it is definitely worth it!"

Prom wasn't just one night of fun; it involved months of preparation and work. Juniors spent time working concessions at home basketball games and selling magazines to earn money for the class.

Mr. Norb Johnson, post prom sponsor, said, "The prom is neat. The student body has really started getting involved. I believe everyone really enjoys the prom."

Ray Lucas gives his all for the class. In addition to concessions, Ray was tops in magazines sales and float-building.

Tracey Alsup
Carrie Anderson
Jason Anderson
Barry Andrew
Thomas Archer
Melanie Archer
Danny Barker
Jennifer Barker
Michael Barron
Kelley Beasley
Dan Beaver
Janelle Beebe
Mary Begley
Jason Bell
Sacha Birchfield
Michelle Blackburn
Angie Blackwell
Tim Bohr
Dawn Bowden
Claudia Bowen
Damon Bowers
Clifton Bowman
Scott Brooks

66 Juniors
By Maureen Weber & Jenny Yeager

"...and in first place, the Junior Class!" This was heard many times over the loud speaker during the Homecoming day carnival. The juniors took first place in the water balloon toss, the football throw, the football punt, the White Castle eating contest, and the tug of war. Although the float, "The Batmobile," placed second in the Homecoming parade, it placed first in the Fall Foliage Festival at Martinsville.

"This year a lot of people participated in spirit week. I think it really helped boost the team. Everybody was backing them," said junior varsity cheerleader Kelly Kanaby. During "spirit week" people dressed up in many different outfits for special days throughout the week: hippy day, Hawaiian day, hex day, clash day, and blue and gold day.

"It really helped me prepare for the game, because every day I saw people backing us and showing school spirit," said junior football player David Potts.

"It really didn't matter if we won or lost. The crowd was behind the team until the end," said junior Janelle Beebe.

Even though the outcome of Homecoming wasn't stamped with a win, there was still a winning attitude hanging in the air letting everyone know that Mooresville was number one to the students in blue and gold.

Many juniors help prepare for the Homecoming parade. The "Batmobile" had nine moving parts that were operated by six juniors and a couple of their younger brothers and sisters who fit into the spaces better than a teenager.
Taking another step up at MHS, last year’s freshman transformed into this year’s respectable sophomores. Leading the sophomores into their second step at Mooresville was president Brett Curtis, vice-president Keith Barron, treasurer Jennifer Doyle and secretary Anissa Goen. Pulling the class together to make a strong unity was the main goal of the sophomore officers.

The class officers’ first official act was to plan the building of the sophomore Homecoming float. The float theme was Ghostbusters II and took third place. Mr. Dale Graves, sophomore class sponsor, said, “The kids had a lot of fun planning and building the float. They were really energetic and creative.”

With their freshmen year out of the way, the Sophomores finally felt at home. No longer being the lowest of the classes eased pressure off the sophomores. Jennifer Doyle summed it up when she said, “You feel a lot more adjusted; you don’t feel like a stranger anymore. We fit in.”

Slippin’ and slidin’ class officers make their way to the top: Brett Curtis, president; Keith Barron, vice-president; Anissa Goen, secretary; and Jennifer Doyle, treasurer. Sophomores said that they looked forward to moving on.

Jody Addair
David Addler
Tara Alridge
Darryl Anderson
Scott Andrews
Davy Atwell
Amanda Bach
Amy Baker
Nathan Baker
Keith Barron
Derenda Barton
Myriah Barton
Chris Bemloehr
Monica Bis
Tiffany Bishop
Eric Boles
Jerry Bone
Michele Brown
Trina Brown
Mike Bullington
Kevin Bunch
Kim Burnett
Will Byers
Robert Califar
Carrie Clark
Christopher Claywell
Shannon Clipp
Amy Cochran
Tim Coleman
Bobbie Coomer
Michael Cooper
Christopher Corwin
Life is chance
when students start dating

By Erika Baumstark & Kristy Carter

Dating—the time in life to experience the first date jitters and sweaty palms. Why did people put themselves through such torture? Some were hoping to find that perfect someone, while others were interested in having fun. With driver’s license in hand, sophomores experienced a feeling of freedom and independence that included dating and all its disasters.

Some sophomores even found themselves in some odd and unusual situations. Andy Bullock and his date provided an example of two people who ended up in a peculiar place since they went to the zoo and found themselves in the monkey cage.

Although not all sophomores found themselves in weird places, some experienced what was known as the “date disaster.” David Dunham described a date flop as the time he took a girl to the movies and spilled red cream soda on her white pants.

Other sophomores got to go on those pot luck adventures called “blind dates” with some ending up with a new friend and others a total nightmare.

Despite the rough spots, students continued to hope for “dream dates” which were described as everything from going in a Space Shuttle at NASA to just being with that special guy or girl. Anissa Goen said her “dream date” would be “for someone to pick you up in a limo and surprise you by going to the restaurant, 'Eagle's Nest.' ”

Life was chance and taking chances was life, even if it meant sweaty palms and a bad case of the first date jitters.

Sophomore couple Teresa Haggard and Scott Huter find a common five minutes to meet during lunch shifts. Many couples stole time between classes to meet.

Matt Upton
Mike VanHook
Stephanie VanVlymen
Candy Vitioe
Angela Voi
Jay Vuurman
Sarah Waddelow
Lisa Walker
Doug Walker
Julie Wallman
Rusty Walls
Darryl Waters
Andrea Weber
Eric Welcher
Becky Whitaker
Jimmy Whitaker

Brian White
Robby Whitley
Tom Whiteman
Chris Wilcher
Scott Wiley
David Willman
Kim Williams
Marcus Williams

Lee Willis
Sam Wilson
Christie Wingate
Chad Winks
Samantha Witt
Suzie Woods
Elizabeth Young
Chase Zancanata
Freshmen join the fun

By Janelle Beebe & Tammy Moore

A driver’s license, the prom, and a chance to be on a varsity athletic team were just a few of the things freshmen looked forward to in high school. Freshman Greg Small said, “I was kind of worried at first, but it wasn’t as big as I thought it would be.” He thought that his involvement in F.C.A., football, basketball, and baseball helped him to fit in.

“You didn’t know where you were going and people made fun of you,” freshman Mary Andrew said. Although a few freshmen got lost at first, they soon got the hang of things. Freshman Jason Shostrand said he was excited about meeting new people and going on to start a career after high school. Ann Truong looked forward to driving but was not enthusiastic about taking finals. “I’m looking forward to not being called a ‘little freshman’ anymore,” said Jasen Sumner. “They say you get treated bad, but I don’t think you do,” added Delia Love.

Teachers had other opinions about freshmen. “Even more than other classes, they need their boundaries defined. They are just experimenting with becoming an adult and need more help,” said Mr. Dale Graves, math teacher.

Mr. Steve Hilligoss, business teacher, said, “One thing they have trouble with is respect and being responsible.” Mr. Joe Ash, business teacher, added, “Between their freshmen and sophomore years they do a lot of growing up.”

Matthew Alford
Mary Andrew
Vincent Antrim
Jason Archer
Brian Armstrong
Emily Armstrong
Michael Arterburn
Paula Atwood

Jason Austin
Rebecca Bach
David Bailey
Greg Bailey
Joseph Bailey
Jamie Barlow
Raegan Beasley
Jennifer Bell

Laura Bell
Nichole Benedict
Stacy Benedict
Jason Bernard
Alan Blackburn
Brad Boles
Davin Born
Sean Botts

Jason Bowen
Kris Bramel
Joshua Branch
Andrew Branham
Troy Bridgman
Brenda Brown
Kristopher Brown
Gary Burns

74 Freshmen
Flashes of blue and gold surrounded the field at Homecoming as the Class of ‘93 made a name for itself by defeating the juniors in a tight powderpuff game. Even though they weren’t as successful as they wanted to be in the overall competition, they had fun working together as a class. “I think we did pretty well considering it was our first time,” said freshman Angie Moore.

Class officers were the main controllers of the float preparations as well as promoting spirit in the form of class rings. “I had a hard time deciding exactly what type ring to get,” said freshman Lisa McGinnis. Class rings helped freshmen feel more a part of high school and even let them show off a little.

Class officers Ann Truong, president; David Manning, vice-president; Tiffany Russel, secretary; and Gretchen Solberg, treasurer helped plan freshman activities.
After a long morning of award presentations, restless voices stirred among the weary crowd, but the introduction of a new speaker caused anticipation. On stage stood chemistry teacher Hubert Alexander dressed in school-spirited blue and gold right down to his shoes.

Often uttering Japanese and handing out gag awards, Mr. Alexander entertained students by embarrassing them. The once weary crowd began to laugh.

Awards Day antics had earned the veteran chemistry teacher quite a reputation at MHS since his first funny one in 1973. Students had grown to love "the show."

"I am going to miss hearing all his stories," said junior Matt Saucerman. "That's what I'll remember most."

Mr. Alexander's personality also was reflected in his style of teaching. Abandoning the ordinary use of stuffy textbooks and homework, he preferred hands-on lab work. "Mr. Alexander's approach to education has shown that there's more to it than paper, pencils, and books," said fellow teacher Max Gregory.

Many teachers and students cited his genuine concern as one of Mr. Alexander's most loved traits. History teacher Greg Silver added, "When I say 'hi' to him, it's just a little bit warmer. He makes me feel good."

His ability to make people feel better was especially true in mid-December when everyone could hear the sound of Christmas carols echoing from Room 200, chemistry class.

Lights twinkled, a moving train whistled, and a Jacob's ladder sparked. Santa rode in a hot air balloon, Kermit swung from the ceiling, and a bear cycled across a tight rope. Closer examination uncovered even more wondrous toys. Smiling faces served as reimbursement for the hours of effort, but the biggest smile of all belonged to the master elf himself, Mr. Alexander.

Adjectives came easy for students and teachers who described Mr. Alexander: intelligent, easy-going, inventive, high-spirited, optimistic, and loving.

Math teacher Sue Stewart tied them all together by describing him as "an eccentric uncle with a heart of gold."

Mr. Alexander's decision to retire from Mooresville after 27 years of service to teach only at IUPUI removed him from the corporation payroll, but nothing could take away what he left in his students' hearts. Tears and heartache often accompany goodbyes; but sadness wasn't Mr. Alexander's style. Therefore, in the words of his own favorite Japanese phrase, which he translated as, "So long; play it cool," Mooresville's students gave Hubert Alexander a final "Sayonara! Kiuotsukete!"

By Julie Wallman and Shannon Clipp
Jerry Brown
Assistant Principal
Larry Goldsberry
Assistant Principal
Lon Milburn
Guidance Director
Dan Havens
Guidance
Beth Henry
Guidance
Keith Hill
Guidance
Don Pope
Athletic Director
Jeggy Weber
Secretary
Karen Clifton
Secretary
Debra Lang
Guidance Secretary
Jan Emerson
Mid-State Secretary
Jean Thaler
Bookkeeper & ECA Treasurer
Patsy Bryant
Clerk
Judith Aldrich
Special Education Aide
Sheila Andrew
Special Education Aide
Edna Bush
Library Aide
Don Adams
Social Studies
Mika Adams
Special Education
Robert Adams
English
Hubert Alexander
Science
Dennis Amrhein
Art
Joe Ash
Business Education
Joel Beebe
English
Carolyn Blickenstaff
Spanish
Kathy Bothwell
Math
Jim Bradshaw
English
Karl Brown
Graphic Art & ICE
Tony Carrell
Vocational Agriculture
Stan Emerson
At-Risk Director
Brinton Farrand
Art
Educators receive local, state recognition

Friday 13th may be bad for some, but it was a nice day for principal William Overholser. At the Indiana High School Press Association State Convention at Franklin College, Mr. Overholser was presented the association's Louis Inglehart, Friend of Journalism Award.

Overholser was nominated for the award by the Pulse and Wagon Trails staffs for his support of the journalism programs at MHS and throughout Indiana.

"I was gratified. I really do think that there is a place for journalism in the schools. It certainly is a learning ground. I feel that as long as they (the Pulse and Wagon Trails staffs) express themselves responsibly, they can have freedom of press. I don't want to be put in the situation where I would have to censor. Maybe other schools have certain situations where that was needed, but I don't see that that is a need here," said Overholser. "To go to the convention was educational. It reaffirmed my belief in youth. The students that attended the convention were well-behaved, and they all had leadership qualities," he added.

"I like to grow and I like to see things grow," said Mr. Don Adams, who also was honored during the school year when he was named Mooresvillian of the Year. Mr. Adams received the award for his involvement in community services. Besides teaching social studies and sponsoring Key Club and Heritage Club at MHS, he was an area farmer, Scoutmaster and church deacon.

The Mooresville Chamber of Commerce considered many factors when choosing "Mooresvillian of the Year." Honesty, sincerity, involvement and setting a good example were some of the requirements.

Mr. Adams, an MHS graduate served as class president his junior and senior year. He has degrees from ISU and Butler. He said he had stayed in Mooresville because of the beauty of the area and the people.

By Angel Shillings and Angie Mason
Fall, Winter, Spring, and Summer

One Against Another

From girls cross country to boys basketball and wrestling to girls tennis, the Athletic Department provided a variety of activities. By becoming involved in athletics, students not only learned to compete against teams from other schools, but they learned to develop desire, dedication, and perseverance.

"You learn to scrap and fight for something that really means a lot to you," said junior baseball team member Steve Beeler.

With the desire gained from participating in athletic contests, students set higher goals for themselves and worked harder to achieve them. This often meant a great deal of sacrifice.

Freshman wrestler Eric Reynolds said, "At the beginning of the year, I set the goal of reaching wrestling regionals. In order to reach that goal I had to run five miles every day after practice and watch what I ate."

Athletic participation showed team members how to dedicate themselves to achieving success, regardless of the obstacles which stood in their way. This dedication went hand in hand with perseverance which caused students to push themselves even after they thought they had failed.

"Athletics are a challenge. They allow you to develop more discipline which carries over to other parts of your life. The discipline gained in playing sports helps you to get better grades," said sophomore football, basketball, and golf team member Scott Huter.

No matter what the sport or athletic contest, students gained valuable experiences which taught them more than just the three R's. Huter said, "The most important thing I gained from playing sports at Mooresville was friendship."

By Ryan Milburn

Arching his back to allude the bar is senior high jumper Brad Phillips. Brad later went to the state finals and placed sixth.
Biting her nails during a varsity boys basketball game is senior cheerleader Laura Lefler. Cheerleaders added a great deal of spirit.

Coaching his varsity girls basketball team is Coach Joe Johnson. He led the team to the sectional finals and a 12-8 record.

Crossing the goal line is senior football player Todd Cochenour. Winning the Hoosier Dome game started the season off right.
"We were finally recognized for what we have accomplished."

Varsity Football
- MHS 12-0 Decatur Central
- MHS 26-0 Bloomington North
- MHS 8-0 Whitehall
- MHS 27-0 Manual
- MHS 6-7 Franklin
- MHS 24-13 Plainfield
- MHS 13-7 Greenwood
- MHS 34-14 Avon

SECTIONAL
- MHS 25-24 Northview
- MHS 33-14 Greenwood
- MHS 12-0 Columbus North

REGIONAL
- MHS 34-21 Evansville Reitz

STATE
- MHS 18-40 Franklin Central

---

While most students were still sleeping, taking advantage of the last few weeks before school started, eager football players gathered early in the morning on the field of MHS. It was the beginning of a very successful season.

Their shutout against Decatur at the Hoosier Dome gave fans a taste of the season ahead. For the next three games the Pioneers remained undefeated and unscored upon.

As the season progressed injuries plagued the Pioneers. Senior Allen Young said, "Healthy or not, I wanted to play my best at all times." Injured quarterback Ryan Milburn, who could only watch his team from the sidelines during the regional game against Columbus East remarked, "It was hard for me to control my emotions after that game."

The Pioneers were selected by Channel 8 as the team of the week. "We were finally recognized for what we have accomplished," said senior running back Todd Cochenour. Recognition wasn't all the Pioneers were looking for. They knew they would have to face their biggest challenge at Semi-State, Franklin Central.

The Pioneers were fired up for this challenge, but the hard-fought battle came to an end with the Pioneers coming up short, 41-18.

