Yeah...Hey! Isn't that ESPN Magazine?

No, it's PSPN...The Pioneer Sports Programing Network

Oh, I see. It has a striking resemblance to ESPN... Oh man, aren't we a little too old to be reading Nickelodeon?

Yeah, but this is AcademNICK! It has information on all of the academic classes at MHS!

Man. I feel like I've seen this stuff before ... what's that word? Oh. well.

I have that same feeling. When I look through this, I feel like I've seen these magazines before...

Myspace or Yours?

MySpace was a hot item at MHS. It had its ups and downs with everyone. Not only in the high school, but everywhere. It was a connection to past friends, new friends, and anyone. That was the problem for many people. It was too easy for someone who you did not know to obtain personal information. It was the third most popular Web site in the United States. In January 2008, the states attorney generals of 49 states in the USA, wrote guidelines for online safety for MySpace.

Writer's Strike

The 2007–2008 Writers Guild of America strike was a strike by the members of the guild, East and West. The WGAE and WGAW labor unions represent film, television and radio writers in the United States. More than 12,000 writers joined the strike which started Nov. 5, 2007 and concluded on Feb. 12, 2008. A report from the UCLA Anderson School of Management put the loss at $380 million,

Firefighter's Funeral

Captain Dave Sherfick's funeral was held at Mooresville High School on Feb. 8, 2008. More than a thousand people attended the funeral. Students filled the parking lots at nearby churches and the football building to leave room for the multiple fire trucks that filled the high school parking lot. Firefighters from all over the state and some from out of state attended. Many students lined Indiana

Street to show respect as the fire truck with the casket led a procession to the Washington Park Cemetery.

Pizza with the Principal

Principal Chuck Muston offered an opportunity that was not heard of in many public high schools. He allowed students to go to Donatos, his treat. He sat and talked with the students about life. He let the students share their opinions about the high school as well.

pride and spirit. by: Olivia de Jong Traditions grew in 2007 and the students at Mooresville Hig

the students at Mooresville High School searched hard to find a new tradition to leave behind. Painting senior windows, pep rallies, and spirit days were all still part of the traditions. Ever since paddles have not been allowed, seniors have tried to make their mark stick.

VICTORY... Is followed easily by

A tradition that emerged this year was senior lawn chairs. Seniors were given the opportunity to decorate lawn chairs and sit on the west infield to watch the game. This year the theme for homecoming was Royalty. The seniors were encouraged to wear crowns and capes.

The football team made it easy to have school spirit and participate in homecoming activities. With all the exciting spirit, the game was a bonus. It was a blowout. The team returned the favor to Plainfield after Plainfield beat them the previous year, disrupting their undefeated season.

The students aligned in a tunnel to await the football teams entrance. With a hopeful thought that this game would end like every other game up until this point in the season, the team ran through the tunnel of their friends, classmates, and/or siblings.

A tradition that started the previous year soon followed their entrance. The game started with parachutist falling from an above helicopter followed by the American flag and the game ball.

"The students were pumped because we were playing our rival." senior Nick Bradford said.

Many of the players could feel the excitement of the crowd.

"It is always a goal to win on homecoming," Bradford said.

The team fulfilled their goals and made the crowd proud. After a long spirited week, the game was like a signature to the end of a long letter.

by: Michelle Davis

From a talent show to a showcase for performing arts. Wagon Trials Revue became more than just singing and dancing... it became a comedy. With the theme "Saturday Night Live," many audience members could not resist laughing out loud.

The yearbook staff worked diligently to make sure the audience stayed entertained while the next performing group was getting ready to go on stage. They chose some of the funniest skits from SNL's running program and mimicked them to fit the Wagon Trails show. Skits such as "Coneheads," "Celebrity Jeopardy" and "Mary Katherine Gallagher" kept the crowd wanting more and making the 2007 Wagon Trails Revue one of the funniest shows ever.

Celebrities even showed up at Wagon Trails Revue. "Peyton Manning" came to share an inspirational message about United Way. "Alex Trebeck" also arrived to host "Celebrity Jeopardy" with "Paris Hilton," "Nicole Richie" and "Sean Connery." The SNL Spartan Cheerleaders got the crowd excited about the yearbook, and Mary Katherine Gallagher made sure everyone knew that she deserved to be a Spotlighter. She was satisfied with a very exciting introduction to Spotlighters.

But it wasn't just the yearbook staff that kept the audience entertained. All of the choirs, bands, orchestra and solo acts performed very well. The '07 Wagon Trails Revue raised the standards of the annual show.

Two Nights Only

"The coolest thing about Wagon Trails was how much the audience enjoyed show and how much fun everyone had performing," senior Katelyn Richmond said.

Richmond was one of many performers in multiple groups, including a solo act with senior Jacob Walls. Many students worked very hard with many different groups and were satisfied with the way the performances went.

"[The first night of Wagon Trails] the Madrigals were so in tune and well balanced. It gave me chills," junior Ally Nelson said.

For some people, the 2007 Wagon Trails Revue was bitter sweet. It was Mrs. Elaine Moebius' last year with Mooresville High School. She made a lasting impression by making the Spots' show all about her past 20 years of direction.

"The Best of Spotlighters" show contained Mrs. Moebius' favorite music and left the crowd in awe. The energy on the stage was outstanding with Spotlighter's final song, "You Can't Stop The Beat." You could see the exhaustion on their faces when the last beat finally came.

The curtains closed and yet another year was complete. With two long months of hard work, there was nothing anyone could be disappointed with when the traditional "Yesterday Once More" played for the last time for Mrs. Moebius and the seniors.

Music Rules Stage

Performers hit the stage for two nights of incredible entertainment. Singing, dancing, dress changes, the band playing in audience member's ears and even throwing girls in the air were all part of an absolute amazing show! "I loved Wagon Trails, especially the choir groups and the skits [yearbook] put on," freshman Carly Mitchell (left) said.

2 Motion of the Ocean

Besides the fact that every audience member was singing it after the show, "You Can't Stop the Beat" was a phenomenal song as performed by Spotlighters. "The choreography was very good and they executed it very well," sophomore Heather Passey said.

3 How High?

Students and parents heard many good sounds at Wagon Trails, and Kaitlyn Richmond's and Jacob Walls' solo act was no exception. Many audience members agree that they had an exceptional performance with their song "Ain't No Mountain High Enough." "They were so good," junior Ally Nelson said.

Once again, the Spotlighters make our Hot List! But this song not only left the audience singing, it left girls screaming for more... literally! "Steppin' to the Bad Side" was definitely one of the hottest guy's song ever!

Basics Spirit the old fashioned way.

by: Michelle Davis

With a whole day of basketball games, the Pioneers and their fans could feel the excitement surrounding homcomeing. From the Student vs. Faculty game to the boys and girls games later that night, fans showed their support for the blue and gold.

"More people were at that game than any other game," senior Danielle Rusie said. "The fans were all spirited and loud!"

The day opened up with the Student vs. Faculty game. It was mostly a lop-sided game with the faculty taking over the students for the duration of the contest.

Later that night, the girls varsity team had a big victory over Plainfield beating them 69-60.

"It was exciting and a relief [to beat Plainfield] because they were a huge rival." junior Cora Sharp said

After the girls game. tensions were high with anticipation for the boys. The gym was ear-splitting loud at times when the game was close. The boys battled hard, but fell to the Ouakers.

It was evident that spirit was very important.

Some of the ceiling tiles were broken and leaked water.

Community members gathered in the north gym to share their thoughts on the building project. This was a very crowded pep rally in the gym.

Students sat in the auditorium while Principal Chuck Muston spoke on the first day of school.

This was a view that was not seen during the passing periods.

Days Go By...

An Ordinary Day

by: Olivia de Jong

Getting up at 6 a.m. to be at school before the 7:30 a.m. tardy bell could be overwhelming after 180 days of it. Some students chose to get up earlier to eat breakfast, or maybe they were just a morning person. Either way when students came to school most were in the building for seven hours, at least. Those seven hours were not even counting any after school activities that students may be involved in. School was a place that should have be comfortable for students and teachers.

The school became very populated in previous years. It was obviously only going to get worse with North Madison elementary students being taught in portable classrooms. The growth in the corporation for the past few years was 50 to 60 students per year. With future plans of the state making full day kindergarten a mandatory program, there was even more encouragement for changes to be made.

"If they do not build a new high school, this building needs to be brought to the twentieth century," social studies teacher Mr. Matt Bosworth said.

Bosworth did not feel like the motivation of the students would change with a new building and he thought it was an excuse for why people did not do things. He still felt the need for a bigger school though. It will just be more comfortable.

Some felt the change would improve academic performance and others just felt the need for new.

The school board held a community forum to discuss possible building projects..

Students: What do you see daily?

"In my economy class, due to poor sealing on the windows. I am freezing every day," senior Courtney Thurman said.

"It is cold, it is small, and the halls are extremely crowded," senior PJ Arant said.

"The building is just worn out, it can't hold as many kids as we're trying to fit in it," senior Ashleigh Schubert said.

Wanted: Change

Changes were underway and actions were taking place in 2008 for a better high school. The school board held three community forums, where people in the community could share opinions and propose new ideas. It was a possibility that the soccer fields would be a place to build another building. A renovation of the high school was the only constant in all the plans. The approximate cost for a renovation was 43 million dollars and the first phase would not be completed until 2011. These are proposed building plans as of February 2008.

Broadway

Band members went to New York for their spring break. They visited many different sites of interest. They went to Ground Zero, Bubba Gump's, and watched The Phantom of the Opera.

Shuffle For Stingrays

The signs were positioned everywhere on the beach. Many people took these signs lightly or just ignore them completely. Senior Courtney Thurman learned her lesson the hard way. Shortly after joking and making fun of the signs all over the place, she felt the sharp pain of a stingray's tail in her foot. She was at Treasure Island with some friends, who quickly went to her presence trying to figure out what happened. She did not know it was a stingray at first. She went to a nearby PromptMed to get the wound checked. Thurman recovered quickly, but was probably scarred for life.

Landing Senior Cameron Riccardi and sophomore Nick Riccardi prepare to end their parasailing adventure. They flew over Madeira Beach, where they stayed for the week.

"It felt like I was floating. The dip was the worst though. It was kind of boring and I would not do it again," Cameron said.

Mix It Up Senior Stephanie Kerr went to Gulf Shores, Alabama, with her family and boyfriend. She spent most of her time hanging out on the beach. From jellyfish in the ocean to an underwater dining adventure, she enjoyed her freedom and ability to do what she wanted.

"I tried new food: alligator tail and calamari," Kerr said.

One Student's View

Freshman Ashtyn Fisher went to Bonita Beach, Florida for her enjoyable spring break.

"I laid out on the beach most of the week," Fisher said.

She went with her family and a few other families joined them. They enjoyed their week off. Sophomore Hali Hopwood and Ashtyn were floating in the ocean with no worries at all.

"We saw a dolphin and a sea lion, " Fisher said.

Compared to other spring breaks, Fisher thought this one was much more relaxing.

"It was still fun though," Fisher said.

It was nice to have a break from all the school related things for a whole week. Many students would agree with Fisher on that fact.

Tyler Lane, Matt Kenney, Lydia Wathan, and Eryn Dillion all joined Fisher and Hopwood as well.