They were 11-2 for the year. Senior Brad Phillips summed up his season: "We earned the respect of a lot of other teams. It was a great year."

The Pioneers' head coach, Denny Pelley, was named County "Coach of the Year." Todd Cochenour was named "County Player of the Year." Scott Brooks, Brad Phillips, Danny Perkins, Gary Joseph, Allen Young, and Shawn Witt were selected to the all-county team.

The reserve players ended their season undefeated, while the freshman ended their season 6-1.

By Amy Kollmeyer
Showing their team work, Allen Young blocks for teammate Todd Cochenour. This duo helped lead the team to a successful season.

Freshman

Competing in any sport throughout high school is an accomplishment. The 1989 season marked the fourth year for senior Jeremy Hough.

Struggling his way through the front lines is Senior Tim Viles. Tim's contribution to the team was not only athletically, but it was also in support of his fellow teammates.

Boys Cross Country
MHS 26-37-67 Avon/Plainfield
MHS 15-67 Greencastle
MHS 3rd Terre Haute North Invitational
MHS 16-39 Cascade
MHS 25-33 Greenwood
MHS 1st Decatur Central Golden Spike Invitational
MHS 15-47 Beech Grove
MHS 1st Morgan County
MHS 15-49 Franklin
MHS 23-38 Martinsville
MHS 15-50 Indianapolis Baptist
MHS 1st Mid-State Conference
MHS 15-47 Monrovia
MHS 2nd Sectional (Crawfordsville)
MHS 2nd Regional (Terre Haute)
MHS 8th Semi-State (Bloomington)
"It felt great to win the county and conference three straight years."

Junior Andy Burnette rounds the corner to another victory. Andy led the team with many hard fought and troublesome victories.

Sprinting through the pack is Senior Chris McLeod. Chris was the number two runner on the team and was placed on the All-Sectional and Regional team.

Cross Country Team: Front: Andy Bullock, Jeremy Hough, Jim Morgan, Greg Evans, Sam Wilson, John Truong, Brian Hayes; Back: C.J. Thompson, Chris McLeod, Nathan Hough, Coach Havens, Tim Viles, Mike Barron, Andy Burnette.
"I tried to play every game like it was my last."

Big Changes

Young team meets goal, rallies for Sectionals

Change definitely was an important part of Mooresville’s volleyball team. Brinton Farrand, coach of wrestling and girls track, teamed up with Brett Taber, coach of wrestling and softball, to become the new 1989 volleyball coaches. When asked how he prepared for the season, Coach Farrand said, "I used books, tapes, and clinics. I tried to cover every source possible."

Change also was an important factor in the make-up of the team. Because of the graduation of five seniors the year before, the only returning letterwinners were Cassie Swinney, Cari Mathis, Maureen Weber, and Jenny Owens. This caused many openings for both the varsity and reserve teams.

“I had confidence in the juniors who were moving up to varsity to be able to fill the spots of the graduated seniors. I felt that since varsity would pretty much be made up of all juniors and seniors, we could have a successful season,” said junior returning letterwinner Maureen Weber.

Although their regular season was not outstanding, the varsity team won the first two games of Sectionals by defeating Plainfield, 15-13, 12-15, 15-6, and Cascade 15-10, 15-12. They later were defeated by the Martinsville Artesians in finals.

Cassie Swinney received the Most Valuable Player award while Janelle Beebe accepted the Mental Attitude award.

Anna Heiskanen, an exchange student from Finland who played on the reserve team, summed it all up when she said that her favorite part of the season was "just being a part of something. Belonging to a serious sports team was a great experience!"

By Jenny Yeager and Janelle Beebe

In order to receive an important point, Cassie Swinney spikes to her opponents while teammate Maureen Weber covers. Cassie was one of the team’s only two seniors.

Varsity Volleyball Team—
Front: Cari Mathis, Missy Gillespie, Rachel Haskins, Janelle Beebe; Middle: Kelley Beasley, Coach Taber, Coach Farrand, Jenny Owens; Back: Maureen Weber, Samantha Witt, Cassie Swinney.
Volleyball

Indian Creek V: 11-15, 15-4, 15-5
R: 15-12, 8-15, 9-15
Avon V: 6-15, 15-6, 15-12
R: 4-15, 2-15
Eminence V: 15-9, 15-8
R: 15-8, 15-8
Martinsville V: 11-15, 10-15
R: 3-15, 1-15
Decatur Central V: 15-8, 15-11
Zionsville V: 15-8, 0-15, 15-13
Bloomington S. V: 15-10, 16-14
R: 9-15, 6-15
Bloomington N. V: 15-6, 5-15, 7-15
Whiteland V: 15-13, 10-15, 15-9
R: 7-15, 13-15
Tri West V: 15-10, 15-8
R: 8-15, 8-15
Plainfield V: 11-15, 15-7
R: 16-14, 9-15, 5-15
Brownstown V: 14-16, 15-11, 7-15
Columbus N. V: 6-15, 3-15
N. Decatur V: 15-8, 15-6
Cascade V: 13-15, 9-15
R: 11-15, 13-15
Danville: 13-15, 15-12, 9-15
R: 10-15, 5-15
Brownsburg V: 12-15, 16-14, 10-15
R: 15-17, 2-15
Columbus N. V: 7-15, 16-14, 15-11
Edgewood V: 17-15, 9-15, 16-14
Terre Haute N. V: 15-8, 11-15, 16-14
Franklin V: 11-15, 0-15
R: 1-15, 1-15
Greenwood V: 11-15, 15-13, 2-15
R: 4-15, 14-16
Ben Davis V: 10-15, 18-16, 10-15
R: 6-15, 2-15
Pike V: 15-1, 15-6
R: 15-8, 9-15, 6-15
Monrovia V: 15-7, 15-9
R: 15-1, 8-15, 15-3
Beech Grove V: 8-15, 9-15
R: 3-15, 10-15
Speedway V: 14-16, 15-7, 15-13
R: 15-11, 8, 15, 15-11
Plainfield V: 15-13, 12-15, 15-6
Cascade V: 15-10, 15-12
Martinsville V: 15-1, 15-0

Stretching to meet the ball, senior Cari Mathis fakes a set to her teammate with a dink. Cari was the main setter.

While junior Jenny Owens blocks, her teammates prepare for the dink. Jenny was a two-year volleyball letterwinner.

Reserve Volleyball Team—
Front: Shelly Terry, Angela Crafton; Middle: Tisha McClure, Mandy Lucas, Anna Heiskanen, Coach Taber, Coach Farrand, Angie Smith, Angie Blackwell; Back: Kristi Ransome, Dawn Gregory, Mary Andrew, Sara Campbell.
"Even though our season wasn't a winning one, we stuck together as a team."

Rough Times

Girls cross country team fights injuries

In previous years the girls cross country team had been stricken with costly injuries, and unfortunately, the fall of 1989 was no different.

"To start out, the team was looking really good; but as competition time came closer we were faced with many injuries," said Senior Cathy Carter. After a week of positive attitudes and hard work at training camp the Lady Pioneers weren't expecting so many aches and pains to occur. Knee, shin, and back injuries effected the performances of many runners throughout the season. "I think our lack of summer training is what really hurt us," said sophomore Marie Kober.

Although the team's physical situation was lacking, mental attitudes kept them going. As the season progressed the team continued to improve. The girls traveled to Avon and received a second place in the Mid-State Conference.

"The girls should be very proud of their performance at Mid-State. It was their best race of the year," said Coach Graves.

The team closed the season with a record of 3-4.

"Even though our season wasn't a winning one we stuck together as a team," said senior member Lisa Whitaker.

At the conclusion of the season, Lisa Whitaker was selected most valuable runner.

"It was really surprising and it meant a lot to me," said Whitaker. Sophomore Marie Kober won the mental attitude award.

By Kim Miller
At the sound of the gun, the Lady Pioneers make a mad dash to "get out." Despite injuries, their good attitudes kept them going.

Senior Dana Linkous concentrates on staying ahead of her opponents during the conference meet. Dana finished first for the team.

Sophomore Marie Kober stays at the head of the pack at the Terre Haute Invitational. Kober received the mental attitude award.

Girls Cross Country
- MHS-40 Avon-23
- MHS-40 Plainfield-INC
- Terre Haute Invitational-4th
- MHS-18 Cascade-INC
- Cascade Invitational 1st
- MHS-23 Greenwood-36
- Golden Spike Invitational-5th
- Pendelton Heights Invitational-4th
- MHS-32 Franklin-24
- MHS-23 Martinsville-38
- Mid-State-2nd
- Brownsburg Invitational-5th
- Sectionals-8th
It was difficult to go out and face the toughest teams in the state and know you'll probably be off the court in half an hour."

Varsity Boys Tennis
MHS 1-4 Bloomington N.
MHS 0-5 Perry Meridian
MHS 0-5 Center Grove
MHS 0-5 Greenwood
MHS 0-5 Ben Davis
MHS 1-4 Park Tudor
MHS 2-3 Terre Haute
MHS 4-1 Avon
MHS 4-1 Plainfield
MHS 0-5 North Central
MHS 0-5 Southport
MHS 2-3 Pike
MHS 0-5 Terre Haute
MHS 0-5 Bloomington S.
MHS 1-4 Bloomington N.
Sectionals
MHS 3-2 Whiteland
MHS 1-4 Center Grove

Number one singles player Chris Perry returns the ball to his opponent keeping the competition stiff. Chris worked hard to lead the team.

Varsity Tennis Team - Front: Chris Perry, Dennis Dunham, Andy Graham; Back: Tom Vogel, Keith Barron, Coach Peters, Jeff Overholser, Mike Stewart.
Tough Games

"I had never been on a tennis team before, so it was a great experience to be on the MHS boys tennis team," said Marcu Lochner. The team struggled to come out a winning team, but they all enjoyed playing and learned a lot by facing some tough competition.

Senior Chris Perry was the team's number one singles player moving up from his former position. "It was difficult to go out and face the toughest teams in the state and know you'll probably be off the court in half an hour, but it was worth it, I think, for the good times we had. Every match was a battle, but one way or another, win or lose, we found a way to have fun each time we played," said Chris Perry. Senior Jeff Overholser was the number two singles player, and senior Dennis Dunham took the number three singles position.

The team finished the season with only a 3-12 record but felt they accomplished a great deal individually. Seniors Tom Vogel and Mike Stewart made up the number one doubles team, and the number two doubles team was taken by juniors Andy Graham and Keith Barron.

"When encouragement, pressure, or support was needed you could count on the other teammates. I know Mr. Peters was proud of our behavior on and off the courts," said junior Andy Graham.

The team played at Sectionals and defeated Whiteland 3-2 in the first of three rounds. They advanced to the second round, but were defeated by Center Grove 1-4.

"This team was very good to work with, because they worked so hard and gave all they had. I just wish most of them could come back next year," said Coach Peters.

By Nikki Goddard

Senior Jeff Overholser grimaces as he smashes the ball towards the net. Jeff was the number two singles player for the Pioneers.

Reserve Tennis Team-Front: Larry Tooley, Ben Huter, Chris Nelson, Tim Bohr, Ryan Hall, Spencer DePoy, Mike Morris; Back: Mike Gillespie, Mark Locher, Daniel Love, Kurt Milburn, Chris King, Mike Tanner, Mike Kourany, Kenny Welker.
After an exciting regional game, senior captains Brad Phillips, Todd Cochenour, and Allen Young celebrate their victory. The Pioneers defeated Evansville Reitz 34-21.

Back for the pass, senior Ryan Milburn looks for a receiver. Ryan broke his collarbone against Northview to eliminate him from action for the rest of the football season.
Semi-Staters

Football and Cross Country dominate season

We're number one, we're the best!” These were the familiar sounds heard at Mooresville high school's fall sporting events. Most of the teams had a successful season, and the football and boys cross country team had an exceptional year with both teams advancing all the way to Semi-State.

The football team breezed through sectionals even though quarterback Ryan Milburn broke his collar bone during the game. Ryan said, “Breaking my collar bone before the season was over was very disappointing, but even though I didn’t get to play through the tournament, winning Sectionals and Regionals was a very exciting time for me.” The Pioneers' coach, Denny Pelley, was named "All-Suburban Coach of the Year."

Senior captain Todd Cochenhour was named to the All-State football team. Senior Gary Joseph said,"It was a lot of fun to play in Semi-State except when I separated my shoulder. The team really worked hard, and I was proud to a member."

For the third year the boys cross country team advanced to Semi-State. In addition to compiling a team record of 9-0, the Pioneers also won the Decatur Central Golden Spike Invitational and finished third at the Terre Haute Invitational. They were also victorious in the Mid-State Conference for the third year in a row and the Morgan county tourney for the fourth year in a row. Senior Tim Viles said, "We wanted to go to state, but we were proud to finish at Semi-State."

by Jeff Overholser
Another two points by Todd Cochenour helped but didn’t make enough difference in the sectional game against Brownsburg.

Reserve Boys Basketball
MHS 53-55 Monrovia
MHS 55-41 Speedway
MHS 41-40 Beech Grove
MHS 42-45 Plainfield
MHS 38-42 Martinsville
MHS 33-37 Center Grove
MHS 32-53 Franklin
MHS 39-23 Whiteland
MHS 36-32 Brownsburg
MHS 45-41 Greenwood
MHS 43-45 Decatur Central
MHS 32-56 Bloomington S
MHS 36-32 Avon
MHS 33-40 Zionsville
MHS 50-22 Cascade
MHS 40-41 Roncalli
MHS 41-22 Danville
MHS 46-33 Indian Creek
MHS 33-47 Bloomington N
MHS 35-50 Edgewood

Great Season

17-5 record attracts opponents’ attention

As defending Sectional and Conference champions, the Mooresville Pioneers had high expectations for themselves at the beginning of the season. True to their expectations, the team rocketed to a 6-0 start and won nine of their first ten games of the season. “The fast start was a morale builder for the team and it helped us to formulate high goals for the season,” said senior forward Tim Viles.

The Pioneers had a winning chemistry in their players. Senior leadership and experiences led the way with sprinkles of talent and youth. “We were a very athletically talented basketball team that played toward our potential,” said Coach Terry Ross.

The Pioneers successfully defended their title as they won the Mid-State Conference for the second year in a row. The championship was highlighted with several conference wins away from home. Despite defeating every team in the Brownsburg Sectional during the season, the team failed to defend the Sectional title, losing to Brownsburg in the Championship game, 62-54. Finishing the season with a record of 17-5 was a record-tying best in the school’s history. “Our record was one of the best, however, the season was a disappointing one because we did not advance farther in the state tournament,” said senior center Brad Phillips.

The season was filled with individual record-breaking moments by senior guard Todd Cochenour. He broke the school record in career points, assists, and steals with 1391 points, 429 assists, and 184 steals. “Getting the record was fun, but I was more interested in going far in the state tournament,” said Cochenour. He ended his last year with the Pioneers as the Most Valuable Player on the team.

Todd was also chosen to the All-Conference Team, All-Sectional Team, First Team All-State, AAU Team to play against the Soviet Union Jr. team, and East-West Classic All-Stars.

By John Truong
"Getting the record was fun, but I was more interested in going far in the state tournament."

Outstretching all others, senior Brad Phillips pulls down the rebound. Brad led the team in rebounding and was named to the All-Conference for the second year.

Varsity Boys Basketball
MHS 86-55 Monrovia
MHS 73-50 Speedway
MHS 69-60 Beech Grove
MHS 69-45 Plainfield
MHS 77-74 Martinsville
MHS 62-61 Center Grove
MHS 62-70 Franklin
MHS 82-76 Whiteland
MHS 75-60 Brownburg
MHS 84-74 Greenwood
MHS 55-67 Decatur Central
MHS 73-70 Bloomington S
MHS 64-56 Avon
MHS 71-65 Zionsville
MHS 78-69 Cascade
MHS 59-63 Roncalli
MHS 68-49 Danville
MHS 87-67 Indian Creek
MHS 58-59 Bloomington N
MHS 74-61 Edgewood Sectionals
MHS 51-31 Danville
MHS 54-62 Brownburg

Varsity Boys Basketball--
Front: Jimmy Whitaker, Brent Smith, Scott Delp, Todd Cochenour, Barry Andrew; 2nd: Keith Barron, Aaron Forrester, Asst. Coach Whitaker, Coach Ross, Asst. Coach Carter, Mike Ellis, Tim Viles; Back: Doug Williams, Brad Phillips, Ryan Milburn, Brian Silvers.