Spring Break a time to just get away by: Olivia de Jong OR NOT

Whether students chose to leave the state, country, or just the classroom for a week, spring break caused huge eagerness.

Waiting until the very last second that the bell rang and the halls crowded with excited students, was a building block to the anticipation of a week off. No books, classes, teachers, notes, or homework for a whole week was worthy of looking forward to. Teachers and students both await for spring break. It is not just a break for the students.

Safety was a big issue during spring break. Students sometimes got carried away when there wasno structure to their schedule.

Senior Courtney Thurman got stung by a sting ray. She normally was afraid to get into the ocean, but on this spring break, she just hopped right in and started making fun of the signs warning her of danger.

This seems to be the case most of the time. When people get out of their normal routine, they seem to splurge and do things out of the ordinary.

"I would have never even thought of getting stung by a sting ray." Thurman said.

She had to go through it to learn her lesson and wanted others to beware of safety on the beach.

Not only on the beach, but it was important that students enjoy themselves while not getting out of control on spring break.

Sing Brave Junior Dwayne McCreary sings with Spotlighters during the group's ballad.

Bold Faces

"It was a lot of fun and hard work," senior Jessica Reecer said.

How Far....? So Far!

by: Olivia de Jong

The choir department's last time to shine was at Spring Spectacular. The choirs put on a great show and all of them performed their best.

"It [Spring Spectacular] was my most favorite and least favorite thing," senior Janet Benedict said.

Many people had the same bittersweet feeling about the show, because seniors realized it was their last time to perform on stage for Spring Spectacular. Not only would all the seniors be performing for the last time, but Mrs. Elaine Moebius had her last appearance on stage as well.

As the curtains opened and the anxiety overwhelmed the auditorium, choirs prepared and waited in the gym or the green room. The emotions filled the room as seniors were ready to perform their last show.

Whether it was a song, a dance, a solo act, or a simple skit, all the choir students were satisfied with their work. At the end of the night the choirs all gathered on the stage, in the isles, or in the orchestra pit. They sang the annual "Give Me Wings." At the beginning the whole cast together also sang "Come So Far." It was a suiting song for everyone. The seniors came so far in their journey of choir and of life. They were about to endure in a new chapter of their lives. Then Moebius had built up the program at Mooresville over the past decades. The words of "I know how far we have come" just seemed to fit in perfectly.

Many goodbyes said

The show was put on for two nights. Friday May 9 and Saturday May 10 in the auditorium. Spotlighters. Madrigals, Finesse, Millennium, Sound Image, Sensations, Genesis, Verbalessence, and Insomniac all performed these two nights.

"Until We Sing Again" was also sang by the seniors in these groups. It was a special moment and many tears came running down. All the seniors were recognized on stage. With 35 seniors, there was a huge amount of flowers taking over the stage.

"I had the time of my life, and I owe it all to Spring Spectacular," senior Caitlin Ruoff said. As she joked by mimicking song lyrics, Ruoff was actually really sad that it was the end. She said she really enjoyed choir.

There are many performances that will not be forgotten and many people who will be missed greatly.

Millennium

Millennium performed its songs well. As a young show choir, the singers raised the bar. They sang "Why We Sing" and "L.O.V.E." Their soloist were Christa Whitehurst and Glen Hall.

That's All

Mrs. Elaine Moebius plays piano for the last time while directing choirs.

1 You Can't Stop the Beat Song

Spotlighter's performed a song which seem to never lose energy. It made the crowd want to dance every time it was performed. They made this song part of their show all year long. Choir members dropped at the end as part of the choreography, but they were also exhausted.

2 Madrigal's Medley

Madrigals was an a cappella group that traditionally sang dressed in Renaissance style outfits. They sang "Mmm Bop," "Yesterday," "So hard to say goodbye" and "I want it that way."

3 Spotlighter's dance

4 Finesse Medley

Finesse sang "One Night Only," "Prayer of the Children," "Soar," "Stray Cat Strut," "Bye, Bye Love," and "Heartbreaker".

Don't You Know? Junior Bailey Tri sang with Verbalescence. They sang "Kiss From a Rose" and "Breathe".

Double Time

Mr. Jason Damron was very busy throughout the Showcase night. He performed in two duets with students and also conducted Concert Band in its ISSMA music selections. He performed "I Want You Back" with junior Cory Shover (above) on the marimba and "Maleguena" with junior Natsuki Iizuka on the piano.

Play louder

Band director Mr. Jerry Weber plays clarinet with the low brass ensemble in "On Broadway." Although Mr. Weber wasn't as busy as Mr. Damron, he kept himself busy with conducting Symphonic Band and helping with the sound board.

"'Puttin' on the Ritz was my favorite song because I grew up listening to it with my grandma," Coburn said.

Elegance Senior Lauren Hart waits for a cue from director Mr. Weber to enter into "Three Ayres from Glouchester" at the right time.

"The second movement was my favorite because it was the prettiest and I had a nice solo throughout the whole thing," Hart said.

Hart said she liked the way the second movement sounded.

One Student's View

Freshman Sterling Brooks was involved in many bands throughout the Band Showcase. He performed with Symphonic, Jazz, Combined bands and also Pops Ensembles.

"I was a little nervous, but that's just part of playing in front of people," Brooks said.

Before the Showcase, Brooks was very busy with practicing difficult music.

"My favorite song was 'Us' (Jazz Band)." Brooks said. "After we played it, I realized that all the hard work and practice had paid off."

Not only was he focused on the music he had to perform but he also observed the middle school eighth grade band as well.

"It's fun to see who you will be working with the next year," Brooks said. "You can see how the band will improve and who your competition will be."

Whether it was scouting the younger players or having a good time playing his sax. Sterling Brooks had a very busy evening at the Band Showcase.

Feel the Rhythm

Hear for yourself

by: Michelle Davis

From "Circus Circus" to "Puttin on the Ritz" the Band Showcase concert was a night of amazing music. After traveling to New York over spring break, director Mr. Jerry Weber decided to carry on a Broadway/ New York theme for the second half of the show.

"My favorite song to play was 'New York, New York,' freshman Devon Jacobs said.

The bands also played songs such as "Puttin' on the Ritz" and "It Don't Mean a Thing."

With all themes aside, the bands also performed their gold-rated ISSMA (Indiana State School Music Association) contest music. Both MHS bands (Concert and Symphonic) achieved gold ratings at the annual ISSMA contest at Warren Central.

Not only did bands perform, but so did the winter guard members. They performed their show entitled "The Life Works of a Madman" based on the poet Edgar Allen Poe. The show consisted of a few of Poe's poems and background music to fit the mood.

"I hadn't heard the audio from the guard show, so when Susan [Perry] screamed I jumped." junior Chelsea Aichinger said.

In all, many band members thought the show went very well.

"It was the best Showcase in my six years of doing it," senior Lauren George said.

"Jazz Band was my favorite act. They were amazing," Jacobs said.

Along with a night of entertainment in music came duet acts and (what band people call) Pops Ensembles. Small groups of students would play a song between large band performances to give them more time to set up for the next group.

"I loved watching Mr. Damron and Natsuki [lizuka]," George said.

To keep up tradition, both Concert and Symphonic bands combined together to play two or three songs, and then they joined Paul Hadley Middle School in a song together. Usually, the night would end with "Illinois Loyalty" (school song), but Mr. Weber decided to play something that would be little easier for the middle schoolers.

For the last time, the drum majors led the high school Combined Band in the school song. As tradition had it, brass members stood up during the roll-off, and the audience helped out by clapping and chanting, "Beat 'em, bust 'em" at the end of the song.

"It was a great last concert for me," George said.

As senior members reminisced, on-coming members looked forward to the coming years.

"When we work hard and everyone gives their best we become so much better as a band," Aichinger said.

Just Dance Senior Agnese Rozite danced all night with her boyfriend, junior Royce Redmond.

"A Night Among The Stars'

Stars Fill The Prom

by: Olivia de Jong

Making hair appointments, doing make-up, getting nails, making dinner plans, buying a dress, renting a tux, getting post prom shirts, buying tickets, and arranging transportation all led to one evening on the dance floor. The hours of planning and shopping compared lightly to the fun endured during this event.

When the students walked into the convention center, they were greeted by prom attendees and had to take a Breathalyzer test. Then they were off to dance the night away. When they entered, they walked across the red carpet with their date hand and hand. The dance floor was surrounded by tables where wonderful desserts could be enjoyed. It became a collection of shoes, purses and much more. Among the tables, were images of different movie stars. All the decorations came to a total of $8,500. The atmosphere was great and made the night flow.

About 565 people attended prom. Looking over the crowd, all that was seen was heads covering the dance floor. It was a big scene of many familiar faces. For many seniors, this was the start of the end.

"Going to prom with a big group was a lot of fun and my date (Alissa Link) was beautiful, like always," junior Nick Angermeier said.

Many danced all night as if there was nobody around.

"We got a lot of laughs by watching everybody dance, it was funny," Angermeier said.

Many stayed for the coronations. This event was where many lined up around the dance floor awaiting to see who would be prince, princess, king, and queen. As the anticipation grew, finally juniors Ashley Wyatt and Tyler Lane were announced princess and prince. This left the excitement for the seniors, wondering which fellow classmate would be crowned. Then over the speakers, Brittany Strohmeyer and Jared Jacobs names were called as queen and king.

As the yawning and exhausted bodies left the building, many made their way to the school where a circus awaited them. It was nearly midnight and prom came to an end. Prom itself was just a start to many people's weekends.

Reflecting Back

This being Marissa Utley's senior prom as she looks back she really enjoyed her year.

"My senior year was based on making memories with my friends," Utley said.

Utley and friends went to the canal to take pictures before they went to Hard Rock Cafe to eat dinner. The day after they went camping at McCormick creek.

"Prom is suppose to be special, but going with friends is so much better," Utley said.

3 Dinner before Fancy Night or Not

"We went to the Claddagh and it was amazing," senior Samantha Bailey said. Not everyone chose to go somewhere fancy for dinner.

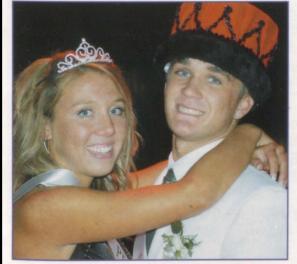

"We had a cookout at Chelsea Wenz's house. We had steak and salads," senior Betsy Morning said.

Day after The Beast and Much More

Some chose to go to Kings island and others decided to think of something original.

"I enjoyed the corn hole game because it was fun and it was pretty easy." Wyatt said. "Plus you got a lot of tickets for it."

Wyatt not only played games, but also took advantage of free food and time she had with her friends.

"It was a lot of fun to hang out with friends. listen to music and eat elephant ears and snow cones," Wyatt said. "The food was delicious."

Wyatt had some luck with winning prizes. She walked out with jewelry and some CDs. She was one of the lucky ones into a net.

because by the time the night was coming to an end, almost all of the desired prizes were gone.

All in all, Wyatt had a good time at post prom socializing and playing games. She agreed with many students in saying that the circus idea was a good one.

"The carnival idea was a lot of fun," Wyatt said.