Playing aggressive defense, sophomore Aaron Forrester pressures his opponent. Aaron was named the team's Most Improved Player for the season.
"...to those who stayed we owe everything."

Sophomores

The main ingredient in a successful season

It was a surprising year for the Pioneers girls basketball team. Although they were inexperienced, the team finished the year with a 12-8 record. The sophomores were one of the keys to the year's success. "It was great to be a member of the team. The idea of being a sophomore on the varsity was a real accomplishment for me. The only problem was that people sometimes expected more from me because I was a sophomore," said Shannon Clipp.

The girls finished third in the Mid-State Conference with a defeat in the last game of the regular season. The Avon Orioles, who were undefeated, beat the girls by five points. "We worked very hard as a team this game. It was really disappointing because the other team was just so much bigger and stronger than we were but we gave it our all," said sophomore Jennifer McPhee.

Greencastle, the site of the sectionals, was the last chance to salvage the season. The girls were victorious in the opening game, against Monrovia. In the second, the Pioneers faced a strong Greencastle team. The game was close all the way to the end when the Tiger Cubs started to pull ahead. The girls hung in until the very end but lost by one point.

"Tricia Jones, the only senior on the team, participated in the basketball program for four years and was a plus in the success. "There were a few seniors other than myself, but they didn't stay with it. For these people we owe them nothing, and to those who stayed we owe everything." This is a young team and the season proved to be a growing year.

Jeff Overholser
Junior Maureen Weber drives for a lay-up in the Monrovia game. Maureen was voted MVP for the season.

Varsity Girls Basketball
MHS-53 Decauter-44
MHS-68 Bloomington-34
MHS-37 Speedway-53
MHS-39 Danville-34
MHS-49 Martinsville-48
MHS-45 Roncalli-51
MHS-47 Ben Davis-59
MHS-37 Southport-57
MHS-46 Monrovia-39
MHS-41 Beech Grove-33
MHS-63 Tri-West-25
MHS-38 Brownsburg-80
MHS-40 Franklin-35
MHS-52 Whiteland-48
MHS-40 Center Grove-57
MHS-49 Plainfield-52
MHS-50 Greenwood-41
MHS-43 Avon-48
Sectionals
MHS-50 Monrovia-79
MHS-47 Greencastle-49

Freshman Girls Basketball
Front: Emily Armstrong, Tisha McClure, Shelly Terry, Candi Truong, Bobby Jo Randolph
"We had a very safe, successful, and fun-filled year. It was my senior year, and it turned out to be a pretty good one."

Still On Top
Gymnasts chalk up 43rd straight dual meet win

In the fall, rumor had it there would be no gymnastics team unless a new coach was found, but Beth Haganman Coons came to the rescue of the undefeated group. Although the gymnasts started practices later than most teams, once again they won all 11 meets. "It was not only easy to work with the girls but also very enjoyable. I'm glad I had the opportunity to coach such a dedicated team," said Coach Coons.

Attitude was the key factor in the gymnasts' success. Whether or not their performances were as good as they'd like them to be, the girls always kept smiling. "The team was extremely supportive of each other. This year we always worked together instead of against one another and that made the season great," said senior Leslee Sachs.

A different Sectional added more competition for the girls. 12 teams were invited to the Columbus East Sectional compared to the usual six. "We are in or e of the toughest sectionals around. Three teams scored ahead of our team. This was one of our goals which we missed by only .8 points," said Wendy Evans.

Although the gymnasts didn't advance to the Regional meet as a team, the girls each achieved high goals. Senior Leslee Sachs was vaulting champion in both Sectionals and Regionals, and she advanced to State. Junior Wendy Evans faced a dislocated shoulder right before the Sectionals but made it to Regionals and competed in State competition in the all-around. Senior Lisa Whitaker was named champion on the balance beam at Sectionals and competed in the all-around at both Regionals and State. Sachs received the Mental Attitude award and Whitaker was named the Most Valuable Gymnast. "We had a very safe, successful, and fun-filled year. It was my senior year, and it turned out to be a pretty good one," said Whitaker.

By Maureen Weber and Kim Miller
Junior Wendy Evans reaches for the bars just as she reaches State competition in the all-around. Wendy was a three year member of the varsity team.

Gracefulness and balance are shown by Connie Scott as she performs her balance beam routine. Connie was a member of the Sectional team.

One of the veterans of the team, senior Leslee Sachs, concentrates on doing her best during her floor exercise. Leslee was chosen for the mental attitude award.

Lisa Whitaker displays elegance as she performs her balance beam routine at State. Lisa was voted most valuable gymnast.
"If you aim at nothing, you are sure to hit it."

Tough Luck

Wrestlers' biggest opponent is inexperience

Wrestling season for the grapplers proved less than successful. The young team had the determination to strive for the top, but the team members learned many tough lessons throughout the year.

“Overall, I think that we made some real progress in our younger kids,” said Coach Mike Mossbrucker. “They realized what it took to be successful.”

The season produced too many losses and injuries. Senior Todd Grimes, who was ranked third in the state, suffered a knee injury at the beginning of the new year and was out for the remainder of the season. “I was really upset when I learned that I could not wrestle anymore,” stated Grimes. “I knew I could have placed in the top three at state.”

Wrestling was a unique sport where one competed as an individual but worked together as a team. Grimes and Winks led the '90 team. Mike Winks received the mental attitude award, and Todd Grimes was "Most Valuable Player" of the year.

Although the team had a record of one win and twelve losses, the group made great improvement. “I think the season could have gone better, but we improved a lot even though our record didn’t show it,” said junior Steve Camden. “Our attitudes improved and that is what needed the most help.”

Coach Mossbrucker said that “if you aim at nothing, you are sure to hit it.” So he helped his young team by pushing them to realize their goals and their potential.

by Kristy Carter
Tightening his grip on his opponent is sophomore Eric Boles. Eric placed third at the Holiday Classic.

Reserve Record
MHS 25-38 Warren Central
MHS 51-22 Greenwood
MHS 33-37 Jennings County
MHS 40-27 Seymour
MHS 42-30 Lawrence Central
MHS 24-18 Brownsburg
MHS 21-58 Martinsville
MHS 38-21 Whiteland
MHS 42-12 Franklin
MHS 24-24 Decatur Central
MHS 15-12 Beech Grove
Carmel Reserve Tour. 8th
Mid State Conference 4th
Bloomington N. Tour. 12th

Struggling to pin his opponent is sophomore Chris Hillman. Chris won the match.
"Being a cheerleader is a lot of work, but pepping up the crowd is fun."

Freshman cheerleaders
Deena Coble, Abby Paxton, and Ann Truong help fire up the basketball team at sectionals. Their support helped bring home a few victories.

Varsity cheerleaders - Front
Kelly Kanaby, Amy Fisher
Back: Angel Shilling, Jennifer Barker, Laura Lefler, and Tammy Allen.

Reserve cheerleaders - Front
Nikki Newcomb, Kara Hoffman, Alicia Davis, Paige Miller, and Rayne Coble

Freshmen cheerleaders - Front: Ann Truong, Joslyn Merriman, Abby Paxton; Back: Deena Coble, Heather Keeton, and Kristina Neal

Go Big Blue
Building spirit is the name of the game

"Being a cheerleader is a lot of hard work, but pepping up the crowd is fun," said varsity cheerleader Angel Shillings. Many fans of Mooresville’s athletic teams looked past the cheerleaders to watch the games, but once a time-out was called, their eyes went straight to the girls.

The fans depended on the girls for their spirit and motivation. Whether the athletes were experiencing the “thrill of victory” or the “agony of defeat,” the squad was always there to support and encourage the teams. Their zest and enthusiasm kept the team as well as fans involved in the game. “We tried to get the crowd involved in as many cheers as we could,” said senior Laura Lefler.

Not only girls were involved in “pepping” up the fans and teams. A squad of six guys also helped motivate the crowd. They were Ryan Burnette, Chad Mountcastle, Stacey Terry, Matt Chafey, Andy Lasiter, and Aaron Patrick. They were chosen during tournament time to help create bigger and better excitement. These guys helped build pyramids as well as do cheers with the girls. “I never realized how hard the cheerleaders worked until I became one myself,” said junior Andy Lasiter.

“Cheerleading takes organization, dedication, and responsibility. This year the squad worked together and accomplished all three,” said varsity cheerleader Tammy Allen. All three were accomplished plus a few extras. The cheerleaders didn’t just attend games. They could be found watching games, practicing their cheers and making spirit signs to hang on the walls. These signs reminded students of upcoming events, wished the teams “good luck,” and showed the spirit of Mooresville High School.

By Maureen Weber & Tammy Moore
A spirit pyramid excites the crowd at the homecoming festival. The cheerleaders helped to get the students fired up at every pep session.

Enthusiastic about the upcoming game, the varsity cheerleaders pump up the fans. They backed the team through every victory and defeat.
Managers often helped with the little things such as water and oxygen. The football team had many managers for all the different jobs that needed to be done.

Taking down stats are senior Shannon Hommel and junior Mandy Smith. Their help was greatly beneficial to the coaching staff.
Many people did not stop and ask themselves, "What makes this team run so smoothly?" Is it the coaches; or how about the players on the team? These were all important ingredients, but the managers were also key elements for a smooth-running program.

The football team had five managers who attended all practices and games. They performed such tasks as keeping statistics, washing uniforms, and running all sorts of errands. Senior Heather Davis said, "Working for the team was a lot of fun but it also called for numerous hours of hard work." She added that when the team advanced to Semi-State it was great to be a part of all the excitement.

Football was not the only sport that required the assistance of managers. Almost every athletic team had managers, and despite the demeaning way they were often treated, they generally stuck by the group they served win or lose.

In addition to the fact manager jobs weren't glamorous, they sometimes required spending even more time at school than the athletes spent. Managers reported to practices earlier than the other players on the team and stayed later.

Despite everything, many managers stayed with the sport they managed several years in high school, and some even pursued the activity at the college level. And sometimes they were even recognized for the work they did as Heather Davis was when she received the Indiana Basketball Coaches Manager Scholarship for 1990.

Jeff Overholser

"Working for the team is a lot of fun, but it also called for numerous hours of hard work."

Intently watching the game are senior Heather Davis and junior Linda Grubb. The girls often helped with statistics and other chores.

Collecting balls is sophomore Scott Delp. Scott helped the basketball team by picking up balls, washing uniforms, and keeping stats.
Great Year

"Team improves season through high goals"

General improvement in attitude and performance proved to be the key needed for a successful track season as the 1990 track team set goals and succeeded with a record of 6-2-1.

"More experience from seniors and juniors added the skill and potential the team needed to succeed during the season," said Coach Joel Beebe.

The team experienced various highlights throughout the season, but one stood out from the others—the Mid-State Conference when the team placed second, the best finish of an MHS team in many years.

"We surprised some of the better teams by our performance at Mid-State," said junior Mike Barron. "Nobody expected us to do so well, but we came away with second place."

Many records were set during the year as Brad Phillips broke the high jump record with a height of 6'8", and made it into the top ten records in the 110m high hurdles, 300m low hurdles, and the long jump. Others that broke records were sophomore Nathan Hough in the 100m, 200m, 400m dashes, senior Tim Viles in the 1600m run, and junior Aaron Patrick in the discus throw.

Brad Phillips, Nathan Hough, and Tim Vogel advanced to regionals, and Brad advanced to state in high jump. "Nathan and Brad were outstanding in their events and progressed all-around in ability, leadership, and strength," said Coach Beebe, and Tim actually managed to cut nine seconds off his time to make the qualifying cut.

The Most Valuable Player of the year was Brad Phillips, and Nathan Hough received the mental attitude award for the 1990 season.

by Kristy Carter
Senior Brad Phillips flies through the air for another perfect jump. Brad participated in the high jump, long jump, and hurdles.

Striving for the finish line is senior Tim Viles. Tim advanced to regionals in the 1600 meter run.

Boys Track Record
MHS 59-59 Beech Grove
MHS 92-35 Whiteland
MHS 67-60 Danville
MHS 68-59 Franklin
MHS 87-39 Brownsburg
MHS 43-83 Decatur Central
MHS 71-55 Avon
MHS 78-49 Cascade
MHS 55-71 Center Grove
MHS 95-30 Monrovia
Mid-State Conference 2nd

Making a clean hand-off in the 400 meter relay are senior Allen Young and freshman Andy Bullock.

Pushing for the finish line is sophomore Nathan Hough. Nathan received the mental attitude award.
"It (State) was like no other track meet I've ever been in."

Step by step senior Dana Linious paces herself to come out ahead. Throughout high school, Dana was extremely successful in both cross country and track.

Varsity Girls Track
- MHS 96-22 Beech Grove
- MHS 92-25 Whiteland
- MHS 77-41 Decatur
- MHS 57-61 Danville
- MHS 75-43 Franklin
- MHS 81-37 Brownsburg
- MHS 84-33 Plainfield
- MHS 72-46 Avon
- MHS 77-41 Center Grove

Mid-State--1st Sectionals---8th

The girls track team managed to keep up its remarkable record from the 1989 season with the exception of a close race with Danville. "The race was very competitive, but Danville somehow found the edge they needed to beat us," said senior Cathy Carter.

Other than the one loss, the track team overwhelmed every other team in the conference and as in the past they took first in the Mid-State competition. "It felt good to know we could continue another tradition of Mooresville taking the conference championship, said senior Lisa Whitaker.

After Mid-State, a select few traveled on to Sectionals and then on to Regionals. Lisa Whitaker competed in the 100 and 300 hurdles, and Yvette Kirk advanced in the 100 and 200 meter dash. Yvette ended her season by competing in the State finals at the IUPUI track. "It was like no other track meet I've been in," said Kirk, who was undefeated for the season in the 200 and broke the school record with a time of 26.3. She accomplished that time while qualifying for the state meet.

To finish off the season, Lisa Whitaker was named "most valuable runner," and freshman Chaelee Patrick, who made some big jumps for a young team member, received the mental attitude award. Lisa broke the hurdle record with a time of 15.7 during the season, and Chaelee set her goal to take the long jump record as a returning letter winner.

By Kim Miller
Giving it her all, Jennifer McGlauchlen uses correct form to gain a victory. Coach Dale Graves helped all those who participated in field events.

Using style and grace, Yvette Kirk breezes by her opponents to claim a victory. Kirk had an undefeated season in the 200.

Even though she was just a freshman, Chaelee Patrick had a big jump that competed well with upperclassmen. She placed first consistently during the season.

Senior Cathy Carter fights to the finish against her Avon opponent. Cathy ran the 400 and was a member of the 1600 relay team.
"Winning the Mid-State Conference title was the highlight of the season."
Scott Hornaday

"Winning the Mid-State Conference title was the highlight of the season," said junior Scott Hornaday, a feeling most members of the team shared. Since they had listed the Mid-State title as a primary objective at the beginning of the season the victory was especially sweet when the Pioneers defeated Speedway 6-5 to chalk up a perfect 7-0 record in the conference and earn a police escort back to Mooresville.

Ending the season with 11 wins and 12 losses was nothing to complain about, especially for a young team in a rebuilding year. The record also met an additional goal of ending better than they started. They credited the attitude of never being satisfied as one of the factors of success.

"We played hard and came out much better than anyone expected," said junior Steve Beeler. "But I was disappointed when we did not advance any farther in the sectionals." The Pioneers were eliminated by Decatur Central, the eventual champion in the first round of the traditionally tough Martinsville Sectional, 0-6.

Sophomore Billy Coss, a member of the reserve baseball team said, "The varsity team had a pretty good season. I'm really looking forward to playing next year."

The team was young, yet talented, with freshman Bert Neff leading the team in pitching wins. Sophomore Kevin Bunch led the team in hitting with a .348 average. Chris Perry, the team's MVP, Bert Neff, Billy Daniels, Brian Gary, and Richard Prather all made the All-Conference team.

"We had a very determined team with good morale," said sophomore reserve player Scott Freeman. "It's not the number of wins you end up with; it's how well you play."

by Mary Winters

Title Winners
Team wins Midstate Conference title

"W"inning the Mid-State Conference title was the highlight of the season," said junior Scott Hornaday, a feeling most members of the team shared. Since they had listed the Mid-State title as a primary objective at the beginning of the season the victory was especially sweet when the Pioneers defeated Speedway 6-5 to chalk up a perfect 7-0 record in the conference and earn a police escort back to Mooresville.

Ending the season with 11 wins and 12 losses was nothing to complain about, especially for a young team in a rebuilding year. The record also met an additional goal of ending better than they started. They credited the attitude of never being satisfied as one of the factors of success.

"We played hard and came out much better than anyone expected," said junior Steve Beeler. "But I was disappointed when we did not advance any farther in the sectionals." The Pioneers were eliminated by Decatur Central, the eventual champion in the first round of the traditionally tough Martinsville Sectional, 0-6.

Sophomore Billy Coss, a member of the reserve baseball team said, "The varsity team had a pretty good season. I'm really looking forward to playing next year."

The team was young, yet talented, with freshman Bert Neff leading the team in pitching wins. Sophomore Kevin Bunch led the team in hitting with a .348 average. Chris Perry, the team's MVP, Bert Neff, Billy Daniels, Brian Gary, and Richard Prather all made the All-Conference team.

"We had a very determined team with good morale," said sophomore reserve player Scott Freeman. "It's not the number of wins you end up with; it's how well you play."

by Mary Winters

Reserve Baseball - - Front: Billy Coss, Terry Maddox, Kenny Smith, Jimmy Hunecut, Greg Small, Scott Freeman; Back: Coach Dave Davis, Jason Bell, Danny Rooker, Chris King, Jason Miller, Jeff Newlin.

Freshman Baseball - - Front: Billy Harless, Doug James, Dustin Pennington, Danny Souter, Scott Chapman, Chris Daniels, Vincent Antrim; Back: Clint Goss, Jeff Fishburn, Chad Long, Davin Born, Chris Brown, Donnie Huntsman, Chad Powell, Mike Gillespie, Josh Branch, Coach Steve Bunter.
Varsity Baseball
MHS 2-1 South Putnam
MHS 4-3 Greencastle
MHS 5-8 Cascade
MHS 7-15 Danville
MHS 6-5 Beech Grove
MHS 0-9 Martinsville
MHS 4-7 Lawrence N.
MHS 0-14 Edgewood
MHS 9-2 Franklin
MHS 12-0 Indian Creek
MHS 11-0 White land
MHS 0-2 Sce cina
MHS 7-6 Franklin Cent.
MHS 3-10 Terre Haute N.
MHS 1-10 Decatur Cent.
MHS 2-6 Brownsburg
MHS 2-1 Plainfield
MHS 12-3 Avon
MHS 1-0 Greenwood
MHS 6-8 Tri-West
MHS 6-6 Speedway
MHS 0-10 Ritter
Sectionals
MHS 0-6 Decatur Cent.

Junior Richard Prather
winds up for pitch. Pitching was one of the inexperienced elements of the young team.

Turning the doubleplay,
shortstop Scott Hornaday tags the bag and throws to first.

"We had a young team this year with a lot of potential for the coming seasons."

Swinging to make a successful hit is senior Cari Mathis. Softball was one of the many activities in which Cari was involved.

Varsity Softball -

Season Curve

Girls face many obstacles during season

In a word, the season was challenging. With only 3 wins and 11 losses, however, the girls managed to remain optimistic.

"Even though we did not have a great season, I feel it was still a good experience," said freshman Shelly Terry.

The team was relatively young with only four seniors on the 13-member team.

"We had a young team this year, with a lot of potential for the coming seasons," said senior Cari Mathis.

Several games were canceled due to the heavy rains that flooded Sonshine Park, where the softball games were played.

"We missed important games toward the end of the season that would have helped us to prepare for sectionals. It was really disappointing," said junior Maureen Weber.

In the team's sixth season, two school records were set by Cassie Swinney, who had 55 career stolen bases, and Cari Mathis who had at .547 batting average for the season.

"We lost two key players in Cassie and Cari who were probably the biggest offensive threats in the conference," said coach Brett Taber. "We expected them to do something each time they came to the plate."

Taber added, "I'll remember this season as the year of the big inning, because we always played one inning per game very poorly. And that inning proved to be the deciding runs of the game."

By the end of the season seven underclassmen had lettered, a fact that made Coach Taber anticipate a strong future for Mooresville softball.

This was the second season for the reserve squad which gave sophomores playing time the coaches hoped would be beneficial to future teams.

by Mary Winters
Hoping to get to the plate before the ball is junior Maureen Weber. This was her third year on the softball team.

Throwing the ball home to prevent Franklin from scoring is senior Cassie Swinney. A vital part of the team, Cassie set a school record for the most stolen bases.

Coaching is a stressful job, as shown by Coach Brett Taber. He spent many hours preparing the girls for their games.
"Even though we didn't advance beyond sectionals, I felt good about our performance."

Keeping his eyes on the ball is senior Mike Stewart. Mike received an award for having the best record.

Junior Tracy Alsip practices putting before a match. Tracy played well in only his first year to play golf.

Juniors Brian Doyle and Andy Lasiter head out on the first hole at Mooresville Golf Course. Brian and Andy ended the season in the number one and two spots.

Brian Doyle follows through with his swing. Brian was named the team's most valuable player.
Rainy Season

Team fights to gain experience

“This year helped me to see the potential I have for being a good golfer. It’s all a matter of time and practice,” said junior Brian Doyle. Although the records might not have shown a successful season for the golf team, success was there for many individuals.

For the second year in a row there were only two seniors leading the team. There were many new members that had little experience with the game. Although victories were few, personal scores improved as the season progressed.

Golf is more a mental game than a physical one. Senior Mike Stewart commented, “It is important to keep your concentration up. Focusing your concentration on the shot is the key to being a good golfer.”

Although the players went to meets as a team, each individual was on his own when the game was underway. Team unity basically came into play only at practices. At practice they received advice not only from their coach, Jim Whitaker, but from their teammates. Competition among the team itself helped strengthen each individual’s game.

The season came to a close finishing seventh at the Martinsville Sectional at Foxcliff Country Club. Throughout the day the team battled rain and strong winds. This atmosphere was just a technicality as the rains and winds came along with much of their regular season play. Senior Mark Overpeck was the top Mooresville golfer at sectionals with a 94. "Even though we didn't advance beyond sectionals, I felt good about our performance," said Mark.

The Pioneer golfers ended their season with a 3-9 record.

By Amy Kollmeyer
"We had a tough schedule but we went out every night and gave it our best."

With shades on and racquet drawn senior Laura Lefler competes for the tennis team. She was a two year member of the group.

Good net play makes senior Amy Crose one of the best. She lost only five regular season matches in three years.

Varsity Girls Tennis--Front: Candy Truong, Ann Truong, Amy Crose; Back: Coach Don Peters, Danyele Green, Kathy Kober, Samantha Witt.
With the start of the girls tennis season there came a light of hope. Three girls were returning; seniors Kathy Kober, Amy Crose, and Laura Lefler. The season seemed to have its downfalls. Kathy Kober, the number one singles player, sprained her ankle keeping her out of six matches. Amy Crose took over the number one position and lost two matches; however, these were against top ranked teams.

When the team was at its strongest Kathy Kober and Amy Crose were assured winners. Laura Lefler was at the number three single and sophomores Samantha Witt and Danyele Green were the number one doubles team. Two freshmen comprised the number two doubles team, Ann and Candy Truong. "It was really different playing with my sister. The coach thought we got along and never fought but we proved him wrong sometimes."

Mid-State seemed to be a learning tournament. Senior Amy Crose advanced the farthest but was defeated in the final match against Plainfield. The team finished fifth in the conference.

In the Southport Sectionals the Pioneers faced off against Indian Creek, but the girls lost 2-3. Winning for the girls was Kathy Kober and the number one doubles team of Witt and Green. The girls finished the season with a 6-8 record. "We had a tough schedule but we went out every night and gave it our best."

Jeff Overholser

Bad Weather

A season hindered by rain and wind

With the start of the girls tennis season there came a light of hope. Three girls were returning; seniors Kathy Kober, Amy Crose, and Laura Lefler. The season seemed to have its downfalls. Kathy Kober, the number one singles player, sprained her ankle keeping her out of six matches. Amy Crose took over the number one position and lost two matches; however, these were against top ranked teams.

When the team was at its strongest Kathy Kober and Amy Crose were assured winners. Laura Lefler was at the number three single and sophomores Samantha Witt and Danyele Green were the number one doubles team. Two freshmen comprised the number two doubles team, Ann and Candy Truong. "It was really different playing with my sister. The coach thought we got along and never fought but we proved him wrong sometimes."

Mid-State seemed to be a learning tournament. Senior Amy Crose advanced the farthest but was defeated in the final match against Plainfield. The team finished fifth in the conference.

In the Southport Sectionals the Pioneers faced off against Indian Creek, but the girls lost 2-3. Winning for the girls was Kathy Kober and the number one doubles team of Witt and Green. The girls finished the season with a 6-8 record. "We had a tough schedule but we went out every night and gave it our best."

Jeff Overholser
"His outstanding work ethic makes other players better."

Star Athletes

Cochenour plays against the Russians

The 1990 school year came to a close with the athlete of the year honors being awarded. When the name had been announced, it was no big surprise that Todd Cochenour walked away with the prize. Throughout his tenure with Mooresville High School, Todd participated in football, basketball, and track, lettering a total of ten times, while also setting the career scoring mark for Mooresville in basketball. During his senior year, he was named the Star/News "Athlete of the Week" for football and for basketball and was named to "Team Indiana" which played the Soviets at Assembly Hall.

Cochenour's honors during his career at Mooresville Included: all-sectional, all-regional, all-conference, all-metro, and all-state.

Whitaker advances to state for the third year

She had the kind of attitude about work that allowed her to become good at a sport," said cross country coach Dale Graves, "She didn't spend time worrying about the consequences of failure." This kind of attitude won Lisa Whitaker the athlete of the year award.

Lisa participated in cross country, gymnastics, and track for four years. She was gymnastics MVP her freshman year, cross country MVP her junior year, and cross country and gymnastics MVP her senior year. The school records in floor, bars, and vault are all held by Lisa.

Of course these things didn't just happen overnight. Lisa started gymnastics when she was four years old. Since then she has started attending workshops year-round. "You meet a lot of people from other schools. It has built up my confidence in other things besides sports," she said.

Besides being a good athlete herself, Lisa helped her teammates become better athletes as well. "She worked hard herself, therefore, the younger ones knew they had to work hard too," said former gymnastics coach Kathy Bothwell. Cross-country teammate Marie Kober said, "Lisa's leadership helped me get over my nervousness and do better at meets."

One might think Lisa's grades would have been hurt since so much of her time was devoted to sports, but she managed to keep up with both. "It was a lot harder but worth it," she said.

Trina Brown
"She worked hard herself, therefore, the younger ones knew they had to work hard too."

Scrambling for the end zone is senior Todd Cochenour. Todd was the MVP for the team.

An almost lifetime sport for Lisa Whitaker was gymnastics. It was also a very consistent area of success for her.

Soaring over the hurdle, Lisa leads her competitors to the finish line. She was a four year member of the track team.
Communism took another fall as citizens of Poland fought for their right to freedom. More than 50,000 people met at the workers' monument to celebrate the victory.

Bush and Walesa discussed possibilities of more aid to Poland from Western nations than the $115 million already announced by Bush. Many feared that public unrest would upset the delicate progress toward democracy. Provisions were made for tighter controls to be placed on funds so they would not be wasted as they had been in the past.

By Sandra Parrott

Citizens cheer as communism and the barrier which separates them from freedom crumbles. The events at Berlin inspired many other countries.
Government: Slay Student Protestors

One of the most dramatic events in 1989 was the student demonstration against communism in Beijing, China. This uprising took place in Tiananmen Square, where students demonstrated for democracy by fasting and protesting with banners and signs. The students even structured a 33-foot high replica of the Statue of Liberty called the Goddess of Democracy, but this statue was crushed by Chinese tanks and then taken away by soldiers.

Martial law was declared on May 20. Chinese troops attempted to return to the square but were driven back by the masses of citizens who were sympathetic to the protesters. The government attacked on June 3, killing thousands. The Chinese soldiers opened fire on a crowd of students in Tiananmen Square, murdering many protesters who were fighting for their freedom. Diplomats and Red Cross Chinese officials estimated 3,600 died and 60,000 were injured. China cut off all communications with other countries to avoid the publicity of the massacre in Beijing.

In spite of the revolt and the killing of thousands of Chinese students, government policy continued as it had before the uprising in Tiananmen Square.

By Sandra Parrott

Communism: Fades, Democracy is people's choice

Changes in communist policies began with the Chinese Revolt in the spring of 1989. Czechoslovakia, Budapest, East Germany, Russia and Rumania were more successful.

At midnight November 9, 1989, Egon Krenz ordered the Berlin Wall to be opened.

Soviet Union president Mikhail Gorbachev restarted a multi-party system that had not been in effect since 1920.

Rumanian leaders were executed during the people's revolution for freedom. Thousands of citizens were killed in Bucharest.

Emiliam Mariam, a Rumania, said, "We are like children waking from a nightmare in the middle of the night. All we want is reassurance that it won't happen again."

By Jenni Baggett

One student faces death as Chinese tanks charge into areas of democratic reform. Many were killed as people around the world protested against communism.
Is the Color of Courage

People say that certain colors have character: red is vicious, yellow is joyful, blue is sadness. Indiana residents, as well as the nation, found that in 1990, white stood for courage.

After being diagnosed with AIDS in 1984, Ryan White journeyed from being known as the young boy with AIDS to a national hero.

Ryan’s life was touched by many, but his contributions to the life of the nation were immeasurable. His battles have given other AIDS patients their rights.

Former Indiana Health Commissioner, Woodrow Myers said, “Through his eloquence, he showed all of us our true colors and showed us we had picked the wrong enemy. We should have been fighting all along against the disease rather than the people who had it. It is quite rare that someone so young can make such a major difference in such a short time.” He continued, "Ryan White, however, was no ordinary young man."

“I saw Ryan when he was grand marshal of the Fourth of July parade last year,” said Larry Schmidt of Arcadia. “He was smiling and happy and waving a small American flag. That’s the Ryan I want to remember.” Ryan White died in April, but his memory will live forever.

By Sandra Parrott

Many remember Ryan White’s strength and persistence as well as his smiles. His life set precedents for other AIDS victims who were fighting for their rights.

Mooresville Receives a Facelift

The town’s revitalization group began projects to make Mooresville a beautiful place to live. Work began on new sidewalks and town entrances.

Paul Bryant, president of the revitalization group, said, “Our intent was to enhance the open areas of Mooresville and make them clean and attractive.” He added, “Community support has been great. This is the only major movement (in Mooresville) that has not had an organized resistance.”

One proposal included a retail center to be built on the east side of 67. Economic developer Randy Haymaker said, “The idea is that if we can have a little more retail here in Mooresville it will be good for our existing business people. One of our goals is to cut down on the number of trips to Greenwood and Indianapolis.”

By Trina Brown

The corner of Indiana and Main created a new atmosphere for the town with its monument to Paul Hadley and tribute to Samuel Moore. Other ideas were disputed by many.
Hero Returns Home

Sammy Davis, a 1968 MHS graduate, returned to his alma mater, April 27, 1990, as the center of attention for a junior high/high school convocation.

The program, which was sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars and included several state dignitaries, honored Davis for his acts of bravery which saved several fellow Marines during his service in Vietnam and earned him the country's Medal of Honor.

"I went to the gym prepared for a boring convo," said senior Erika Baumstark. "But I soon became very interested in Sammy Davis's history and I got a lot out of what was said."

Most students said they were touched by the account of Davis's courage and selflessness told by one of the men he saved, and proud that he was from Mooresville.