The Big Top

by: Michelle Davis

As students walked into the north gymnasium, they met various circus folk including clowns, Madam Amnesium and a ringmaster. On the walls could be found some drawings of circus administrators and pictures of all the seniors for every visitor to see. There were photo opportunities to be taken on a carousel horse and cut-outs of clowns.

Students filed in with their matching T-shirts and tried their hand in winning a few games for some big prizes.

"The dart and balloon game was my favorite game because each throw was a pleasant surprise," senior Leslie Bushong-Varvil said.

Sighs from the Texas Hold 'em and Blackjack tables could be heard as students lost and won tickets. With basketball shooting, football throwing, barrell-rolling and darts, participants had many games to choose from.

"I enjoyed the Wii bowling because I got the most tickets there out of all the games I played," senior Marilyn Ragsdale said.

But none of the excitement could have taken place without the parents. Parent volunteers met and worked many hours to come up with the circus idea and carry it out.

"It was awesome how everything stayed with the theme," junior Kristi Robinson said. "The atmosphere was fun, there were a variety of games, and the picture with a carousel horse was a nice touch."

Every hour, students would pull out their red tickets in hopes that they would win some big prizes. The DJ gave away prizes such as a flat screen television and a Wii gaming system.

"When Agnese (Rozite) and I were about to leave, they called our ticket to win a flat screen TV," junior Royce Redmond said.

Not only were there big prizes being given away, but there were some prizes to be "bought" as well. Guitar Hero 3, a mini refrigerator, a bike and many various gift certificates were just a few of the bigger prizes to be "purchased."

After all of the excitement endured throughout the long night, many students chose to sleep if off and relax the following day. But some were more ambitious and took the trip to King's Island at 8 a.m.

"It rained for about the first hour and a half we were there, but then it lightened up and the trip was much better," sophomore Chris Jones said.

Whether it was playing games, eating food or hanging out with friends, many students seemed to enjoy themselves and have a positive outlook on what the parents will come up with next.

"It was really fun. I am definitely looking forward to next year," Jones said.

It's All Over Tonight

by: Olivia de Jong and Michelle Davis

It was true! Graduation was the night that many seniors will remember as their last appearance as a student at the high school. As many may return to say hello to a favorite teacher or faculty member, the class of 2008 would never be all together again.

As the students filed into the north gymnasium before the ceremony started, faculty was there to help students with their caps and gowns. The anticipation rose as the students went to either the green room hallway or the wrestling room to walk in front of their family, friends, and peers on one of the biggest nights of their life. Once "Pomp and Circumstance" was playing on the piano everyone realized it was the real deal.

During the ceremony, everyone received a good laugh from salutatorian. Chelsea Wenz's speech. Then soon to follow Teresa Wright gave her Valedictorian speech, which gave all the hope of becoming a genius. She gave a special thank you to family, friends, and the band during her speech.

"My favorite thing about high school was definitely marching band," Wright said.

After everyone had received their diploma, the slide show started and the tears ran down. Many proud moms everywhere could not hold it back when they saw how grown up their child was. ate Sara Potter said.

What more could a parent ask for? This was an explanation for all the tears. They were mostly happy tears: of joy and exasperation.

"High school was awesome. My favorite part was all of it," senior Mike Richards said.

Many had mixed emotions when the end of school came to an end. They wanted to be done with high school, but they were going to miss their friends.

"The best thing about high school was being able to hang out with my friends, but my inspiration is to get out," graduate Shanna Perry said.

This was many peoples' incentive as senioritis kicked in at the beginning of the second semester. At the end of the ceremony, everyone went to the courtyard for the annual alumni celebration. There were refreshments available and many pictures taken. It was so crowded and hard to find anyone. As people tried to find people that they may not ever see again to say one last good bye, it got a little crazy and hectic.

As graduates left the building there also came a sense of realization of the life ahead of them. There were many different emotions in the building; joy, sadness, nervousness and the feeling of accomplishment. Whether it was college, the military or the work force they were to enter into, the graduates were ready to leave and find their spark in the fire of life.

"I just wanted to be who I am and the best I can be." gradu-

Turning Pages

With turning the tassels also came the inevitable; adulthood. But many graduates learned some life lessons during their high school career before they ventured out into the world. Lessons like: "Have fun and don't let things pass you up," (Sarah Ball) "You can't win over everybody," (Teresa Wright) and "Make the most of your time," (Sara Potter) were some words of wisdom graduates could take and use in life.

2 Football

When the school year begins, many couldn't wait to go to the football games every Friday night. There was a large cheer block, who were dedicated to following the team. From painting stomachs to dressing in blue and gold. Many showed their support in some way.

Many students were very involved in high school. They enjoyed their clubs and sports. They became part of their group and found their identity within one of their groups. Whether they were a basketball player, a band member, or a member of the FFA.

Laugh Chelsea Wenz draws some laughs during her salutatorian speech. Wenz avoided the clichés of graduating in her speech and focused more on a personal message.

Ready, Set, Go! Colton Long waits for his cue to walk down the aisle from senior sponsor Mr. Jake Allen.

Teachers left an impact on students life in some way or another. Whether it was just an encouragement, a learning technique, or great memories in the classroom.

- 1 Q: What is an interesting fact about you? A: When I was in 8th grade I won Young American Idol.
- 2 Q: What medical conditions do you deal with? A: I have type one diabetes, hypothyroidism, and neurofibromatosis.

3Q: How have these influenced your life?

A: I try not to let them affect me, but it sometimes hard not letting them. I have to always check my blood sugar; it's a big part of my life.

Sophomore Bill McLaughlin's hobby was racing go-carts. McLaughlin has gone many places to race his go-carts including California and Daytona. He was one of the top racers in the country. His family went to Italy for racing. He said that he really enjoyed the competitiveness. "If you're not first, you're last," McLaughlin said.

Spectacular Sophomores!

Sophomores are spectacular. Along with spectacular students came very unique and interesting hobbies. Below are sophomores sharing what they liked to do in their free time.

"Choir-is my hobby, because it takes a lot of hard work and determination and it's time consuming. It's what I do in my free time," Carmen Starling said.

"In my free time, I like to play-video games by myself because they are really fun. Madden is probably my favorite," Gavin Douglas said.

Damon Martin's hobby is playing the base guitar. "My favorite time of the week is hanging out with the band and just playing whatever we feel like," he said.

Mrs. Ann Phillips English Dept. Chair

> Mr. Joe Johnson Science Mr. Jerry Weber Music Mr. Brinton Farrand Art Mr. Richard Kelley Industrial Arts Mr. Greg Silver Social Studies Mrs. Edna Bush Library

Mrs. Phillips started teaching at MHS in 1983 after teaching in two other school corporations. She entered her 30th year of teaching in the fall of 2007. "I grew up respecting education," Phillips said. "My dad was a university professor and my mom was a teacher, so going into teaching was like putting on a comfortable pair of blue jeans for me." Because Phillips has 30-years' experience in the teaching business, she shares her thoughts on the flexibility of education. "Education constantly changes. People don't. You have to keep up with change, because when lives truly touch, success is inevitable.

Things You Should Know About the Academics Section

Contrary to popular belief, we racked our brains to our wit's end to come up with all the things placed in this section. Slackers beware: our magazine is full speed ahead!

This is the first time in Wagon Trails Yearbook history that any section in the yearbook – including Academics – has been designed with inspiration from major magazines.

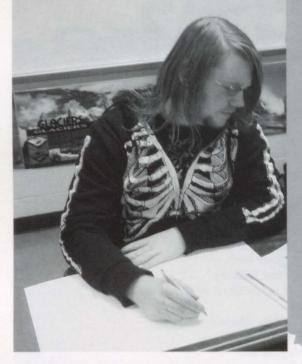

> In order to avoid making up another random tidbit about our section, we will just say that this section should entertain you forever with its interesting stories, pictures and more.

Staying Interested

Earth and Space Science

"We made posters to show the heat and energy in the atmosphere. It's a lot more interesting when you can actually do hands on work and not just something strait out of the book," senior Josh Comfort said.

Biology I

"The biology projects we did were really fun. In one we got to figure out how DNA was formed and how it works," freshman Rachel Ball said. "Overall, biology was so much fun. You got to figure out how the cell functions and how it works."

Integrated Chemistry and Physics

"I've learned a lot of interesting things in ICP. We always have fun when we do the labs," sophomore Shelby Perkins said. "In one of the labs we dropped balloons down the stairs into trash cans to show how gravity works. One fell on Mr. Olivier's head. It was funny."

Anatomy

"In anatomy we learned how the body works and other interesting things about the body," junior Katrina Polikoff said. "We did really interesting projects, like the cow brain dissections." (Pictured to the right)

Physics

"I try to integrate real-world examples of the physics they are learning about," physics teacher Brent Olivier said. "This year has been very interesting for me because in addition to starting my first year as a teacher, I also became a dad. It has been quite demanding to balance being a first time teacher and father."

Chemistry

"Chemistry is interesting when you do interesting things. Everyday Mrs. Zook blew my mind with the facts of chemistry. Mrs. Zook is the Einstein of this time era, bringing knowledge to her students," sophomore Todd Hacker said.

Biology II

"Biology II is interesting because you get to go more in depth about the things you learned about in Biology I. We got to dissect cats, listen to speeches about the cell theory and we also get to learn about all the kingdoms and domains instead of just learning about what they are," junior Bradley Strohmeyer said.

Briefings from our Business Department's Top Dogs

highest CLASSES of STUDY by: Tyler Bennett

Taking classes in the business department is vital to those who want to jump into the world of business after their educational career, and in today's go-go business world, taking these classes are more important than they've ever been before! Take a look inside the top-of-the-heap business classes and see what real business people look like!

Business Foundations Ties it Together

Students participating in the Business Foundations course were often asked to design flyers for businesses, apply business concepts to their everyday lives and even hold fund-raisers with the help of local businesses. Performing activities such as these help students prepare for the ICE program, internships and career programs like Area 31, which takes place at Ben Davis High School's facilities.

Computer Applications and Accounting: Building Future Secretaries, Treasurers, Accountants, and More!

In computer applications, students were asked to work and complete projects using the Microsoft Office Professional 2003 suite, which included completing required projects using Word, word processing; Access, database building;

PowerPoint, slide show creation; and Excel, spreadsheet creation and management.

In other business news, Miss Ball's accounting classes took a field trip to Chicago and viewed a million dollars in addition to sights in the city.

The World of Careers: ICE, Internships, and Career Planning

Those young business people participating in a career program learned vital skills that were necessary to their lives, including people skills and interaction. Mooresville's career programs were advantageous because they allowed students to stay in school while holding crucial jobs in such areas as the medical field, which took place at the St. Francis Hospital: Mooresville campus.

In the future, students who participated in these programs should be well-prepared for career opportunities and more.

Everybody wants to rule the Fortune 500, the list of the top companies in the world. Follow these tips, and you'll climb the ladder to the top companies in the world one day!

- 1. Develop a business plan* that outlines all expenses and income.
- 2. Once you have drafted a plan, act upon it. All Fortune 500 companies have a good business plan otherwise, they wouldn't be on the *Fortune 500**!
- 3. If your business is doing well, don't expand too rapidly or too much.
- 4. Keep track of sales within your company. Don't get audited*!

What does $1,000,000 look like?