_by Sandy Parrott_

One man tells the story of how Sammy Davis saved his life to Mooresville schools and community. The pride evident in Davis's stance was felt by many Mooresville citizens.

---

Skaters Find a Place of Their Own

Skaters met and discussed the possibility of the park board and individual groups constructing a skateboard park. John O'Neal, a local businessman, took the idea, initiated by Kenny Fields and Andrew Duncan, to the town board. O'Neal, along with banks in town, donated money to the project and land was appropriated in Pioneer Park.

O'Neil said, "At first I had my doubts about whether or not this idea would work until I saw this kind of turnout."

_by Josh Earley_

Some Mooresville skaters meet in the high school parking lot looking forward to the time when they will have a space of their own. Skating became a fast growing trend with high school students.
San Francisco
Wins Again

The San Francisco 49ers destroyed the record books as well as the Denver Broncos in their own private Mardi Gras at the Louisiana Superdome.

Joe Montana used his gifted right arm to snag a record third Super Bowl MVP award. Montana completed 22 of 29 passes for 297 yards and a record five touchdown passes.

In an Indianapolis Star article Montana said, “My game was easy; I had some of the best protection; I think I was touched once all day.”

By Tony Finley

Wide receiver Jerry Rice is hauled down by opposing teammates. The 49ers proved that the Broncos were not much competition.

Quake
Upsets World Series

The Oakland A’s swept the series against the San Francisco Giants 5-0, 5-1, 13-7, and 9-6 and became the first team to sweep the World Series since the Cincinnati Reds won over the New York Yankees.

The earthquake which postponed the series measured 7.1 on the Richter scale. The Marina was by far the hardest hit area. The upper deck of the Bay Bridge collapsed sending one car into a gaping hole.

The World Series had actually saved many lives. It would have been rush hour on the Nimitz freeway, but nearly everyone had left early and gone to Candlestick or home to watch the game on T.V.

The 1989 World Series would be remembered as the longest one in history, taking 14 days to complete a 4 game sweep.

By Shannon Clipp

Workmen rumage through the rubble while trying to free captives. The Cypress Street Viaduct of the Nimitz Freeway fell apart and 250 people were trapped between the levels; some were crushed to death.
Controversy, death, and close calls; the NCAA Tournament had the ingredients of a James Bond flick. The only difference was that in the movies, it was obvious who was going to win.

The tourney featured a heavily favored Big-Ten Conference contributing seven of its ten teams. But I.U. and Illinois were both dropped in the first round by "powerhouses" California-Berkely and Dayton. Michigan, Iowa State, and Purdue fell in the second round. The only teams to advance to the final sixteen were Michigan State and Minnesota which were both in the Southeast region. The Spartans were knocked off in the regionals after a desperation shot at the buzzer was too late to count. Minnesota made it to the final eight but was eliminated by Georgia Tech. Another local team, Notre Dame, was eliminated in the first round by Virginia.

But Ball State made plenty of Hoosiers happy! Thanks to an awesome Chandler Thompson, the Cardinals put themselves in the Sweet Sixteen and on the map. Their 69-67 downfall came to eventual champs, UNLV, who ran away from Duke, 103-73, in the final game to take the Championship title.

By Keith Barron

Ball State Coach Rick Call poses with his Herff Jones Plaque. Ball State made Indiana Citizens happy with its success in the NCAA.
Plenty to "Do"

Hair Styles Show Personality

Originality was the word in hair styles for the 1989-90 school year. Hair was more than just a covering for one’s head; it became a way for a person to express his or her own personality.

The process of cutting hair became an art form as many chose to have their heads “carved” with everything from geometrical shapes to words or phrases. Stripes, zig-zags and product names were a few of the popular designs both males and females exhibited. Popular music groups and movies were also the products of “hair art.”

For the males, length was a common theme. At the same time however, the flat top, the Hollywood Burr, and the shingled effect made a great comeback.

While some girls preferred the natural “straight” look, others experimented with zigzag and spiral perms. The short, elegant style was also reappearing with females due to the convenience of its upkeep.

Mousse, gels, spritz and hairspray helped hold many people’s styles. Curling and spiking still remained as some of the most popular ways to “do” hair; yet no one style prevailed.

By Michelle Martin and Sandy Parrott

Exercise Becomes More Important

As gyms began to sprout up across the countryside, it became apparent that physical fitness was becoming more important to Americans. Scandinavian, Gold’s Gym, and For Lady’s Only seemed to be the most prominent places to work out in the midst of friends.

The sales of videos like Richard Simmons’ “Sweatin’ to the Oldies I and II” and Jane Fonda’s home workouts skyrocketed.

Others worked toward the fat free body by dieting with such plans as Optifast, Mediplan, Nutrisystem, and Weight Watchers.

By Sandra Parrott

Junior Matt Stone participates in the advanced P.E. class. This was one way for students to keep in shape while at school.
Earth Awareness at Its Peak

In the nineties Americans realized the value of the environment and how quickly the earth was disappearing. Demonstrations were led to further public awareness about the threatening use of aerosol cans. Aerosols, such as hairspray, deodorant, and cleansers, were produced by using chloro-fluoro carbons which lead to the decay of the ozone layer. The ozone layer protects the earth from harmful gamma rays released by the sun.

People spoke out against all forms of pollution. The most publicised environmental affair was the declaration of "Earth Day" and the nationwide television broadcast. The recycling of paper, plastics, glass, aluminium, and many other products was one proposed way that everyone could contribute to saving the earth.

By Sandra Parrott

One member of the Exxon cleanup crew surveys the oil-covered shoreline. The Alaskan oil spill resulted in the largest spill in U.S. history.

Everybody's Different

Fashion Expresses Lifestyles the 70's.

Aside from clothes from the past, those articles of clothing once thought of as an accessory were used as a fashion statement. Vests were seen in tapestry, paisely, suede, solid, and every possible combination. Silk scarves draped many ensembles adding a splash of life and color.

Jackets coated the world in a variety of styles and colors from the long overcoat style to the short suit coat. Nautical clothing was afloat once more and military uniforms placed high in the ranks with many.

Anything and everything was garnished with fringe, buckles, tassels, beads, buttons, bows, and ribbons. The more gaudy the item, the easier it was to sell.

Shoes were a must, and they could be found in every style and price range. Air Jordans, Air Flights, Reebok, British Nights, and L.A.Gear topped the athletic shoe chart while dress shoes ranged from the simple pump to the ankle high lace up or the patten leather flat. Jewelry, purses and hats were used to complete a variety of ensembles.

By Sandra Parrott
Music Continues to Rock Audiences

All types of music made vast contributions to the world of Rock n' Roll.

New Kids on the Block made it big while Paula Abdul, Janet Jackson, and Bobby Brown brought dance and music back together.

Rap music gained popularity. Young MC, MC Hammer, and Public Enemy usually held the spotlight.

The legacies of Montley Crue, Whitesnake, Aerosmith, and Ozzy Osbourne lived up to their musical reputation while Guns N' Roses caused a controversy with their reputation of social behavior.

By Hannah Haas

The Rolling Stones made a comeback with their legendary tunes. Thousands flocked to their local concert at Deer Creek.

Movies

Make it Big at the Box Office

The Silver Screen continued with its success as box office smashes hit the streets.

"Born on the Fourth of July" won actor Tom Cruise an Academy Award nomination for his portrayal of a Vietnam veteran.

Movie-goers viewing "Look Who's Talking" experienced a baby's thoughts of his mother's "manhunt," while Steve Martin's "Parenthood" kept audiences laughing with its explanations of everyday life.

"War of the Roses" illustrated the difficulty of liking through a divorce, while Steel Magnolias proved the importance of friendship.

"Back to the Future III" brought the long-awaited conclusion to the trilogy, but anticipation was aroused over the soon-to-be-released Dick Tracy.

By Sandra Parrott

"Batman," the movie based on the comicstrip and television show, was one of the most anticipated and largest box office smashes of the year. Batman memorabilia overflowed store shelves everywhere.
Animation

Makes a Comeback

In a world of changes and technology, seeing cartoons regain popularity in entertainment was a fun change of pace for many. The animated productions entertained not only children but many adults as well.

Walt Disney’s “The Little Mermaid” and Don Bluth’s “All Dogs Go to Heaven” were two popular animated movies released during the summer. Both captured the hearts of many with teary eyes and glowing smiles.

Films such as “Ghostbusters” were not only hits in the theater but became a popular daily cartoon. Both the cartoon and the original screen play promoted the success of the sequel “Ghostbusters II.”

The “Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles” cartoon series inspired the movie that broke box-office sales records. The Turtles not only made big sales for movie-makers but also for store owners everywhere with the variety of merchandise that hit the shelves.

“The Simpsons” provided a fresh break for television viewers. Bart, Homer and the rest of the cartoon family became national symbols for the modern American family and were seen everywhere from collectibles to clothing.

By Michelle Martin

The Fox network won fame with the cartoon series “The Simpsons.” Animation became prominent once again in the entertainment world.

"Potato" Famine

Not a Threat This Year, Couch Potatoes in Plenty

Couch Potatoes became a more frequent American phenomena as variety hit the screen with a "BANG!" The battle of the tube hit hard as the networks strived to satisfy some of every generation in the variety of shows that graced the television. Many remained tuned to their old favorites while others experimented with the new programs released in the fall.

Audiences of all ages relived the "Wonder Years" and looked back to days past with "The Young Riders" and "The Outsiders." Others were intrigued by the unordinary life of a 16 year old doctor named Doogie Howser while "Rosanne," the "Cosby Show," and "Married With Children" brought laughs with their views of ordinary family life.

Action seemed to be a key word, whether fiction or non-fiction. "Baywatch" attracted beach-goers and the "Nasty Boys" caught the attention of the quick paced cop show fans. At the same time, shows like "911," "Unsolved Mysteries," and "COPS" created a scene for real life action to be exposed.

Many spin-offs continued to be successful. "It’s a Different World" (Cosby) illustrated the bizarre world of college while the FOX duo of "21 Jumpstreet" and "Booker" continued to attract audiences with their drug busts and detective work.

Everyone longed to star on the screen and two new shows gave home viewers that chance. "America’s Funniest Home Videos" and "Totally Hidden Video" created a display for everyone to make the nation laugh and win prizes at the same time.

"Twin Peaks" provided a bizarre way to spend an evening while the strange humor of "In Living Color" made it big.

Networks strived to keep the hits rolling, and T.V. remained to be one of the great American pastimes.

By Sandra Parrott
Speaking to a student audience on Speech Day is junior Robert Hubbard. Speech Team members were given the chance to perform for English classes in the auditorium.

Regaining consciousness after fainting is freshman Gretchen Vogel. Other members of the Drama Club accompany her in a scene from the club's performance of Ten Little Indians.

Freshmen Dennis White, Chad Powell, Derek Crimmins, and company act like children while performing Do Re Mi. Genesis was just one of the acts which performed at Wagon Trails Revue.
One More Thing To Do

As new organizations such as PUSH (Prevention Using Student Help) were created, students became involved, while members of some older organizations such as the Academic Superbowl team were forced to participate in something else as it was eliminated for one year.

PUSH members tried to make elementary students aware of the dangers of substance abuse. By travelling in groups of six, PUSH members performed skits which reflected the message they wished to send to the students at the various elementary schools.

Senior PUSH member Holly Knierim said, "I feel that what we did for the kids may help them in the future. I hope that they learned something from our skits and will remember our message."

Some organizations at Mooresville met during the school day, while others were forced to meet after school. To many organizations such as choir, band, guard, speech, drama, yearbook, and newspaper staffs, it was imperative that they meet during school to accomplish their goals and responsibilities. Other groups were not so fortunate.

Such organizations as "I know," Key Club, Pioneer Heritage, SADD, Model UN, National Honor Society, FCA, Art Club, Impulse Staff, and the foreign language clubs were forced to meet either before or after school.

"It is terrible. You can't get anyone to get up that early; most of them are half asleep. If you meet after school you compete with athletics. It makes it imperative to have an activity period. There just aren't many alternatives," said Key Club, Pioneer Heritage, and Model UN sponsor Mr. Don Adams.

By Ryan Milburn

Playing his trumpet during a halftime show is junior band member Brian Doyle. The band played at all the home football games providing spectators with extra enthusiasm.

Twirling her baton is junior Pioneer Guard member Angela Healy. The guard performed their "magical" winter show at various contests around the state and the nation.
"This has been a great year for the choirs!"

Elaine Moebius

This has been a great year for the choirs; the kids worked hard and I'm very pleased with everyone's performance," said director Elaine Moebius.

Genesis left a lasting impression with their unforgettable version of "Do, Re, Mi." They also attended the ISSMA Choral Contest and placed first.

Varsity Choir began the year with few students, but by the end of the year gained not only more singers, but much improvement.

Vocalise was also a small group but added variety in each show by the selection of songs performed by the group. Vocalise and Varsity combined at the ISSMA contest and also received a first.

Spotlighters worked hard and were top competitors at each show they performed in. "Rhythm Nation" added a bit of excitement for both the Spots and their audience, and may have contributed to the "best choreography" award they received at the Ohio Invitational.

By Nikki Goddard

Reaching out for an exciting ending by using a starburst is the jazzy Vocalise group. This was the second year for Vocalise to perform.

Vocalise - Front: T. Bishop, R. Bare, S. Terry, A. Kollmeyer, D. Dunham, A. Bach, T. Burns; Back: A. Heiskanen, C. Corwin, T. Coleman, S. Parrott, S. Wiley, M. Bis, B. Clements.

Symphonic Band - Front: Larry Silcox, Andrea Pygman, Laura Bowden, Stacey Smith, Amanda Curtis; Row 2: Sarah Waddelow, Erin Finney, Deanna Elsbury, Sherri Gentry, Angie Mason; Row 3: Barb Silvers, Mandy Lucas, Erika Baumstark, Tiffany Dennis, Tiffany Davidson, Pam Fornier; Row 4: David Kelley, Andy Duncan, Heather Cordes, Erick Mau, Scott Freeman, Mark Overpeck, Deric ostrum, Michelle Shea; Row 5: Charlie Smith, Laurie Lee, Greg Bailey, Jenny Scott, Rob Shugars, Brian Doyle, Mark Gott, Joe Davee, Brad Sachs, Max Hahn; Back: Brett Curtis, Dean Zlatniski, Ruben Hinnners, Chris Edwards, Jennifer Cordes, Maureen Weber, Todd Gruver, Adam Hughes.

Jazz Band - Front: Sherri Gentry, Amanda Curtis, Heather Cordes, Andy Duncan, Laurie Lee, Jenny Scott; Middle: Angie Mason, Dean Zlatniski, Brad Sachs, Joe Davee, Brian Doyle, Mark Gott; Back: Greg Bailey, Ruben Hinners, Chris Edwards, Todd Gruver, Maureen Weber, Jennifer Cordes.

Orchestra - Front: Jennifer Doyle, Stephanie Van Vlymen, Angie Rike, Rosemary Staten; Back: Mrs. Cheryl Fife, Kristina Hornaday, Angie Moore, Paula Atwood, Greg Bailey.

136 Organizations
Playing the cello in the orchestra for Wagon Trails Revue is Greg Bailey. The orchestra works hard to add variety to the music department.

Standing tall are drummers Charlie Smith, Dean Zlatni, and David Kelley. Each year the bands performed at Wagon Trails Revue for their peers and families.

"Florida was definitely the highlight of my senior year..."
Deanna Elsbury

Florida sun was only one of many things band members looked forward to. The bands competed during spring break in this sunny paradise. The Guard and marching band rejoiced with a first place rating while the jazz band brought home a second and symphonic a fourth. Each band could be very proud of their performance.

"Florida was definitely the highlight of my senior year of being in band," said Senior Deanna Elsbury.

Placing higher than any other MHS band has in ten years at Organizational Contest proved their 6:00 a.m. practices paid off. The bands also received a first in sight-reading.

Sharing memories and awarding those deserving members were all a part of banquets. The marching banquet and the spring banquet were both times the band members were reminded of how much they appreciated each other. Announcing next year's drum major and officers was also a major announcement.
"It has been a highly talented and cooperative group!"

- Impulse Sponsor
Anne Phillips

Junior Bill Parker works on striping a page for the Pulse. Bill often stayed after school to work on the production of the paper.

Co-editors Holly Knierim and Chris Perry plan the next issue for the Pulse. Holly and Chris were also in charge of assigning stories and managing the staff.

Publications offer variety

“It’s obvious that the staff knows what it’s doing,” said one judge about the Pulse on a critique.

Both newspaper and yearbook staffs received top ratings for the year along with some individual awards. Senior Shawn Witt received first place in Advanced Cartooning for the second year in a row at Media Merit-thon, and Deric Ostrum won IHSPA’s top award for movie reviews. “It’s neat to see bits and pieces of copy and pictures come together at the end of the year to form the yearbook,” said senior Michelle Martin.

Concentrated work also began in January to get the popular senior paper published, a project that gave seniors the chance to laugh at themselves. The paper had 84 pages of wills, prophecies, senior stats, and baby pictures.

In addition, Impulse staff, described by sponsor Ann Phillips as a highly talented and cooperative group, produced its seventh edition of artwork, essays, and poetry.

By Amy Crose

Spending extra time after school was a normal occurrence for senior Kathy Kober. Kathy worked on both Pulse and the senior paper.
Pulse Staff - Front: sponsor Carl Brown, Holly Knierim, Darlene Eastes, Jessica Bowsaw, Angie Mason, Robin Knop; Deanna Elsbury, sponsor Diana Hadley; Row 2: Kim Wiley, Ginger Tandy, Kristi Ransome, Kathy Kober, Brenda Holmes, Lisa Whittaker; Row 3: Bill Parker, Chris Curry, Derik Ostrum, Brian Kinnick, Shawn Witt, Chris Perry, Steve Taylor; Back: David Solberg, Cassie Swinney, Brad Phillips, Todd Cochenour, Chris McCleod, Ryan Burnett.

Yearbook Staff - Front: Tammy Moore, Kristy Carter, Amy Crose, Nikki Goddard, Mary Winters, Janelle Beebe, sponsor Diana Hadley; Middle: Ginger Tandy, Sandy Parrott, Erika Baumstark, Michelle Martin, Heather Davis, Amy Kollmeyer; Back: Lisa Adams, Jenny Yeager, Tom Vogel, Jeff Overholser, Bryce Mansfield, Kim Miller, Mike Kourany.

Impulse Staff - Front: Brenda Holmes, Ray Lucas, Kristina Hornaday, Andy Duncan, Angie Mason, Steve Taylor; Back: Laura Bowden, Jeff Lindley, Stacey Smith, sponsor Ann Phillips.

Senior Paper Staff - Front: John Troung, Tim Viles, Tricia Jones, Mike Stewart, Amy Kollmeyer, Ginger Tandy, Sherri Gentry; Back: sponsor Darlene Lewis, Erin Collins, Beth Burleson, Andrea Hedges, Tammy Garrity, Heather Davis, Kathy Kober, Debbie Brickett, sponsor Karen Yeager.
National Honor Society - Front: Sandy Parrott, Deanna Elsbury, Debbie Brickert, Mary Winters, John Truong, Dennis Dunham, Sponsor: Bob Adams; Middle: Danny Perkins, Chris Perry, Mike Kourany, Laura Lefler, Kathy Kober, Heather Davis, Angie Beikman; Back: Brad Phillips, Ryan Milburn, Jeff Overholser, Tim Viles, David Solberg, Todd Gruver, Tom Vogel.

Student Council - Front: Abby Paxton, Candy Truong, Susan Schoolcraft, Jennifer McPhee, Crystal Lee, Delia Love, Wendy Evans; Middle: David Dunham, Ryan Hall, Amy Crose, Maureen Weber, Barry Andrew, Peter Eicher, Sara Campbell; Back: Cari Mathis, Allen Young, Todd Cochenour, Ryan Milburn, Nathan Hough, Eric Rutherford, Kim Miller.

Junior Rachel Haskins awaits the sting of the needle at the blood draw. Student Council sponsored the draw in which 47 donors participated.

Juniors Kelly Kanaby, Tammy Moore, Andrea Pygman, and Matt Saucerman take the oath of the honor student. A total of 18 students were inducted into National Honor Society.

"... We try to do things that make school activities more enjoyable for the students."

- Cari Mathis

In addition to sponsoring the annual Homecoming and Christmas dances, Student Council sponsored a semi-formal Valentine’s dance for the first time. They also reintroduced the costume Halloween dance which included a Haunted House, and they continued the annual blood draw. “I enjoy being a member of Student Council, because we try to do things that will make school activities more enjoyable for the students,” said senior Cari Mathis.

National Honor Society also did various things for the community. During National Library Week they travelled to the elementary schools and read books to the students. They also tutored elementary students who needed help with their classes.

Prom Steering Committee had been at work for many months before the prom took place. They sponsored “One Step From Paradise” for the seniors at the WhiteRiver Ballroom in the Convention Center. Blue and mauve were chosen for the colors of the dance.

By Amy Crose
Serving others was a big part of FCA. The group came together for many holiday church services and participated by ushering. Parties, cook-outs, bowling, and shopping were also a few fun-filled activities FCA enjoyed.

Making sure students were aware of the consequences of drinking and driving was the main objective for SADD. They did that by statistics announced in the morning, a wrecked car in front of the building, SADD week, and ads in the Pulse and yearbook.

Key Club purchased new benches for the front of the building and planted flowers on the grounds. "Being a part of Key Club has given me a new perspective on serving the community," said Senior Ryan Burnett.

Pioneer Heritage was made up of a small group of students interested in learning more about the history of their local community specifically and the country in general. The group toured the historical section of libraries and planned trips.

By Nikki Goddard

"...Key Club has given me a new perspective on serving..."

Ryan Burnett

As the ball spins on the can, Tanya Crevier pours the Pepsi in Senior Ryan Milburn's mouth. FCA invited Tanya to entertain the students with her amazing talents.

Working on the new benches purchased by Key Club are club members Keith Barron and Scott Freeman. The benches added to the atmosphere in front of the building.

Serving for valuable causes

Serving others was a big part of FCA. The group came together for many holiday church services and participated by ushering. Parties, cook-outs, bowling, and shopping were also a few fun-filled activities FCA enjoyed.

Making sure students were aware of the consequences of drinking and driving was the main objective for SADD. They did that by statistics announced in the morning, a wrecked car in front of the building, SADD week, and ads in the Pulse and yearbook.

Key Club purchased new benches for the front of the building and planted flowers on the grounds. "Being a part of Key Club has given me a new perspective on serving the community," said Senior Ryan Burnett.

Pioneer Heritage was made up of a small group of students interested in learning more about the history of their local community specifically and the country in general. The group toured the historical section of libraries and planned trips.

By Nikki Goddard

Attempting to balance nine basketballs on her body is Tanya Crevier. Tanya was known to some as the "World's Greatest Woman Basketball Handler".
Key Club- Front: Scott Huter, Keith Barron, Tim Viles, Tom Vogel; Back: Scott Freeman, Ryan Burnett, Kurt Milburn, Jason Miller.

FCA- Front: Sponsor Joel Beebe, Sponsor Steve Hilligoss, Chad Long, Shannon Clipp, Janelle Beebe, Sponsor Stan Emerson; Row 2: Robbie Hughes, Linda Grubb, Andrea Pygman, Dawn Hull, Jenny Owens, Billy Harless, Dawn Gregory; Row 3: Scott Huter, David Manning, Chris King, Danny Lundy, Lissa Swinney, Dennis White; Back: Mandy Lucas, Willie Roberson, Jason Bowen, Susan Schoolcraft, Rayne Coble.

Pioneer Heritage- Front: Laura Bowden, Randi Jo Coffman, Heather Moore; Back: Sponsor Don Adams, Brandon Gentry.
German Club - Front: Mary Winters, Rob Shugars, Deanna Elsbury, Kevin Morris, Ray Lucas, Mark Locher, Sponsor Donna Swanson; Row 2: Natalie Craig, Heather McGuire, Emily Armstrong, Mandy Lucas, Pamela Fertner, Candice Zorniger, Shannon Smith, Jenni Eckert; Row 3: Kyla Heavrin, Chad Nungester, Mark Gott, Greg Vibbart, Daniel Conut, Jennifer Gosc, Amber Martin, Jaci Herink; Back: Brandon Gentry, Mike Fishero, Larry Silcox, Robert Hubbard, Jennifer Doyle, Matt Chafey, Brad Sachs, Amanda Hamm.

Spanish Club - Front: Angel Thomas, Mary Richwine, Elizabeth Burelson, Kristina Hornaday, Sponsor Caroline Blickenstaff, Michele Brown; Row 2: Heather Moore, Brandy Spence, Heather Worrell, Jamie Barlow, Raegan Beasley, Melanie Wagner, Carrie St. Martin, Randi Jo Coffman; Row 3: Charady Danes, Tammy Potter, Juli Rhodes, Kitty Dolen, Angelique Johnson, Susan Schoedlcraft, Amanda Harvey, Michelle Richardson; Row 4: Jason Ingle, Teresa Haggard, Scott Huter, David Manning, Donnie Huntsman, Dennis White, Chad Powell, Greg Small; Back: Scott Wiley, Scott Hornaday, John Moore, Kris Fluke, Tim Bohr, Angela Voi, Dreama Scott.

Model UN - Front: Missy Allison, Samuel Wilson, Josh Early, Scott Kelley, Angie Mason; Middle: Brad Sachs, Rosemary Staten, Karen Henson, Rob Shugars, Anna Heiskanen, Jennifer Doyle; Back: Robert Hubbard, John Moore, Kevin Morris, David Joyner, Matt Saucerman.
Saying goodbye was hard for everyone, including foreign exchange students Anna Heiskanen and Flavio de Rezende. They added a lot to the foreign language department and the school.

Seniors Elizabeth Burelson and Janine Brooks enjoy themselves at Chi-Chi's Restaurant with the Spanish Club. The Spanish club planned many fun activities for the year.

"I enjoyed meeting new people and learning more about the French culture."

-Dennis Dunham

For eight weeks the Model UN club went to the library every Wednesday evening to research countries in preparation for the 38th Model United Nations Assembly. At the assembly the students submitted resolutions for debate and represented the country French student Jim Kendall takes aim to throw a bocce ball. Bocce ball is known as lawn bowling in some foreign countries. which they chose.

This year's foreign language groups participated in many activities together. The French, German, and Spanish clubs all participated in the Homecoming parade and had outings in the spring including one to Kings Island.

In addition, each of the clubs sponsored or participated in dinners that featured foods of the particular country being studied. "I enjoyed meeting new people and learning more about the French culture," said senior Dennis Dunham.

Foreign exchange students also added to the foreign language department this year. Exchange students from Brazil and from Norway added a real foreign influence to the school.

Amy Crose
Presenting a professional production was exciting for Drama Club members who participated in the two major plays.

"Having the lead in Ten Little Indians topped off a great four years!" said senior Deric Ostrum. Mrs. Lorie Harkema, director of the plays, was responsible for the students' acting and what went on behind the scenes.

Although many students didn't consider preparing a speech or dramatic interpretation for competitions, several did join Speech Team where they polished a variety of speaking skills and won numerous awards at the speech meets.

A third type of creative student brought drawing, painting, and sculpting talents together to share interests. Art Club members continued the traditional pumpkin carving contest, and several competed in the Tri-Kappa Art Show where they were given the chance to win awards and show off some of the best work they accomplished during the year.

By Nikki Goddard

Admiring many entries at the Tri Kappa Art Show are art club members Daniel Stafford and Steve Downing. Both received first place for their drawings.
Speech Team - Front: Terri Burns, Karen Henson, Robert Hubbard, Charlie Fulton; Middle: Rosemary Staten, Jenni Eckert, Rene Many, Jennifer Doyle; Back: Sponsor Stan Emerson, Tony Henson, Gretchen Vogel, Sponsor Lorie Harkema.

Drama Club - Front: Mandi Bach, Rayne Coble, Sponsor Lorie Harkema, Charlie Fulton, Deric Ostrum, David Solberg, Robbie Hughes, Robin Knop, Nikki Goddard; Row 2: Trina Quinlin, Gretchen Solberg, Patti Gastino, Jenny Poe, Missy Allison, Amanda Hamm, Christina Neal, Shurie Tutterow, Jenni Eckert; Row 3: Rachel Johns, Heather Davis, Sandy Parrott, Jenny Scott, Michelle Kelley, Elaine Doughty, Natalie Craig, Kristina Hornaday; Row 4: Michelle Blackburn, Tara Aldridge, Francis Higginbotham, Carrie Murray, Rosemary Staten, Terri Burns, Sam Wilson, Michelle Mask, Erin Finney; Back: Scott Lundy, Chuck Coslett, Tony Henson, Lissa Swinney, Christopher George, Mark Locher, Gretchen Vogel, Brenda Clements.
Cadet Teachers - Front: Nikki Goddard, Amy Crose, Barbara Silvers, Deanna Elsbury, Holly Knierm; middle: Lori Lee, Michelle Martin, Laura Lefler, Yvette Kirk, Amy Kollmeyer, Angie Beikman; Back: Kim Miller, Cari Mathis, Tricia Jones.

Athletic Office Aides - Front: Kelly Lowe, Laura Lefler, Angie Healy, Tricia Julian, Amy Crose, Crystal Lee; Back: Shawn Carson, Jeff Carter, Todd Cochenour, Davy Atwell.

Office Aides - Front: Mary Joel Stewart, Claudia Bowen, Christie Wingate, Mandy Bach, Christi Woods, Dana Linkous, Marybeth Lane; Middle: Michelle Howard, Lisa Crouch, Lesley Jennings, Amy Fisher, Trina Brown, Amy Cochran, Stephanie Elliott; Back: Renee Many, Jennifer Kaufman, Kris Fluke, Heidi Waldrip, Terri Burns, Erika Baumstark, Rachel Johns.

Spot Removers - Front: Russ Crites, Dennis White, Jenni Eckert, Derek Crimmins; Middle: Donnie Huntsman, Natalie Craig, Gretchen Vogel, Amy Kollmeyer, Chris Corwin; Back: Ryan Mong, Tim Coleman, Scott Wiley. Not pictured: Brenda Clemments, Jason Miller, Spencer Depoy.
Spot Remover Spencer DePoy plays an acting role in the ballad of the Spotlighter show. Spencer played the part of a discouraged child who with the help of his father regained his confidence to prove himself.

Senior cadet teacher Laurie Lee helps a student with her work. Laurie was a cadet teacher for Mrs. Thorp's kindergarten class.

"It's a great feeling knowing that I am helping them improve!"

Amy Kollmeyer

Many students volunteered their study hall hour to help as administration and athletic office aides. The office aides often roamed the hallways giving passes and messages to people and taking attendance slips. They also helped people coming into the office who needed information or assistance.

The athletic office aides had similar jobs although they also filled coke machines and typed. “Since the athletic office does not have a full time secretary, the athletic office aides are very important to the daily operation of this office,” said Mr. Greg Silver, Assistant Athletic Director.

The spot removers was another group which was often commended for their helping efforts. “They are wonderful! They work really hard,” said choir teacher, Mrs. Moebius.

Cadet teachers got a taste of the teaching of the profession in addition to helping elementary classes. “It’s a great feeling knowing that I am helping them improve," said senior Amy Kollmeyer about class.

By Amy Crose
"Being a part of the PUSH group made me feel really good about myself."
Lisa Whitaker

PUSH sponsor Mr. Greg Silver "pushes" for comments from his curious audience. PUSH visited elementary schools to discuss the importance of not using drugs.

Using unity as a key to their meeting, "I Know" members enjoy discussing their thoughts and ideas. Mr. Stan Emerson and Mrs. Ann Phillips, sponsors, met with the group weekly.

Groups provide services

Several high school organizations' sole purpose was providing services or help of some kind to others.
Peer Counseling, Pairing and Caring, and I Know continued programs started in previous years.
In addition, Mr. Greg Silver, teacher and assistant athletic director, initiated a new program at Mooresville called PUSH which stood for Prevention of Using with Student Help, the purpose of which was to eliminate drug use among young children though the use skits presented by high school students who were positive role models.
Often high school students invited questions from elementary students after the skits which turned out to be a good way of creating a rapport with the two diverse age groups.