Students in Miss Traci Ball's Accounting classes took a field trip to Chicago and saw this guarded display full of money. Enamored by the display, they took this picture and brought it back so you could experience the wealth.

Congratulations...you are now the proud recipient of $1,000,000 in cash!

Spanish I & II

Foreign Language

Sophomore Molly Adams' favorite part about Spanish II is her teacher.

"[Mrs. Weihmeier] is basically awesome!" Adams said.

Adams chose to take Spanish because it was "more practical."

Adams has big plans to be fluent in Spanish later in life and possibly even live in Spain for a year.

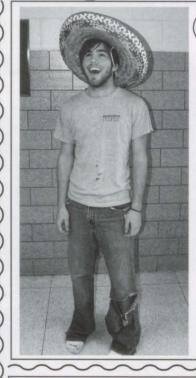

She plans on coming back for Spanish III.

French I & II

Sophomore Heather Passey was in French II. She had an interest in French after she took it in middle school. She plans on taking French III as a junior.

"My favorite thing about French would probably be all of the people in my class. We all get along and we have a lot of fun," Passey said.

She also said that her teacher, Mrs. Breidinger was a lot of fun. Since Mrs. Breidinger was the only French teacher, she is very devoted to helping her students learn.

Spanish III & IV

Junior, Brian Julian enjoyed being in Spanish III. He plans to continue the class in college if it is offered. He most enjoyed the fun people in his class and his "cool" teacher, Mrs. Skaggs.

"I like learning [Spanish] because I enjoy speaking Spanish to the waiters at my favorite Mexican restaurants, such as El Rodeo...It doesn't really work well at Taco Bell though," Julian said.

French III & IV

Junior Logan Oakley did not follow the trend when he decided to take French in high school. He wanted to do something different, and since most students took Spanish, he went with French.

He had a lot of fun throughout his third year of French. He really enjoyed Immersion Days when the class spoke French the entire time and English was not allowed.

"French class is totally different than any other class," Oakley said.

Spanish continued to be a subject that will be very useful for the future. As many jobs would pay more to those who can speak Spanish, it became quite the popular class to take, as it would pay off in the future.

"Spanish is a good class to take because I know it's going to help me in the work force in the future," junior Bailey Tri said.

And of course, everyone knows that Mexican food is fantastic! Mrs. Skaggs shared one of her favorite Mexican dishes. It's simple and can be made in your very own home!

Mrs. Skaggs's Delicious

Beef Enchiladas

What you'll need:

-tortillas

-beef

-cheese

-rancho sauce

You'll also need:

- onions
- -diced red peppers
- -jalapenos
- -taco seasoning
- -a big appetite!

Cooking Instructions:

- 1. Slow cook the beef roast with jalapenos and taco seasoning until tender (at least six hours).
- 2. Then add beef to a warmed tortilla, put shredded cheese on top and add onion on top if desired.
- 3. Roll up the tortilla, tucking the ends inside.
- 4. Lay the rolled tortilla seam-side down and repeat until all enchiladas are made.
- 5. Top with ranchoce and shredded cheese, peppers, and onions.
- 6. Cover with foil and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.
- 7. Uncover and bake for 10 more minutes.

Caution: The enchiladas will be hot! Be sure to use oven mitts!

Tasty Talk

Mrs. Skaggs gave a full serving of information about her delicious recipe.

AcademNICK: Where did you get this recipe? MRS. SKAGGS: I made it up myself. AcademNICK: How healthy is this recipe for you?

MRS. SKAGGS: It's not the healthiest for you but you can make it healthier by using pork or chicken.

AcademNICK: Besides this recipe, what Mexican foods do you like?

MRS. SKAGGS: It'd be easier to tell you what Mexican foods I don't like, but my favorites are sopapillas, chilaquiles, churros, flautas, and my alltime favorite, empanadas.

Remember: Always have an adult help you in the kitchen.

Junior Logan Oakley said his French class is "une famille grand happieusement!" [one big happy family]

Industrial Arts

Whether it be how to fix a radiator, or make a car from scratch, this school's got you covered! By: Justin Kersey

Mr. Kelly

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: What do you do in your classes?

Mr. Kelly: In Transportation Systems, we tear engines apart, learn about the systems in them, and then put them back together. It's a mostly hand-on class. In Transportation Processes, the students use a program on the computer to build cars from scratch that have specific purposes, like efficient gas mileage. The last class is Advanced Auto, a three-period-long class which is meant to give the students a hands-on experience that is meant to prepare them for the future in the automotive industry.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Do you think that you have learned anything that might help you in the future?

Junior Aaron Justus: Pretty much anything you learn in this class will be helpful if you pursue the auto career.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: What is the most important thing you learned this year?

Sophomore Ashley Terry: How to check the brakes to see if they work or not.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Any other comments you would like to make about these classes in general?

Mr Kelly: We compete every year against the advanced classes in Ben Davis and other big schools and do very well. In the last eight years, we have come in the top ten five times statewide, which is great for this small of a school. Even better, we had the highest test scores in Indiana in 2002!

Mr. Funk

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: What do you do in your classes?

Mr. Funk: We believe every project should follow the design process. Our projects include making chopper bikes, bridges, welding, and magazine racks.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Do you think that you have learned anything that might help you in the future?

Freshman Jeffrey VanWinkle: Learning how to repair things.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: What is the most important thing you learned this year?

Freshman Eric Burgett: It would probably have to be safety precautions.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Any other comments you would like to make about these classes in general?

Senior Corbin Murphy: This class is fun, well-rounded, and I recommend it.

Junior Josh Hale checks his work on the car.

Sophomore Anthony Barnes cuts some raw material for use.

Mrs. Weiss discusses animal reproduction in Animal Science.

Mrs. Weiss

Mrs. Scott

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Describe what you do in your classes.

Mrs. Scott: We do a lot of problem-solving activities, such as building bridges and towers. The students also work on safety and measurement. We try to incorporate as much hands-on as we can allow. In our manufacturing classes, we do a lot of design work such as cereal boxes and t-shirts.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Do you think that you learned anything that might help you in the future?

Freshman Eric Burgett: Safety precautions when in a workshop, mavbe.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: What is the most important thing you learned this year? Freshman Jesse Turner cuts wood for a project.

Sophomore Robert Baker: Learning how to draw floor plans.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Any other comments you would like to make about these classes in general?

Freshman Jeffrey VanWinkle: It's a really good class, and I recommend it.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Describe what you do in your classes.

Mrs. Weiss: A favorite in the animal science classes is all the different dissections we do of animal organs, such as hearts, lungs, eyeballs, kidneys, etc. We also make DNA models, spool our own DNA, find our blood type, and take a field trip or two.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Do you think you learned anything that might help you in the future?

Sophomore Michelle Hultgren: Yes, because you will know what does what in the body and I am planning to become a vet.

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: What is the most important thing you learned this year?

Senior Jason Sears: We dissected a pig's heart. That's as close as to a human heart as you can get without the real thing!

ACADEMNICK MAGAZINE: Any other comments you would like to make about these classes in general?

Sophomore Michelle Hultgren: Take the class. It's really fun, and you won't regret it.

Boys APC

"I like APC because it keeps me in shape and gets me the beach bod I need, " senior Devin Gray said. "My favorite exercise to do is the bench press."

"My Favoite thing about APC is when we get Wednesdays off and all we do is have free days or run, then we get to play basketball," senior Bobby Ashman said. "My favorite exercise to do is bench press or squats." Girl's P.E.

"My favorite part about the class was doing all of the exercises. It was really good exercise to get us into shape," freshman Rachel Ball said. "I didn't like to swim though because we never had enough time to get ready."

Health

Girl's P.E.

"I think P.E. comes in useful because some girls do not get any physical activity in their lifestyles so it helps them stay healthy," freshman Ashtyn Fisher said. "My favorite thing to do was flag football and when Mrs. Thompson made us do sit-ups so I could have nice abs."

Boy's P.E.

"The movies we watched about drunk driving were cool," sophomore Mariah McDowall said. "It made me decide that when I start driving I will choose to not drink and drive."

The students in the class also got to guest speakers talk to them about the effects of harmful things such as smoking and drinking.

"P.E. is a great was to learn healthy habits that will stick with us for the rest of our lives," sophomore Todd Justus said.

The boys in basic P.E. learned how fun games like basketball, flag football and dodgeball could be great ways to stay in shape.

This Class The Study of Mathematics

Algebra I and II

Algebra I students in Mr. Jody Monaghan's class learned how to graph slopes and intercepts in the form y = mx + b. In Miss Rachel Gath's Algebra II classes, students worked with the conic sections of circles, hyperbolas, ellipses and parabolas. The class spent time with distance formulas, standard edge of vertex and standard forms to translate graphs up, down, left, and right. Before spring

break, Algebra II students worked exclusively with the domain and range of graphs.

Jack Waters participates in a class activity and helps Mrs. Wanda Tomlinson conduct class.

Geometry

Geometry classes were tutored on how to make three-dimensional planar shapes. They each made a model of their shape and presented it to the class.

Some students decided to show off their shapes to AcademNICK magazine. Check them out!

Students pose showing off the three-dimensional shapes they made in class.

PreCal and Calculus

In Mrs. Nicki Manion's PreCal classes, students spent time with synthetic division and polynomials, or an expression that is constructed from one or more variables and constants, using only the operations of addition, subtraction, multiplication, and constant positive whole number exponents. Synthetic division made the most complicated polynomials seem like a breeze polynomials seem like a breeze.

"We spent nine weeks on trigonometry," junior Justin Kersey said. "We learned the functions sine, cosine, tangent, secant, cosecant and cotangent and points on a circle, as well. I think it was really easy."

Discrete Mathematics

Mrs. Cindy Bond's discrete math class had worked with game theory earlier in the first semester. Game theory is a sta-

Weighted voting methods and famous mathematicians comprised study areas for most of the second semester. However, classes also spent a big part of the second semester of study working with graph theory. Graph theory is comprised of breaking graphs down into several sections, including matrices, the "shortest path" problem and finding distances.

EOC!

The Education Opportunity Center was open for students to have an alternative to the traditional school day.

By: Justin Kersey

Learn all the essentials of high school!

The EOC developed a new strategy in 2008, according to Ms. Jennifer Vaughan.

"Last year, one subject was taught a day. English on Monday, Math on Tuesday, etc. This year, we try to cover every subject in a day, allowing the students more time throughout the week to ask for help, and we can give them one-on-one guidance."

Credit Recovery

Don't have enough credits? Not a problem, with EOC's program, PLATO! The EOC was there to make sure that everyone had a chance to graduate, even if they missed a few credits!

"I was short by a couple credits, but the credit recovery program helped me catch up," junior Caleb Baker said.

Senior Matt Tipton agreed, "The credit recovery is really helping me catch back up."

"I need to get my diploma, and I have a better chance of getting

Warning!

Don't be fooled into thinking EOC was a piece of cake; they had projects too!

"Our students had to write an essay about the person they admire most in this district," Vaughan said.

"I'm doing my essay over Mr. Funk. He told me all about unions and colleges, which'll be important in my future," junior Caleb Baker said.

Senior Matt Tipton did his essay over Ms. Karen Cochran, because, "She was the best sub ever."

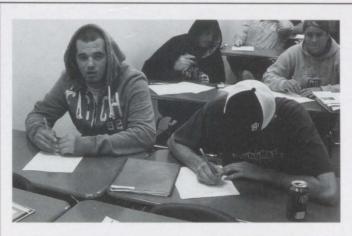

They covered all required subjects, and took their fair share of tests as well.

Schubert said.

Junior Joy Grimes and junior Melissa Flanary take their tests. "I like the EOC because it is a less stressful environment," Grimes said

"I like the three-hour-a-day schedule," Flanary said.

"I came to the EOC, because it lets me work more hours," junior Matt Tolan said.

"I like these students a lot, and each day is entertaining," Ms. Jennifer Vaughan said. From left to right: Caleb Baker, Matt Tolan, Timmy Clark, Ms. Vaughan, Andy Schubert, Joy Grimes, and James Duncan.

"[Journalism I] has already helped me; it has shown me how to look at a story in a newspaper and understand what type of story it is," sophomore Lydia Wathen said.

Understanding Children

In Child Development, students learned some of the basic techniques of child care, and the behavior that infants have.

"We work on the presumption that every student will have children at some point, and we help to let them know what to expect," Mrs. Jarvis said.

"We talked about serious issues, like drug use and premature birth. It's a great class for those who actually plan to learn from the class, otherwise you won't retain the information for very long," junior Brian Wilheim said.

Sophomores Rocky Spears and Katie Speas present their poster concerning abortion to the class.

Sophomore Samantha Curry and senior Melinda Hickey compare designs. Sophomore Abbey Williams measures the length of a room in her house.

Extreme House Makeover

Mrs. Jarvis taught her students the basics of design, like the dimensions of a room, and decoration of the common household.

"I try to teach them all aspects of home design, and give them handson experience in interior design. It can prepare them for a career, or just for their own home," Mrs. Joan Jarvis said.

Growing as an Individual

Students examined the roles of families, and how they function, as well as how families or individuals react to crises in their lives in Human Development.

"We look at the life spans, the situations, and changes in individuals and families," Mrs. Joan Jarvis said.

They discussed the basics of human behavior as well, and tried to show the students what they might face in the future.

"We had people from Indiana business colleges visit, and our class split into groups, where we pretended to live with each other. We would make grocery lists of necessities, and things like that," senior Benjamin Woods said. "It's a pretty good class, and I would recommend it."

Senior Josh Nicholas cuts apples for his meal.

What's Cooking?

In Nutrition and Wellness, students learned the importance of each nutrient, and the main sources of food in which they can be found. Afterwards, they would get the chance to cook these foods!

"We study the basics of nutrition, and apply it to food labs. Advanced Nutrition is more project work, and a more in-depth study of nutrition," Mrs. Joan Jarvis said.

Area 31 Career Programs

Students taking classes at Ben Davis had two options of time periods for classes. Classes held in the morning met in the library and waited for the bus, and those students taking classes in the afternoon were able to drive themselves to class during a travel period.

In computer courses at Ben Davis, students could have earned their certification with either Microsoft or Cisco, a top company with which information technology and networking professionals have obtained their certification. Both Microsoft and Cisco certification makes a person more desirable to a company, and those who have these forms of certification earn an average of $102,000 per year in the Midwest, which was the highestpaid region in the country, in 2008.

Cadet teaching took place at local elementary schools. Most students decided to take their cadet teaching experience to Northwood Elementary School.

To be involved in cadet teaching courses, one must have exhibited good organization, management and interaction skills. Once enrolled in the cadet teaching experience, student teachers were frequently evaluated by the

How many years have you been teaching?

I have been teaching for five years. This is my third year at Mooresville High School.

What classes do you teach?

I teach U.S. History, Sociology and World History.

What was your favorite class in high school?

My favorite class was ninth grade Spanish and my senior government class. I didn't really enjoy social studies until I had Mr. Dempsey. Mr. Dempsey made me want to be a teacher.

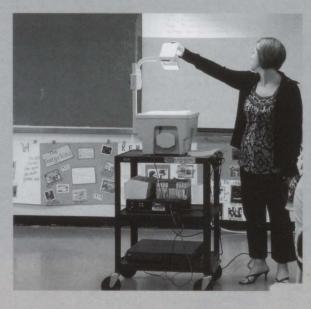

By: Taylor , lone (

What kept you interested in school?

I could have been a much better student in high school but what kept me interested was when my teachers allowed me to express myself. I loved when teachers came up with exciting lessons or activities. I also knew that I was going to college, school was important to me and my parents wanted to be successful.

How do you keep your students interested?

I try to use humor and find interesting facts about history to keep my students entertained. I also like to find creative activities for them to do in class.

What college did you attend?

I went to Wright State University for my undergraduate degree in Dayton, Ohio and Indiana state University for my graduate degree.

What advice do you have for your students?

I would say that what you do as a freshman matters. Grades and credits matter to graduate and determine so much of your future plans. Try hard to be successful from the start.

Life With AP

by: Shelby Woody

Many students chose to take an AP (Advanced Placement) or the ACP (Advanced College Prep) course during the year. There were several different AP courses offered including: AP History, AP English, ACP English, AP Music Theory, AP Biology, AP Chemistry, AP Physics, and AP Calculus. These were all classes that gave students the opportunity to receive college credits if they passed the class and the AP exam. They also took up much of the students' time and provided a challenge as well.

HISTORICAL GUEST

Mrs. Gilly's AP History class smiles for a picture with their guest speaker, Mr. John Wilson. He was a World War II Veteran and also Ally Nelson's great grandfather. The students listened intently as he talked about his experiences. He was a P.O.W. and received several awards for his services to our country. "My grandfather was in the army during WWII over in Germany. He was involved in the battle of the Bulge and was shot and taken prisoner while in combat. He survived and lives currently in Mooresville. He came and spoke to the AP U.S. History classes about his experiences and obstacles. he is an amazing person and undoubtedly my hero," Nelson said.

MUSICAL MASTERPIECE

AP Music Theory student junior Sarah Vaughn writes and practices a song she must play for her final

"Music Theory is one of the most challenging classes I have taken. My appreciation of music has definitely increased because of theory. It is a very fun and rewarding class," Vaughn said.

Mrs. Ann Phillip's ACP English class enjoys breakfast before school during the week of finals. The students decided as a class that they should enjoy the early meal together since it would be one of their last days at Mooresville High School.

ACP English was the only class offered at MHS which allowed students to gain college credit without requiring the students to take and pass an AP exam.

"ACP is a college class with college level material and expectations yet is taught with utmost consideration of high school reality. Whereas both W131 and A202 require much effort on the part of both instructor and student, I know the curriculum truly prepares students for their university study and that makes all of our hours of preparation more than worthwhile,' Mrs. Phillips said.

what life as a Puritan was like," Stuckey said.

Sciences

AP Calculus

One of the most challenging AP courses offered was AP Calculus. "I reorganized the syllabus this year, which made the course more rigorous. I probably was not [the students'] favorite person and I know for sure I shook up the Top 20 because some of them experienced lower grades than they were used to. My goal was to make them learners again, not just people who "memorize" math facts. Most of them stepped up to the challenge; some of them let senioritis set in way too soon. I hope I succeeded in preparing them for their Calculus classes at college!" Mrs. Crawford said. "It's not how smart you are, it's how much you care," senior Gabe Shields said. Senior Kevin Schneider's "Calc lingo" pretty much sums it up. "Low D high, high D low, square the bottom and away we go!'

AP Chemistry

AP Chemistry was a class very similar to regular chemistry, however it went more in-depth into each individual topic. "I decided to take this class because I really enjoyed first year Chemistry and got good grades so I decided to further challenge myself. This class truly did [challenge me]. The lab experiments were more complicated and the information was more detailed, but Mrs. Zook did a great job teaching the class. At the end of the year, we took the AP test, which really tested my knowledge of the class. Even after taking this class, I still enjoy Chemistry, even though I have seen how hard it can be," junior Riley Howden said.

AP Physics

AP Physics was an extension of what students previously learned in Physics. Students also learned many new things such as relativity and nuclear physics. "AP Physics is much more challenging than regular Physics, but it was lots and lots of fun," junior Adam Hakes said.

AP Biology

Although the AP Biology class was extremely small, the students learned and accomplished a lot. "In AP Biology, we learned a more in-depth view on all of the basic concepts. It's a great way to get ready for college classes," senior Sara Potter said.

Wagon Trails Yearbook Staff

Juniors Shelby Woody, Brittany Johnson, Elyse McIntosh, and Lori Nichols greet their visitor in the "Coneheads" skit at Wagon Trails Revue.

The year of 2007-2008 was a successful year overall for the Wagon Trails yearbook staff. They achieved many accomplishments ranging from a great turnout at Wagon Trails Revue to becoming finalists for the statewide Hoosier Star yearbook award.

"After working for this staff for two years, it feels very rewarding to see the work that both of these amazing staffs can finally be recognized," junior Tyler Bennett said.

The yearbook had a great staff, and will miss its seniors, Michelle Davis, Olivia De Jong, Allannah Beeler, and Ashley Carr dearly.

"I thought it was a really great experience, and I enjoyed the journalism classes, which made me a more social person, overall," senior Allannah Beeler said.

A lot of hard work was put into this yearbook by a very devoted staff, and they were very pleased with the results. The yearbook staff hopes you are as well!

Pulse Newspaper Staff

On various Fridays throughout the year, it was quite common to see many students sitting in a classroom or the lunchroom all reading the same thing: The Pulse newspaper. It was something that every student could look forward to, and it always had some interesting information, as well as something that could give you a laugh or two. Like the Wagon Trails yearbook staff, the Pulse staff was also a Hoosier finalist.

"It's been very rewarding to see how much the staff has accomplished. They did an excellent job improving in their writing and design," Mrs. Ada Clark said. "They also excelled in brainstorming story ideas, and then being able to write those stories so that they are balanced and fair."

Broadcast Staff

When every student heard the "Wake up MHS" song begin to play in their classes, they knew what was coming: Broadcast was getting ready to give MHS the daily news.

"I am very proud of the staffs' teamwork. This entire project is a team effort, and they did an excellent job," broadcast adviser Mr. Andy Marine said.

Broadcast also had the honor of one of its staff members receiving the Hadley Award: senior Stacie Van Dyke.

"I was really excited to be the 2008 recipient of the Hadley Award because it is such an high honor for the MHS journalism department. The broadcast program has grown so much and definitely turned a corner this year, and I am grateful for the opportunity to have played such an important role in the program, Van Dyke said.

"Other than Stacie winning the award, it has been a very exciting year," Marine said, "Our work flow this year is much better, thanks to the staffs' leadership, communication, and ability to train newer staff members. With a consistent work flow, we are easily able to meet our deadlines."

Sophomore Mike George delivers the morning news to MHS.

"The staff this year improved dramatically. I could see very big changes from he beginning of the year to the end, and their journalistic skills have blossomed," senior and editor in chief Sonya Hovious said.

Filling you in on our publication students!

Olivia de Jong

1. The thing I enjoyed the most about being an editor was being able to make color pages for the yearbook, and getting to act like a presidential candidate.

2. What I'll miss the most about being in Yearbook staff is having the abiity to make a book that people will cherish for the rest of their lives.

This is Olivia de Jong, and I approve this message.