Mrs. Ann Phillips, sponsor of both I Know and Pairing and Caring said she enjoyed the two sponsorships because, "both groups involved young people who were more interested in giving than receiving, so they were a joy to work for and be associated with."

PUSH members Deric Ostrum and Maureen Weber dramatize the advantages of being drug free. The skits were well received by elementary students.
Peer Counselors--Front: Ms. Beth Henry, Mary Winters, Kristina Hornaday, Chad Nungester, Laura Bowden, Kellie Fuller, Mrs. Adams; Back: Kris Fluke, Charles Fulton, Bryce Mansfield, David Solberg, Darryl Waters, Tim Bohr.

Paring and Caring--Front: Mrs. Ann Phillips, Stephanie Elliot, Rayne Coble, Deanna Elsberry, Laurie Lee, Jenny Poe, Mr. Stan Emerson; middle: Matt Chafey, Jennifer Doyle, Linda Grubb, Terri Burns, Monica Bis; Back: Nikki Gibson, Scott Hornaday, David Kelley, Shari Peterson, Tim Bohr.

"I Know"- Front: Erick Mau, Lissa Swinney, Brenda Holmes, Shelly Vandeveer; Back: Mr. Emerson, Sarah Waddeelow, Andrea Pygman, Mrs. Phillips.

Push--Front: Claudia Bowen, Julie Walman, Trina Brown, Candy Truong, Crystal Lee, Dennis Dunham, Will Beyers, Jason Shostrand, Ann Truong; Middle: Emily Armstrong, Angie Healy, Andrea Pygman, Tim Bohr, Tricia Jones, Lisa Whitaker, Amy Crose, Gretchen Solberg, Sarah Cambell; Back: Peter Eicher, C.J. Thompson, Aaron Patrick, Maureen Weber, Keith Barron, Ryan Milburn, Tim Viles, Todd Cochenour, Deric Ostrum, David Solberg, Brian Doyle.
FFA-Front: Sponsor Tony Carrall, Angie Newkirk, John Burnside, Mark Rodriguez, Damon Bowers, Steve Perry, Jeremy Gregory; Back: David Bailey, Christopher Claywell, Tim Nelson, Derek Crooke, Jason Edwards, Greg Gentry.

ICE-Front: Sponsor Karl Brown, Amy Irwin, Cindi Burrows, George Poynter, Janine Brooks; Row 2: Nicole Miles, Robbie Payton, Jeff Haught, Harold Mundy, Mike Payton, Edie Hughes; Row 3: Kevin White, Mark Rodriguez, Gary Joseph, Brian Roberts, Mark Poole; Back: Tammy Duncan, Kim Cordray, Stacey Terry, Tom Crockett, Lisa Covey, Marcy Kirkland.

BPA-Front: Sponsor Judy Wade, Lisa Whitaker, Randi Jo Coffman, Heather Moore, Marybeth Lane; Middle: Tina Stacy, Julie Lefler, Sandy Mosier, Dawn Eaton, Pamela Fortner, Doug Williams; Back: Nikki Corbin, Tricia Julian, Christa Hadley.
Trying to shove a White Castle in her mouth as fast as she can is Senior Amanda Curtis. The food eating contests were only a few of the many Homecoming activities.

Work evaluations are brought to the attention of these ICE students. They chose to work and go to school at the same time for their senior year.

"This group gained valuable experience and responsibility..."

Karl Brown

"Active!" was a great word for four high school groups. Mr. Denny Pelley made it an exciting year for the Lettermen's club by planning many events for the members to participate in. They attended a Chicago Bulls game, held the food eating contests at Homecoming, and bought equipment for the weight room.

Business Professionals of America entered their annual district and state conventions, but they also worked at the Special Olympics and collected food at Christmas.

Hard work was a big part of FFA as they went from contest to contest ranking the highest they possibly could in the forestry and dairy divisions.

Since released time was not offered this year, ICE was the only program that allowed students to leave school early to work. "This group gained valuable work experience and responsibility by working during the school year." said Mr. Karl Brown.

By Nikki Goddard

Getting ready to take off for the homecoming parade is an FFA member with school spirit. "Roll 'em over Pioneers" was the message they sent the football players that night.
Some students volunteered to do the un-rewarding, slave-driven jobs behind the scenes such as matmaids, trackettes, and bat girls. Although the groups had trouble recruiting members, students eventually filled the open spots. Many underclassmen worked overtime to help the groups.

This year’s matmaids were very supportive of the Pioneer wrestlers, showering them with food and drinks to wish them good luck before each of the meets. “I appreciated all the work the matmaids did for us, and the support they gave us,” said senior wrestler Todd Grimes.

Bat girls carried out similar duties of the other groups, in addition to selling tickets. Trackettes took down times or dis-tances, recorded stats, kept team scores, and announced at meets. In addition to all these jobs, the trackettes were also there for support. “I enjoyed going to the meets and helping out,” said junior Dawn Hull, who worked in the high jump area.

Amy Crose

Battling the wind and cold weather, junior Dawn Hull works the high jump pit. Spring sports often included such cold weather that there was little enjoyment in the job.

Sophomores Teresa Wallman and Tabitha Dewitt keep stats for the pioneer baseball team. Bat girls also kept the scores and sold tickets for the games.

Track managers Heather Davis and Sandy Parrott made a "big" cookie for the boys during track sectionals. The managers and trackettes were very supportive of the team.

"I enjoyed going to the meets and helping out!"

-Dawn Hull

Volunteers give support

154 Organizations

Trackettes- Dawn Hull, Amanda Butler, Heather Cordes, Stacie Altum, Jennifer Cordes, Sherri Gentry, Angie Healy, Heather Moore, Ladonna Bushong.

Bat Girls- Front: Carrie Clark, Amanda Ehrhart; Back: Derenda Barton, Susie Woods, Tabitha Dewitt, Teresa Wallman, Melissa Mendenhall, Kristina Hornaday.
Reappearing after the trick is assistant Tina Doyle. The winter guard show was titled "If you believe in magic."

Seniors Leslee Sachs and Cheryl Gibbs pose during Wagon Trails. The seniors showed leadership throughout the year.

Guard uses "magic" touch

"We used the marching season as a time to learn the new techniques. Without marching band we wouldn't have been ready for the winter guard season," said junior Angie Healy.

The guard had a very young group. There were only two seniors to lead this year's show. "Our leadership was taken very lightly because there were only two of us. But we tried to help as much as we could," said senior Cheryl Gibbs.

The group's 1990 show was unique with various magical characters such as a wizard and colorful butterflies. The show also contained a magic trick where the wizard, played by Brad Sachs, stabbed sabres through a box with somebody in it.

The group won a third place trophy in the Indiana High School Color Guard Association state contest. "We had our best show at state, but the judges didn't think so. In our hearts we knew we had won," said senior Leslee Sachs.

"The thing we learned the most this year was how to work together as a unit," said guard director Peggy Weber.

By Jenny Yeager & Tammy Moore
Saluting to the flag during pre-game is junior Angie Healy. Angie was a three year member of color guard.

Waiting anxiously for the parade to begin is junior Tammy Moore. The guard performed in several parades throughout the year.

Showing off their umbrella routine is the color guard. The guard spent many hours preparing for their fall show.
Located at the junction of 67 and Indiana St. is Gray Bros. Cafeteria. The new carryout addition provided local customers with a good meal and fast food convenience.

Welcoming visitors and passers-by to Mooresville's city limits is this sign located on highway 67. The sign proclaimed Mooresville as the home of the Indiana State Flag.

The old library took on a new identity as the Mooresville Savings Bank entered and remodeled. This was just one of the many town renovations that took place.
One for the Money

Since Mooresville High School is the only high school in the town of Mooresville, entrepreneurs of the community were more than welcome to aid and support worthy causes.

Although part of the year included controversy over how to make the town better, those who worked with the school knew that in many ways the town was great. Merchants and citizens always seemed eager to help special educational projects such as Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education, Business Professionals of America, At-Risk, extracurricular and athletic endeavors, and special events such as the post prom. Contributions to the prom alone totaled thousands of dollars in materials and prizes.

"The community involvement with post prom was fantastic! There is just no way post prom would ‘fly’ without their support. Mooresville was 100% behind the high school and were hit upon for money all the time, but when prom came around they were glad to dig that much deeper," said administrative assistant Norbert Johnson.

High school publications such as organization programs, the Pulse, and the Wagon Trails yearbook sold advertisements to community businesses to pay for miscellaneous expenses. Publications adviser Diana Hadley said, "I am always amazed that the community just seems to keep on giving. It seems that the people of Mooresville never say ‘no.’"

With the addition of the Pioneer Pointe Plaza and the renovation of the "town," the community developed a sense of pride in the appearance and nostalgia which surrounded Mooresville. The community was a rebuilding one with an attitude which started the new decade on the right foot.

By Ryan Milburn

Looking down Indiana St. from the south side of town, one sees a variety of restaurants and shops. This part of town is an extension off of what most consider Mooresville.

Completed and ready for business is Pioneer Pointe Plaza. The new shopping center provided "a new environment and out-of-town customers with a good location."
Congratulations

To the Class of 1990

Our dishwashers are the future
From the dishwashers at

Desperado Mexican Restaurant

1140 N. State Rd. 135 Greenwood, Indiana (881-0444)

SUMMER TIME SWIMWEAR

Wolff Tanning System
Pebble Plaza
(317) 831-6888

Corene’s Boutique
Ladies Clothing and Accessories
Pebble Plaza
(317) 831-4116
CHILDREN'S PARK
State Licensed, Ages 3-12

310 South Street
Mooresville, Indiana 46158
Phone 831-7117

Pat Overholser
Director
Established 1982
Child Care Center, Inc.

TOBY'S BODY SHOP
Toby Dolen
WE ALSO DO: fiber glass repair AND auto glass
162 Taylor Street
Mooresville, IN 46158
831-7773

Wilcher Ford
173 Indianapolis Road
Mooresville
317-831-2750

For a Senior Portrait that's you . . .

. . . Call us for a customized Senior Session!

David L.
Whitfield
PHOTOGRAPHY
15 E. Main — Mooresville
831-1067

WGP

DAVID WHITFIELD & DIANNE OLLEMAN

Advertising 161
Congratulations
Class of 1990
From
Gray Brothers Cafeteria
Congratulations Class Of 1990

In Fond Memory Of
Charles "Biff" Hornaday
Congratulations To The Class of '90

Pebbles Laundry
410 N. Monroe, Suite 18
Pebbles Plaza
Mooresville, IN 46158
831-7761
Open 7 Days A Week

E-Z Way Rental
SALES & SERVICE
831-8601
502 ST. RD. 267, MOORESVILLE, IN 46158
Open 7 Days

Pizza King of Mooresville
410 N. Monroe, Suite 16
Pebble's Plaza
Mooresville IN 46158
831-6868

The Video Room
831-7761
(located in Pebble's Laundry)
410 N. Monroe, Suite 18
Pebble's Plaza
Mooresville, Indiana 46158
OPEN 7 DAYS — 7 A.M.-10 P.M.
Vincent's

Furs &
Leathers

The Centre at Smith Valley
State Road 135 & Smith Valley
(317) 888-8806

The Fashion Mall
8702 Keystone Crossing
Indianapolis, Indiana 46240
(317) 846-8808

9153 S. State Road 67
Camby, Indiana 46113
Six Miles South Of
I-465 On St. Rd. 67
(317) 831-5400

Hadley, Cook, and Quillen
Insurance Agency
Mooresville
Indiana 46158
831-3247
Steve Andrew, Larry Long,
Charles Quillen

The Fresh Alternative

SUBWAY

Congratulations
Mooresville Seniors

Open Late Seven Days A Week
399 W. Carlisle
Mooresville, IN.
(317) 831-8181

Habig's Casuals

LADIES' WEAR
MOORESVILLE
SHOPPING CENTER
831-0175

LADIES' AND MEN'S WEAR
INDIANAPOLIS
UNION STATION
636-5604
MOORESVILLE SAVINGS BANK

* SAVINGS & MONEY MARKET ACCOUNTS
* HOME LOANS
* CONSUMER LOANS Auto Signature
* CHECKING ACCOUNTS WITH INTEREST

MAIN OFFICE
24 West Main
831-3640

SPRING MILL BRANCH
St Roads 144 & 67
831-8106

DRIVE-UP BRANCH
33 West Main

MEMBER
FSLIC
Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp.
Your Savings Insured to $100,000

In Touch with You SM
Congratulations to the Class of '90

There's No Limit To What You Can Do

Miller's pays for all education and training

With as little as a week's training, you can begin the first step to a career in the nursing profession.

It's the way we care
Miller's
Merry Manor, Inc.
provides 24 hour nursing care.

259 W. Harrison, Mooresville 831-6272
"The Health Care Professionals With The Hometown Touch."

6 West Main Street
Mooresville, Indiana 46158
Phone: 831-3585

Gary & Linda Venable
Follow The Pioneer Sports And All School Activities in

THE TIMES

23 East Main St.
Mooresville
831-0208
Congratulations To The Class of '90!
MEADOR PAINT & DECORATING CENTER
5 Moore St. Mooresville, In.
831-2067
Larry & Linda Meador
Cindy Meador Class of '84
Jeff Meador Class of '85
Brad Meador Class of '88

John & Becky Mohr
Debbie Mohr Class of '79

COLORS MADE TO MATCH

O'Dells Beauty Salon Inc.
Tanning Beds - Sculptured Nails - Manicures
Hours:
Mon - Fri: 7:00 AM - 8:00 PM
Sat: 7:00 AM - 3:00 PM
241 E. High St.
Mooresville, IN 46158
(317) 831-2370

Mooresville Dairy Queen
340 S. Indiana Street
831-2065
DQ Frozen Cakes!

Bud and Bloom
florist and gifts
VILLAGE SHOPPING CENTER
MOORESVILLE, IN RESIDENCE 831-1333
BUSINESS 831-3333

Good Luck Graduates!
BICYCLES N MORE INC.
"Repair All Makes & Models"
Accept Visa, Mastercard, and layaways

209 E. High St.
Mooresville, IN 46158

Donna & Jay
831-9933

Sugarbaker's
Deli and Catering
213 E. Main St.
(317) 831-4987

MOORESVILLE CHURCH OF GOD
218 East Main Street • Mooresville, Indiana 46158
Associate Pastor
ROBERT K. COHEE
Pastor
ALLEN D. KIRK
317-831-1418

Ward's Apparel
Indiana's largest Levi's store

1 Moore Street
Mooresville, IN 46158
831-3773

Located next to Gray Bros. Cafeteria
CITIZEN'S BANK
BRANCHES IN MOORESVILLE
BROOKLYN - MONROVIA
PLAINFIELD - MARTINSVILLE

YOUR COMMUNITY BANK
MEMBER FDIC
Jonathan S. Comer DDS
Family Dentistry
By appointment 761 North Indiana Street
831-1444 Mooresville, Indiana 46158

Weddle TV & Appliances
Video Club
1 1/2 miles N. of Mooresville
9374 St. Rd. 67
Camby, IN 46113
831-2260
"After the sale it's the service that counts"

Congratulations
To The Class Of 1990

Newcomer Lumber
From
149 E. High
831-2510
CARLISLE & SON
FUNERAL CHAPEL
39 East High Street
831-2080
167 NORTH MAPLE LANE – MOORESVILLE, INDIANA 46158

PHONE (317) 831-2455

BOB MARINE’S
CREST CLEANERS
225 S. INDIANA
MOORESVILLE, IND.
PHONE 831-3975

Donna Jo’s
150 N. Indiana St.
Mooresville, IN 46158
We Special Order
Donna R. Smith
(317) 831-3430

UPS
PACKING RECORDS
T-SHIRTS
JACKETS
HATS
SWEATS

Bus. Phone: 317-831-6700
Res. Phone: 317-831-7561

Life Member
Glenn Davis Blackwell
Insurance - Taxes - Accounting
General Agent
The Franklin Life Insurance Co.
Springfield, Illinois
P. O. Box 547
148 E. Main
Mooresville, IN 46158

Advertising 175
Some things never change...