Mackenzie Wiser

1. What I'll remember about Broadcast her in life is the people that were in my class.

2. The best thing about Broadcast was learning the different aspects of a show from beginning to completion.

Lindsay Perdue

1. I joined Pulse because | loved to write, and journalism opened my eyes up to the journalistic kind of writing ---

2. The toughest part of being in the Pulse staff was planning things, and meeting the deadlines: keeping others organized as well as myself.

CURTAIN, LIGHTS, SOUND, Performances at MHS were extremely important to over half of the students, but they cannot run by themselves. There was one vital team of individuals that worked extremely hard to make the performances run as smoothly as possible: Stage crew! They never got nearly as much credit as they deserved. See how important they truly are on page 122.

By: Brittany Johnson

Over the past 20 years Mrs. Elaine Moebius had been the head choir director for MHS. She directed Sound Image, Sensations, Millennium, and the most famous show choir at MHS, Spotlighters. In 2007, she announced that the 2008 school year would be her last year at MHS.

Mrs. Elaine Moebius was born in Leabon, Ohio. She had been married for 38 years, she had three daughters, three son-in-laws, and five grandchildren. She had accomplished so much from the years she worked here. While she ran Spotlighters, they had won many championships, the 1997 Edgewood competitions, in vocal competitions, and every year has won something "special."

"I like winning in vocals, because that is what I like teaching the most and that is what I'm best at. I'm going to miss the kids that kept me teaching," Mrs. Moebius said.

She went on to say that the 2007-2008 Spotlighters choir did very well, got along, and worked very hard.

And the Band Plays

Not only does the pep band play a big part in the crowd spirit, but the marching band does as well. Written By: Ashley Carr

The buzzer sounds off, "It's halftime," the announcer says.

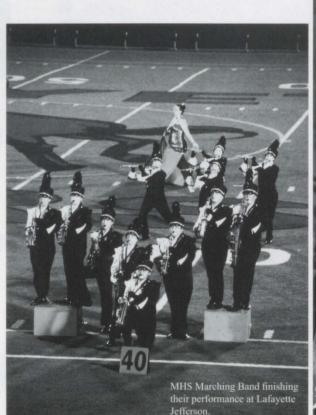

The crowd dies down, and you can hear the pitter-patter of feet coordinating together on the field. The drum major climbs the podium, she raises her hands to a stance. The band follows her lead, as the instruments rise to her movements and a melody is played in correspondence.

In another view off the field, the crowd goes wild as the Pioneers just start third quarter of the basketball game. They shoot, they score, and the band immediately stands. They raise their instruments and start off with the traditional song Louis Louis.

From practicing all day, everyday over the summer; to only four days a week, and maybe an hour before the game, both bands practice very hard and multiple times at that. Going to contest and playing at the games, many students are very involved with the band.

"It's definitely a greater responsibility to not only conduct our meets, but also to conduct the practices as well, while others are not there," senior drum major Teresa Wright said.

"Playing at the games gives me a reason to be involved in school, especially when the crowd actually gets involved," junior Nikki Patel said.

Junior Rhonda Pryor and rama club member performs at the Spring Play

Having meetings usually just around the holidays and every so often, Drama club was still pretty busy. Drama club was in control of helping out at Pioneer Park for the Halloween Hike, the Christmas play and Spring play.

"At our meetings we usually will bring food like cookies, and will sit around and talk about events we may have, and we also do improvs," sophomore Sheran Rollin said.

Improvs (improvisations) are where sponsor Mrs. Kassen, who was in charge of the club, made up a story and the kids had to go along with it and make it up as they went.

"It's a really fun club, I really enjoy it because we improv, make up our own skits, we have parties, we dress up as certain characters for the Homecoming parade, and its something anyone could enjoy, it makes you more sociable," senior Holly Matlock said.

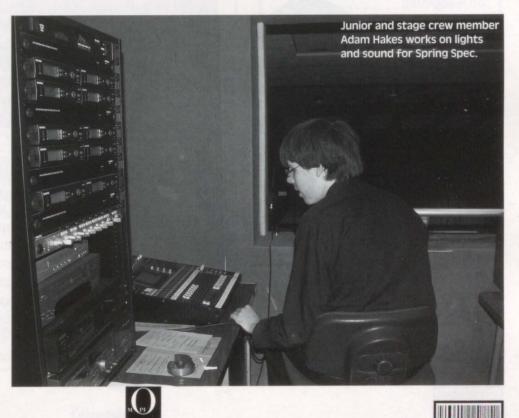

The club members seemed to really enjoy the club, improving seems to be the activity they enjoyed most.

Stage Crew

By: Allannah Beeler

The lights dim and the curtain opens, the audience becomes quiet as the performance begins. All of this thanks to the help of stage crew. Stage crew was to be a lot of hard work that seemed to go unnoticed.

"You have to be able to work under pressure and also have a lot of patience," sophomore and stage crew member Thomas Lopez said. Stage crew mainly worked on controlling lights, sounds, and curtains. Senior and four year member Alex Pelham enjoyed being in stage crew. "It's cool, you learn how to work everything and you learn about all the secret doors," Pelham said. The stage crew members were the main people in the programs even though they were hidden.

FINESSE

Something Different

You've Got One Night Only! to catch this act. Well, maybe a year. BY BRITTANY JOHNSON

Finesse decided to do something a little different. that would separate them from the other girl show choirs at its competition shows. The 2008 competition show was actually talked about as being the Spring Spectacular Show in 2007. Bre Smith, a junior and a two-year member of Finesse was the one who came up with the boy-girl show idea, where half of the girls would dress as boys, and the other half stay as girl's and dance together.

" I love this competition show a lot. No other girl show choir would even think of this idea. It definitely separates us from the other girl choirs," junior Bre Smith said. The competition song's were very upbeat, and interesting. With songs "One Night Only," "Prayer of the Child," "Soar," "Stray Cat Strut," and the closer "Heartbreaker."

"I have high hope, for this choir. And I believe we will do well at our Florida competition," Mr. Jason Damron said. Spotlighter and Finesse members traveled to Florida for their choir trip. Finesse also finished sixth at the North Central contest.

Bre Smith

+"I thought of the idea of the competition show, and I love how Mr. Damron arranged the songs to fit the idea of it, " junior Bre Smith said.

Shelby Shields, Junior "I love how we get along. We have improved so much since last year. It is a lot more fun."

Megan Biggs, Senior "I really enjoyed Wagon Trails!"

Shelby Gonterman, Junior "Being a boy in the show is probably the most exciting part in it. Aren't our bow ties sweet?!"

"I really like to play the marimba. Learning new things are important to me, and this is all brand new to me, so it made it really exciting to me."

" I like choosing my own instrument. I want to be a musician, or at least teach music, and band really helps with that. I enjoy the various music that we play also."

"I usually play the base drum. What I enjoy about [percussion] band is that we can do our own thing. We are the beat of the band, and you can really feel it in our music."

"I like being able to sign out whatever part I want to play for that set of music. I have lots of fun with the people in that class, and the music we play is really good."

MACKENZIE COBURN

"I love to play the base drum, it's my favorite. I like to sight read the music, and it's really good, so it helps me like the class even more. I want to be a band director, so that helps also."

From Classroom to Stage

The students behind the stage come out in front and put their best beat forward, as they bring their solo-made rhythm to the rest of the band. By: Ashley Carr

We'll all agree that when listening to the band play, you can really feel the beat, but do you really know where the sound is coming from? That would be the percussion band playing loudly and clearly for everyone to hear.

"We didn't go to any contest this year because of the fact that a lot of the students are involved in so much. Without going, we can practice for our own concerts so we are prepared for many things we need to take care of," band director Mr. Jerry Webber said. "It gives us an opportunity to do much more with the students."

The percussion band separated itself from the regular band about 10 years ago, and many of the students feel as if they are not a [band] family anymore.

"We learn and grow better as a separate band, especially for concerts, because we only have to learn certain music," sophomore Amy Ford said. Many people don't realize that percussion band is the foundation of the band, but what you do know is that they are there and they are a very important part of the band. Being a percussionist means that you are skilled at playing a percussion instrument, and that is exactly what this band is all about. Skill.

Members of orchestra were committed to precisely playing for the community. The class as a whole did not go to many competitions, although they did perform many times. "We compete in contests to win, but we perform because we want to play," orchestra director Mrs. Sheryl Fyfe said. "We have accomplished many things this year, just not as many as we could have though." Many orchestra members enjoyed activities that occurred outside of class.

Washington, D.C. Over the summer, selected students and volunteer students traveled to D.C. The class played at Union Station and sang the national anthem on television with about 20 other schools. "Considering there was no sleep, it was a good

"I like being able to perform for people outside of our community, it gives a better feel of the music." The Chick-Fil-A performance was to raise money for orchestra and the new instruments that were needed.

BANDS 'ON BROADWAY' Band students express themselves in a musical way.

BY ALLANNAH BEELER

Hours of hard work and a lot of practice went into the well put together performances from Mooresville High School's concert band. The sound of tubas, trombones, saxophones and clarinets could be heard coming from the band room during seventh period. Members said they really enjoyed being in concert band. To rehearse, they played the exact same songs for weeks.

"That can get kind of boring, even though it pays off in the end," sophomore Andy Waite said. Andy was a two year member of concert band and played the trombone. Any student who was in concert or symphonic band got to go to New York over Spring Break. They also made appearances at ISSMA and Spring Spec.

"I enjoy playing instruments and the music that we play, and I also think Mr. Damron is an awesome teacher," junior Brittany Todd said.

Backstory

"My favorite part of Symphonic band is getting a new piece of music; I just love how the music finally clicks and sounds great," senior and four-year member of Symphonic band Lauren George said.

George was in symphonic band for four years.

"I enjoy playing different types of music from different composers of different times and places," Lauren George said. Symphonic band was a very popular band.

Jazz Ensemble has also had a great year. The Mooresville jazz band began in the early 1960s. Many of the members said they mostly enjoyed it because they got to play different styles of music.

"It can get monotonous from time to time, but it is fun as a smaller group of musicians playing a fun style of music," senior and twoyear jazz band member Teresa Wright said.

Verbalessence

By: Allannah Beeler

Verbalessence was an all girls choir that worked solely after school as an extra-curricular choir.

"We would practice once a week and really just sing," junior Bailey Wellspring said.

Verbalessance members got to wear their own clothes and they just sang contemporary music. Contemporary music was music heared anywhere, it wasn't a certain type. The group performed once, Spring Spectacular.

"You really just have to have a passion for singing, which a lot of people in this choir have," Wellspring said. They were a very hard working choir, they usually sing a capella as well.

"It's a really fun choir, it's after school, but I've definitely enjoyed it." Wellspring said.

It seems like a lot of hard work went in to the choir, and it showed.

Insomniac

Insomniac was a lot like Verbalessance, except it was all male choir. They also had practice after school once a week. To be selected to be a member of one of these choirs, you must have first been a member of Spotlighters, Finesse or Madrigals. They choose people this way because of commitment, skill and effort.

"Insomniac is very enjoyable, it's something different and a way to show off your talent," junior Chris Robinson said.

Members of Insomniac also said that it was fun not only singing, but they got to hang out their your friends too.