Multiple choice will always be your favorite test, your mom will always love you, and your yearbook will never ever forget you.

JOSTENS
The Yearbook Company

Richard S. Maurer
HOW TO SPOT A DRUNK DRIVER AT NIGHT

Action and probability the driver is drunk

* Making a wide turn 65%
* Straddling a lane marker 65%
* Almost striking an object 60%
* Weaving (oversteering) 60%
* Appearing to be drunk 60%
* Driving on shoulder or in turn lane 55%
* Swerving suddenly 55%
* Slow speed (by more than 10 mph below limit) 50%
* Stopping without cause in traffic lane 50%
* Following too closely 50%
* Gradual drifting from side to side 50%
* Driving with tires on lane markings 45%
* Braking erratically 45%
* Driving into opposing or cross traffic 45%
* Improper signalling 40%
* Slow response to traffic signals 40%
* Stopping far to short of or into intersection 35%
* Illegal or abrupt turns 35%
* Rapid accelerating or deceleration 30%

When two or more of these actions are observed, add 10 to the highest percentage.

MAINTAIN A SAFE DISTANCE!

CALL POLICE WITH THIS INFORMATION:
LICENSE NUMBER;
VEHICLE DESCRIPTION; DIRECTION OF TRAVEL!

THIS ADVERTISEMENT IS SPONSORED BY SADD
Best Wishes,

Mooresville Grads!

Call or visit BANK ONE for all of your banking needs, including:
- Checking accounts
- Savings accounts
- Loans for any worthwhile purpose

398 S. Indiana Street
Village Shopping Center
Mooresville, In 46168
(317) 831-5359
Index

Adams, Bob 79, 140
Adams, David 49
Adams, Don 79, 87, 143
Adams, Lisa 49, 139
Adams, Mickey 79
Addair, Jody 70
Adder, David 70
Adder, Shelly 49
Aldrich, Pam 49
Aldrich, Judy 79
Aldridge, Tara 70, 147
Alexander, Hubert 38, 78, 79
Allford, Matthew 74
Allen, Chad 49
Allen, Tammy 49, 104
Allison, Missy 49, 144, 147
Alsup, Tracey 5, 66, 116, 117
Altman, Stacie 49
Amrhein, Dennis 79, 147
Anderson, Pam 49
Anderson, Judy 79
Anderson, Tara 70, 147
Anderson, Carrie 66
Anderson, Jason 66
Andrew, Barry 3, 66, 97, 140
Andrew, Michelle 49
Andrews, Kimberly 49
Andrews, Scott 70
Antrim, Vincent 74, 112
Archer, Jason 74
Archer, Thomas 66
Armstrong, Brian 74
Armstrong, Emily 74, 98, 99, 144, 157
Arthurburn, Michael 74
Ash, Joe 79
Ashman, Amber 49, 100
Atwell, Davy 70, 148
Atwood, Greg Atwood, Paula 74
Austin, Jason 74
Bach, Amanda 6, 70, 147, 148
Bach, Rebecca 74, 100
Baggett, Jennifer 49
Bailey, David 74, 152
Bailey, Greg 74, 137
Bailey, Joseph 74
Baker, Amy 70, 119
Baker, Melanie 66
Baker, Nathan 70
Barden, Lashore 49
Barker, Steve 49
Barlow, Jamie 74, 143, 144
Baron, Keith 70, 87, 92, 96, 108, 143
Barron, Michael 66, 144, 152
Barton, Derenda 70, 32
Bartos, Myrah 70
Bateson, Christina 49
Baumstark, Erika 49, 139, 148
Beasley, Kelley 66, 88, 140
Beasley, Raegan 74, 99, 114, 115, 144
Beaver, Dan 66
Becker, Ed 49
Beerbe, Janelle 66, 88, 139, 143
Beerbe, Joel 79, 143
Beeler, Stephen 66
Beley, Mary 66
Beikman, Angela 49, 51, 140, 148
Bell, Jason 66, 112
Bell, Jennifer 74
Bell, Laura 74
Benedict, Nicole 74
Benedict, Stacy 74
Bernard, Jason 74, 85, 144
Bernlohr, Chris 70
Billington, Kristi 49, 35
Birchfield, Sasha 66

One by One

Awards total thousands of dollars

National Merit Scholar, IBM Corp. Watts Award
Kari Cordis
Hooiser Scholars
John Truong, Ryan Milburn
Marion College Academic
Holly Knierim, Chris Perry
Fraternal Order of Police
Amateur Athletic All-American
Tim Viles
Ball State Presidential Scholar
Kathy Kober
Cincinnati Bible College
Paul Waddelow
ISU Academic
Amanda Curtis, Amy Hunt, Dan Perkins, Lisa Preston, Mary Winters
Franklin College Journalism
Heather Davis
Vincennes University
Mike Winks
Albert New Memorial
Deric Ostrum
Purdue University
Todd Gruber
American Legion Scholastic
Chris Perry, Debra Brickerott
American Legion Citizenship
Mary Winters, Ryan Milburn
William Curry Memorial
Deanna Elsbury
VFW Citizenship Achievement
Lisa Whitaker
Earl "Pop" Warren
John Truong, Janine Brooks
Indiana Coaches Award
Heather Davis
Kappa Kappa Kappa Academic
Deanna Elsbury
Vincennes University
Mike Winks
Albert New Memorial
Deric Ostrum
Purdue University
Todd Gruber
American Legion Scholastic
Chris Perry, Debra Brickerott
American Legion Citizenship
Mary Winters, Ryan Milburn
William Curry Memorial
Deanna Elsbury
VFW Citizenship Achievement
Lisa Whitaker
Earl "Pop" Warren
John Truong, Janine Brooks
Indiana Coaches Award
Heather Davis
Kappa Kappa Kappa Academic
Mary Winters, Ryan Milburn,
Tom Vogel
Vocational
Mike Winks
Chamber of Commerce Senior
Tom Vogel
Delta Theta Tau Academic
Deanna Elsbury, Angela Beikman,
Heather Cordes
Dr. James H. Bivin

Robbie Hughes receives Ministerial Scholarship from Rev. Kirk.

Heather Cordes
U. S. Army Scholastic
Amy Crose
Kendrick Health Care
Laura Leffler, Leslee Sachs
Ministerial Association
Robbie Hughes, Ginger Tandy
Jennifer Holden Memorial
Erika Baumstark
Children's Park
Holly Knierim
Kellum, Worsham Grants
Tricia Julian, Mark Caudill
Kappa Kappa Sigma
Elsie Record Achievement
Mary Winters, Deric Ostrum
Flater Memorial
Sandra Parrott
Kappa Delta Phi
Leslee Sachs
Wal-Mart
Tim Viles
Ruby Overton/Kiwanis Club
Deric Ostrum
Kappa Kappa Kappa
Four-Year Academic Award
Kathy Kober

Index 179
Float tradition continues

In addition to the Batmobile, which is pictured in the junior section and the story of the seniors' success in the senior section, the other classes continued a strong tradition of excellent floats with clever themes and good workmanship.

Although the seniors and juniors took top honors at Homecoming and Martinsville Fall Foliage Festival respectively, the freshmen's slime monster and sophomores' "Reel 'Em In" were also popular with those who attended Homecoming '89 festivities.

Heigl, Kenny 71
Heiskanen, Anna 54, 55, 89, 144, 145
Helmick, Kia 67
Helmick, Lisa 55
Helpenstone, Jerry 55, 137
Henderson, Melissa 75, 147
Henry, Beth 79
Henson, Danny 75, 108, 144
Henson, Karen 67, 144, 147
Henson, Tony 75, 147
Hersink, Jaclyn 75, 100, 144, 157
Herron, John 75
Hill, Keith 79
Hillenburg, Chris 71
Hilligoss, Steve 80, 145
Hines, Stacey 67
Hinners, Ruben 71, 137
Hoffman, Amy 67
Hoffman, Kara 104
Hollis, Dean 71
Hollis, Josie 55
Holmes, Brenda 67, 98, 139
Holtsclaw, Deborah 75
Homayon, Shonon 67, 106, 140
Hood, Kenneth 67
Hopkins, Amanda 75
Horaday, Kristina 71, 137, 139, 143, 144, 147
Horton, John 71
Hott, Kris 67
Hough, Jeremy 55, 87, 108
Hough, Michael 71, 87, 108, 109, 140
Howard, Kim 67, 114, 140
Howard, Michele 67, 148
Hreno, Heather 75, 99, 157
Hubbard, Robert 67, 140, 143, 144, 147
Hughes, Adam 68
Hughes, Edith 56, 152
Hughes, Jim 68
Hughes, Rbbie 56, 137, 143, 147
Hult, Donna 75, 96, 112, 144, 148
Hutchinson, Kim 56
Hutchinson, Kelvin 56
Hutter, Benjamin 75, 93, 137
Hutter, Scott 71, 84, 96, 117, 143, 144
Hyde, Shane 56
Ingle, Jason 75, 137, 144
Irwin, Amy 34, 56, 152
Jackson, Tony 68
Jacobs, Leah Ann 56
James, Doug 75, 112
Jarvis, Ivan 80
Jenkins, Jim
Jennings, Lesley 68, 148
Jennings, Michael 75, 103
Jennings, Doug 71
Johs, Melissa 71, 119, 144, 157
Johs, Rachel 68, 147, 148
Johnson, Joe 104, 148
Johnson, Joe (teacher) 80
Johnson, Norbert 80
Johnson, William
Jones, Carrie 75
Jones, James 75, 103
Jones, Tricia 42, 56, 98, 139, 148
Jones, Wade 71, 84
Joseph, Gary 2, 3, 11, 56, 84, 95, 152
Joseph, Heidi 71
Joyner, David 68, 144
Julian, Tricia 56, 148, 152
Kanaby, Kelly 68, 104, 140, 141
Kaufman, Candas 75
Kaufman, Jennifer 56, 148
Kears, Amanda 75
Keene, Calvin 75
Keetson, Melissa 75, 104, 119
Keiter, Shane 56
Kelley, John 71
Kelley, David 56, 137, 138
Kelley, Debra 33, 75
Kelley, Michelle 75, 147
Kelley, Rich 80
Kelley, Scott 68, 143, 144
Kelsay, Barbara 56
Kendall, Jim 68, 145
Kidwell, Eric 71
King, Christian 29, 71, 93, 112, 143
King, Maryanna 71
Kimman, Katie 56
Kinnick, Brian 56, 139
Kirk, Yvette 8, 13, 56, 148
Kirkland, Marzella 56, 152
Kitchen, Lori
Knierim, Holly 44, 57, 62, 138, 139, 148
Knoop, Robin 5, 6, 57, 139, 147
Kober, Kathy 57, 119, 138, 139, 140
Kober, Marie 71, 90, 98, 144
Kollmeyer, Amy 57, 84, 139, 148, 186
Kourany, Michael 57, 93, 139, 140
Krebs, Michael 71
Kriese, Brandon 68
Landenfer, Guy 71, 84, 144
Landrmer, Aloha 80
Lane, Brian
Lane, Marybeth 57, 148, 152
Lang, Debbie 79
Larrison, Crystal 80
Laseter, Andrew 18, 68, 116, 117
Lee, Crystal 71, 140, 148
Lee, Laurie 57, 137, 147
Another long-standing tradition at MHS, the post prom, was once again continued with the usual extravagance and a bit of the medieval with the help of a Camelot theme.

Ray Lucas and Mike Hull constructed one of the game booths where hundreds of dollars of prizes were earned.

Finishing touches are put on the castle with the help of Jerry and Kathy Doyle.
New ideas, themes, thought of, skits made up, pictures— it all had to be done. and acts selected. Not bad so That was what the staff had far, but then came the hard to look forward to. Starting part.

early and finishing late; that Finally, the main part of was to be our new motto, the year started. Notewor-We carried that one out very thy occurrences happened. well. Working from the It was time to write. From beginning of the year until a football to home economics; week after graduation can be it all had to be covered. And hazardous to one's health, it was, we hope! Pictures especially one's mental were taken for almost every health. It all had to come

It all really started with together into ONE! Stories Wagon Trails Revue, a vari- happen for the good and ety show sponsored by the the bad; all written for the yearbook to help keep the good. And now we present cost of yearbooks down. For this to you, the students. this, commercials were Working hard on class lists are seniors Amy Kollmeyer and Michelle Martin. Lists had to be checked and double-checked be-fore actually being put in the yearbook.

By Heather Davis

Performing a spin-off of the Lennys/Dennys commercial are juniors Tammy Moore and Maureen Weber. Commercials were a way to get the main point of the show across to the audience.

"Give me all your money," yells senior John Truong as he robs a passing couple. John played the "type-cast" character of a mugger.

To start the evening, Heather Davis, Ryan Milburn, and Sandy Parrott welcome everyone to the show. This was the first year to have three co-editors.

"Wagon Trails Revue not only gave the staff a chance to raise money, but also allowed us to be silly and have a good time.

--Amy Kolmeyer
"It was really a good feeling to finally graduate from Mooresville High School. I really felt like, "I done real good!"

--Billy Daniels

Dancing the traditional Prom Prince and Princess dance are juniors Jimmy Cornette and Wendy Evans. They were nominated and later elected for the positions by their classmates.

Junior Linda Grubb presents football coach and economics teacher Denny Pelley with a going away cake. Mr. Pelley left Mooresville after 18 years to pursue another coaching job.
As the last locker door was slammed and the last car pulled out of the student parking lot, the 1989-90 school year came to an end. Unique individuals and a variety of personalities were released into the world to take part in various activities.

As students reflected on the last few weeks of school they recalled many incidents which had great effects on their lives. Whether they were freshmen or seniors, everyone realized that they were growing up and that they would all face new responsibilities in the years to come.

Those students who graduated looked forward to starting a new phase of life. They greeted the chance to continue their education or jump right into the workplace.

The students who planned on returning to Mooresville awaited the opportunities that would be presented to them. They invited the chance to, once again, build Mooresville into a student body In The Spirit of ONE.

By Ryan Milburn

"Referee" Greg Silvers warns Science Department Head Hubert Alexander that he has only ten minutes left. Mr. Alexander was known for his "cool" presentations on senior awards day.

Math teacher Jim Owen shows how big his brain really is while sporting a football helmet during a pep session. Faculty intervention in pep sessions provided a message as well as entertainment.
Dancing to Vogue, seniors Scot Landry and Missy Allison show their stuff during a performance at Spring Spectacular. The duo also entertained at Wagon Trails Revue.

With emotion and determination, senior Daric Ostrom portrays a new Santa in Santa Sees A Shrink. Daric starred in many plays throughout the school year.

Walking graciously across the field during a guard performance at the Hoosier Dome is senior Cheryl Gibbs. The guard appeared at many games, contests, and other activities during the year.

Receiving some last minute instructions from senior sponsor Robert Grosskreutz is Danica Downing. Commencement day was hectic, but everything ran smoothly.

Colophon

With the help of 12 Macintosh Plus computers, the pages completed for the 1990 Wagon Trails were camera-ready. The opening and division pages all contained stories written in 12 pt. Times. All captions were 10pt with 10 leading. Headlines for this section had an 18 pt lead-in with 120 pt. bold Times first letter. The rest of the main headline was in 63 pt. bold. Pulled quotes were in 13 pt. bold.

All stories were written in 12 pt. Times. All captions were in 10 pt. and 10 leading. Sports had the first letter of every story in 60 pt. bold. The main headline was in 72 pt. bold with an 18 pt. shadowed kicker. Pulled quotes were written in 18 pt. bold. Organizations had a 36 pt. headline that was stretched, a Macintosh technique. The pulled quote was in 18 pt. Times. Academics also had a stretched 36 pt. bold headline. The entire album section had stretched 30 pt. bold headlines with 14 pt. lead-ins.

Magazine was a combination of everything. All stories were written in 12 pt. Times, but the leading was 12 on all stories except the big story, which was auto. The titles were 12 pt. bold italics stretched. They had 10 pt. bold Chicago print. The Index had stretched 30 pt headlines. All names in the index were written in 10 pt. Times. Richard Maurer was the yearbook representative from the Jostens Yearbook company. Jostens is located in Clarksville, Tennessee.