Millennium

By: Allannah Beeler

Millennium brought many amazing performances to Mooresville High School. They had the opportunity to perform a lot of events like Wagon Trails Revue and Spring Spectacular.

"I think my favorite part was competing in competitions, I enjoyed choir and look forward to being in Finesse next year," sophomore Jessica Cobb said.

Millennium sang mainly contemporary songs.

"We sang a song called 'Turkey in the Straw;' it was my favorite," Cobb said.

Millennium seemed to pack the auditorium and gyms with its awesome vocals and fun dances. Most of the time, people enjoy Millennium for that reason. They were a very outgoing choir who showed its love for performances every time its members walked on to the stage.

Starting out their busy schedules with halfhour stretches and runs through their whole performances, these girls seem like they hardly get a break.

"Every summer, starting in June, we have practices all week, from really early in the morning to really late at night," sophomore, Nicole Fernandez said.

A lot of the girls have been on guard for a couple years now and the girls seemed to be very close and get along well.

"I have been in guard for three years and I really enjoy the friends I've made, every one of those girls are like a sister to me," Junior Brittany Boner said.

Senior Caleb Barker, and junior Chris Parsons had been best friends for three years. They shared a lot of things in common, like video games, wrestling and football. If you ask Caleb what they share, he would also say we share what should be a contagious work ethic. They even share the same disability CP.

KUN IN THE FAMILY Varsity Football team enjoys brotherly bonds,

with a nearly undefeated season.

On an average fall Fitday night in Macresville, while driving down Indiana Street, one would be able to hear loud cheers filling the night's atr. The sound is Macresville football fans, and at every home game that the Pioneers played there was not one empty seat or spot on the field to watch the 2007 variativ football team. Not only did the fans support the Pioneers at home games, but also at most away games Macresville had more fans than the opposing home team.

Why did all these people come out every Friday night to support the Pioneers? Maybe it was the 62 Mooresville 7 Muncie Central blowout or the huge rival games such as 31 Mooresville 20 Plainfield. Either way the Pioneers had a great season and learned a lot of lessons about football and life.

The boys spent much time together all year; conditioning in the off season, many football camps, two practices a day and live- in camp in summer.

"Football means everything to me. It has created a whole a new family for me," junior Nick Westfall said.

All the time that the boys spent working on their game was time well spent.

"Football means a lot to me. I learned a lot these three years from Coach Mark Bless that I can use later on in life and not just football," sentor Dale Luttrell sate.

The biggest accomplishment for the pioneers was winning the mid-state conference and going 9-0 in the regular season which included the pioneers win over Mooresville's long time foe the Plainfield Quakers. This was one of senior Nick Bradford's most memorable football moments.

"Before the [Plainfield] game I was full of excitement and ready to play, because they ended our undefeated season last year and we wanted some revenge," senior Devin Gray said. Luttrell was also excited for the game.

"We knew it was going to be a tough game but we came in knowing that if we played our style of football we could win," Luttrell said.

That is indeed what happened. The pioneers beat the Quakers. A lot was on the line that night; their undefeated season so far, winning homecoming, and the mid-state champion title.

"[The proudest moment of the team was] our victory over Plainfield, there was a lot of weight on our shoulders. This was our biggest rival game," Coach Mark Bless said. A huge part of the pioneers victorious season were the 20 seniors who were part of the team.

"The seniors exceeded what they had to do to make up for the lost seniors from the year before, they made a bigger impact on the team because most of them were three year varsity players," Bless said.

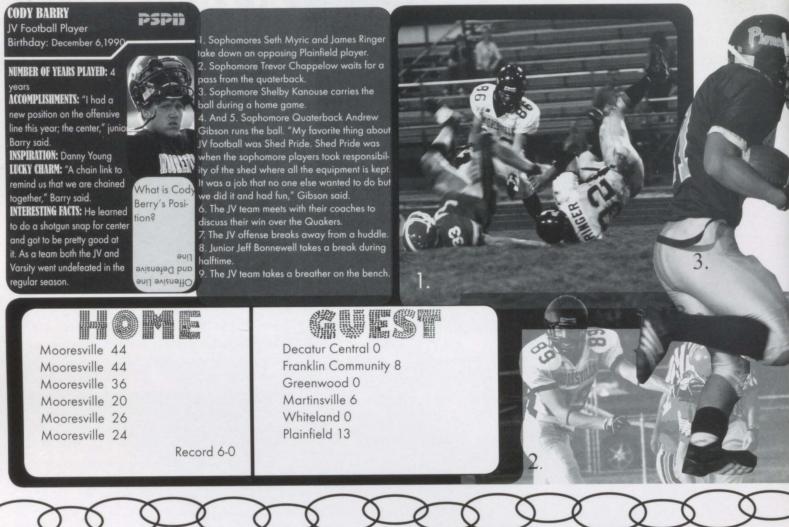

The graduating seniors had words of wisdom to pass down to underclassmen.

"Next year as a team that lacks in varsity experience you will have to make up for it in hard work, dedication, and the will to succeed," said Bradford.

Lutrell told the underclassmen to work hard and treat everything as it was there last. "Seize every moment you get because it goes faster than anything you can imagine. Also keep up the name of Mooresville football," Gray said.

The Pioneers ended the season on a sad note. With the first loss of the season their last game . It was an ending that most would have never seen coming, but the legacy that the 2007-2008 football seniors left on Mooresville football will not be forgotten. KAITLIN CHAPPELOW

UNDERCLASSMEN HAVE WINNING SEASONS

JV FOOTBALL

The JV team had a successful season, going 6-0 in the season, the team was very pleased with its accomplishments.

"I think that the JV team had a great season and that we came together as a team and played great football," sophomore Andrew Gibson said.

For many the team was like a family.

"The boys on the JV football team were like brothers to me," sophomore Trevor Chappelow said.

The boys had a lot of fun during the season and shared many laughs.

"We pretty much dominated every team and Funk Master Flex is the bomb," junior Jeff Bonewell said.

Mooresville football still plays a big part in offence Coach Brian Nay. Nay was a graduate of Mooresville and came back to MHS to help coach.

"[Mooresville football] really hasn't changed at all since I played here," Nay said.

The pioneers hope to continue on in their wins in seasons to come.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

"[This season on the freshman team] was the most fun football experience for me so far," freshman Joey Juliano said.

Coming into MHS football was very different for the boys, included a lot more hard work, than what they had been used to with their past seasons.

"We tried really hard, practices were harder, but our hard work paid off and we had a good winning record. I thought we could have done better if we would have played more as a team," freshman Joey Swisher said.

With the Record of 5-3 the boys were shown that hard work does pay off. -KAITLIN CHAPPELOW

They will remember us!

"Overall we had a pretty good season. We had a couple of injuries hold us back but we still did good," junior goalkeeper and captain Robert Whyte said.

Senior captain Adam Scheckler agrees, "We had a bumpy season with the injuries and red cards but we had a ton of talent with being such a young team."

One of the teams goals was to win conference, since they were torn from that dream the year before, but they could not achieve that dream again.

"Getting conference taken away for the second year in a row really let us down," junior Ryan Skora said.

That conference that was so aggressively take way for the second year in a row was because of a transfer student and a mix up with some papers.

"But we still overcame it all and made it to the sectional championship," Skora said.

Matt Wallace was the new coach on the block, which meant that he was faced with the task of earning respect from the players on his team.

"He was a good coach for his first year," Whyte said.

Skora also agrees with him, "By the end of the season we all trusted him and mostly everyone liked him."

During sectionals the boys faced Monrovia for the first game. They won 7-0. The next game against Martinsville, though, would not be that easy.

"[My most memorable game] was the last game in sectionals because of the fights. Plus I scored a goal," sophomore Nathan Vedder said.

The Martinsville game was one of the Pioneer's biggest rivals.

"Losing [against Martinsville] made us all mad but we will use this as a learning experience. We all want to come back and play twice as hard when we play them again. As a returning starter I am not going to get that close to winning and lose again. They will remember us," Skora said.

Reminiscing, Whyte reminded himself about how he felt his team performed.

"It was a very rough game and it stinks loosing to your rival but we gave it our all. I'm proud of all my teammates and how we played that game," Whyte said.

Looking forward to next year Skora says that the team can be great.

"[Next year] I think we have a good chance of going all the way to semi-state if everyone works hard and shows up at practice ready to give 110 percent, " Skora said.

He added that the rivalries shouldn't affect they way the games are called, but they do.

The Martinsville game was not the only one the boys remember.

"[My most memorable game] was Bloomington North because we almost beat them and they were a ranked t e a m , "

Whyte said.

Another game that remained in the boys minds was Franklin. "[My most memorable game] was the Franklin game because I scored from the bottom of the circle in the middle of the field with two seconds to go in the game," Skora said.

some."

When it comes down to a team everyone has something to bring to the table but there is one person that is known for heading the ball and that is Josh Morning.

"Josh is really good with his head," Whyte said.

In the end the boys had an exciting season together and with three seniors leaving they know that they will miss them, but will win for them. Adam Sheckler, Adam Shaw, and Brady Rice won't be on the field, but they will be on the sidelines cheering their team on.

How far will the boys go next year? Will they beat Martinsville and go to regionals? The world may never know... well until next year.

Learning makes it all worth it.

"It was a good season for having a new coach," sophomore Josh Taylor said.

"The season to me was interesting. We had a very rough preseason," freshman Kyle Baker said.

With an overall record of 1-8-1 people might not think that the boys junior varsity soccer team got much out of the season - they would be incorrect. There was a ton of learning involved.

> "I had to practice more on controlling my game," Taylor said. "Coach Frye [made an impact on me] because he told me what I needed to work on and showed me how to fix it. He's a pretty good guy."

"I had to deal with the fact that I didn't make all the practices," Baker said. "But when I was there Liam Quyle and Conor Brown always helped me if I needed it."

"My most memorable game was Greenwood because I felt that I really did good in that game," Taylor said.

"[Next year] I think we will be OK if we keep up the -HALEY LOECHEL good work," Baker said.

Center Grove: they lost the game but gained their sense of pride.

When you join the Mooresville girls soccer club you also join a full-throttle summer experience.

"Our biggest, most profitable activity is S4 (Super Soccer Sgames Sweek)," girls varsity head coach Mr. Jason Damron said.

During the week, the girls did many team bonding activities including (basically) all day practices. Starting from the beginning of the week the girls were assigned individual teams, named and given a mascot. They competed and earned points as they went. By the end of the week the top three teams were awarded some very "elegant" Dollarstore prizes hand picked by their coaches.

In the evenings the girls usually went to Rascals Fun Zone, had team dinners, or just chilled with an ultra exciting game of Catch Phrase.

"[S4 week] teaches the upperclassmen about leadership, regardless of whether they're on the varsity team or not," Damron said.

Even though all members participated in summer, most of the bonding activities were geared around the varsity team. The "overnight" was one of those times. They talked about their varsity team goals and what they personally wanted to accomplish.

"[My goal] was to make it through sectionals and beat Center Grove, but when we lost I still felt like we did an excellent job by holding them to only three goals," junior Ashley McEvoy said.

Ally Nelson

Varsity Soccer Player

Birthday: December 5 1990

Jordan Whisenand agreed, "We stinking get Center Grove every year and it's always a tough game for us, but we tried."

Everyone had goals throughout the season ... even coaches.

"Each year, my main goal is to be the best coach and role model that I can. My job is to motivate the team to do its best in both soccer and life, in general. I want to set an example of how I think a players attitude should be and I want to teach them everything that I can," Damron said.

Throughout the season the girls went up against many challenging teams but no one as challenging as the last sectionals game against Center Grove.

"I was definitely most proud of our game against Center Grove. It makes me feel great as a coach to see the team play like that against a ranked opponent and lose only three to zero. In fact we had the best score against them until their semi-state game, which makes me feel even more proud of our team," Damron said.

Damron also said that playing Center Grove was good for the team because of how intense the girls played through the entire game. Their offense was not as prevalent as he would have liked it to have been, but he thinks they played great defensively.

Ally Nelson agreed, "Our team played very well against Center Grove. We showed them that it was going to be hard to beat us." As the girls look forward to the upcoming season; the team will not change drastically in numbers but some of the captains will change.

Captains for next year will be senior Haley Loechel (previous '06-'07 captain) and Ally Nelson. Joining them will be juniors Estee Outcolt (previous '06-'07 game captain) and Carla Ronan.

"Last year's captains did a pretty good job. Next years captains look like they'll be some of the best we've had in a long time," Damron said. Will they beat Center Grove next Bechtold. "I appreciate Coach Becktold and Coach Damron so much. They do so much to keep our teams running well. Coach Becktold truly cares about her players," junior Beth Breimeir said.

"[Coach Becktold had an impact on me] because if it wasn't for her I probably would not have played," Thurman said.

Coach Becktold has been coaching for three years now. With so many feelings rushing through the team one feeling was the same... even the players had an impact on each other.

"Hillary Miller was always there for me before, during, and after the game. She kept me mentally focused," Breimeir said.

"Hanging out with my friends was the best part of soccer," junior Cory Stanley said.

As the JV's season went on they had many rough games but still gave it all they could and left with a smile on their faces.

"[My most memorable game] was Ben Davis because I played really well. Hillary Miller and I worked the ball up the field a lot," Breimeir said.

As the 2009 season approaches the JV team has many things to look forward too. Will their be a new coach? How well will they do? And so many more open ended questions.

"I am so proud of my teammates," Breimeir said. " Hopefully we will have more wins next season."

C team coach, Mr. Jeffrey Damron, influences the girls in more ways than one.

"[As my first year coaching I thought we did] very well. My vision for the team was fun plus improvement. When you work hard at something and improve you gain self worth which feels great." C team's caoch Mr. Jeff Damron ("other" Damron) said.

As a first year coach and as the varsity coach Mr. Jason Damron's brother, Mr. Damron coached without pay.For 2008, he said he wants to live in London, but says if he'still in town in '08 he will coach again.

"I think 'other' Damron was a great coach," sophomore Hannah Russell said.

"I could easily say something about each player because they all did an excellent job. Emily Jones improved a ton. Andrea Cornelison did very well inspite her injury. Hannah McCaley pulled some insane moves at the end of our season-Hannah Russell became so aggresive by the end of the saeson she got a foul due to pushing a girl from the back," Damron said.

"I had to over come the fear of getting injured," Russell said. "My teammates [had an impact on me] because they really pushed me to be more aggresive."

"[My most memorable game was] the one game that our team won. we were so excited," Russell continued. "I think if we work hard and try then we will then we will have a pretty good season [next year]."

"I believe God had a purpose in blessing me to coach and I am very thankfull for what I learned," Damron said.

The girl's varsity volleyball team had a tough season in '08. They used it as a learning experience as they built up each other's confidence and enjoyed learning how to work together.

With losing five well experienced seniors the year before, it was hard for the players to adjust. The team struggled to stay on top with the leadership of only four seniors.

"This year we had a really hard season. We didn't win a lot of games, but we had a lot of fun at practice," junior Kelly Schneider said.

Despite the challenges, the girls grew closer as a team and learned better communication on the court. Before every game the girls did cheers to get everyone's spirits up and pumped for the game.

Girls JV and Freshman Volleyball

PSPN

The Mooresville Pioneers JV and Freshman Volleyball girls put up some tough fights against some really competitive teams. "Our biggest accomplishment was working through the player's frustration and playing as a team," Coach Stephanie Burnett said worked extremely hard to make a good season for themselves. Even though the lady pioneers didn't have an undefeated season as hoped for, they held their ground well and fought for many victories.

""I had so much fun laughing and creating memories during this volleyball season. The upperclassmen taught me a lot," sophomore Heather Mason said.

Junior, Caylee Anderson played back row passer on JV this year for your pioneers. Anderson really enjoyed her junior year, but was looking forward to her upcoming senior season. Altogether the JV team only lost nine matches, which was extremely well compared to how many matches they play in a season. Although, the lady Pioneers did extremely well, to Aerial Clark is was more than just that.

"Our biggest accomplishment is our work ethic and practices," Clark said.

The freshman team also didn't let anything past them. Out of their whole season only four teams were able to defeat the freshman Pioneers. All of the girls learned the most important lesson, and that is to work as a team and keep positive attitudes up, to go for a good record. -LORI NICHOLS 8

Inspirational: Run like you mean it

Cross country is a sport in which endurance is a necessity. Runners are generally extremely fit and healthy. However, senior Aaron Mosier had a different story.

Just by looking at Mosier, one would think he was a fit and in-shape runner. But under the surface, he suffered from Multiple Sclerosis.

MS is a chronic, inflammatory, demyelinating disease that affects the central nervous system. MS can cause a variety of symptoms, including changes in sensation (hypoesthesia), muscle weakness, abnormal muscle spasms or difficulty in moving.

"My sophomore year, I was diagnosed with MS, so I couldn't run. By the time the season was over, I could walk better. I swam that winter and tried out for cross country my junior year, " Mosier said.

Aaron's disease didn't stop him from doing what he wanted to do.

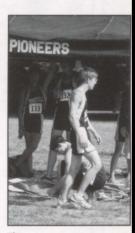

"He's just another runner. His disease didn't hinder him. It's impressive he's running a 5k," sophomore Zach Rothenberger said.

The team usually practiced 12 hours a week and also ran in the summer. Many did a water sport to stay active. Several of the boys also ran together on weekends.

"Only the fit are fearless," Coach Brinton Farrand said.

The boys prepared for meets with warm-ups and stretching. "It was our goal to reach regionals so it was awesome we did," sophomore Aaron Belcher said.

Girls Cross Country Insider

Junior Kailyn Baker runs as she tries to set a school record. "It was a really tiring run," Baker said.

With much speed and energy, the Girls Cross Country team accomplishes many of its goals

The Mooresville Girls Cross Country team was very talented in 2007. The girls showed great perseverance in their season. One member of the team, junior, Kailyn Baker, set the first school record for her time, 20:33. It was her best time by 20 seconds. This was the first admit to having to work year the girls ran 5k's for 3.1 miles. They admit to having to work harder.

" I was very exhausted after I broke my record," junior Kailyn Baker said.

In 2006, the girls ran 4k's. This new distance proved to be a challenge for the girls. The team had meets on Saturdays and practiced 10 or 11 hours a week. Before meets they ran and stretched. Coach Julie Hamlin also gave them pep talks to get them ready to run.

"Were definitely going to miss our seniors next year," Baker said. "I enjoyed cross country whether it was going to meets or going out to breakfast before school with the team," senior Megan Gray said.

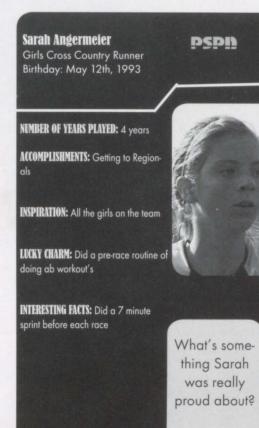

This year was the first time for a lot of the girls to qualify at regionals. Yet they did have to adjust to a new coach this year.

" It was a good group of girls to coach. This will be a season to remember." Coach Hamlin said.

All in all, the team had a really great season and they hope to continue to shine years to come.

Boys Tennis

The scoreboard doesn't always explain everything.

Although the boys tennis team only won a single match in the 2007 season, they learned a lot and gained experience that would help them in the years to come.

The team lost four key players; last year's seniors.

"It was hard because it was a young team, but next year seems like it's going to be a big year for us," junior Royce Redmond, captain of the varsity boys team said.

The #2 varsity doubles team, consisting of sophomore Zac Childers and freshman Davis Gray, had a good season.

"Our teamwork improved, along with our communication skills," Childers said.

The team put a lot of effort into training for the season, not only during season, but off-season as well. They worked out as a team and did a lot of running drills. Some players took group lessons and privates off-season as well, which really improved their game.

In order to be a successful team, players must have dedication, a quality that the Pioneers possess. -SHELBY WOODY

"This was my first year and I learned a lot, it was really fun. I thought it was kind of cool having my sister on the team with me, because I had someone to ask questions to, if our coach wasn't there," freshman Lindsey Bantley said.

As the season went on the girls improvements became more noticeable then ever before. Senior Sophie Davis has been golfing her whole high school career, and since the beginning she has been able to lower her average score by eight strokes. This year, the only way the girls could go, was up. With five freshman improvement was a definite.

Varsity/Competition Squads Hard work and dedication leads to success

"This year we're better, we're back with more."

This was a true statement for the Varsity cheerleading /competition squad. During the season there were many obstacles that had to be overcome for a successful summer. It took everyone's hard work and dedication, but in the end it was well worth it.

"At the beginning of the summer people started quitting and others were replacing them. We practiced early in the morning for hours and then when competitions became closer, we had 'two-a-days'. They were hard but paid off in the end," sophomore Macie Dannenbrink said.

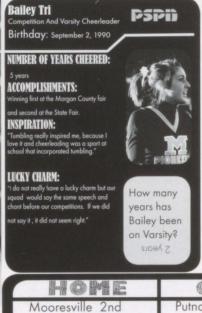

Everything paid off in the competitions. The squad ended up winning at the Morgan County Fair. To wrap up the season, they placed second at the State Fair.

The fall cheerleaders put on their smiles and kept the crowd energized. With the winning season for the football team, it helped the cheerleaders stay pumped.

"All of us had a lot of fun going to the big games like Plainfield and Decatur. We enjoyed keeping the crowd pumped for the game," junior Emily Wyatt said.

With spirit and pride the squad cheered until the season came to an end for two of their seniors.

"Cheerleading as a senior was totally different from any other year. As seniors we were the most experienced on the squad, and all of the underclassmen looked up to us for leadership. As a senior I felt less pressure to cheer perfectly, which made it more fun. Knowing that it was my last year also made me cheer harder and give my best effort. I will definitely be able to look back and say that cheerleading was one of my favorite high school experiences," senior Kayla Ballard said. -SAMI FRYE

JV/Freshmen Cheerleading

Cheerleading wasn't just about yelling "GO BIG BLUE". During the season the JV squad did their best to pump up the football team and to get the crowd cheering along with them. There were three freshmen on the squad.

"We had a great season. We had three freshmen, who were awesome and everyone got along. We had a lot of fun. It helped that the football team did well also," junior Lesley Yegerlehner said.

The winter cheerleaders helped to keep the spirit in the gym during basketball games. The crowd wasn't as involved during basketball as much as football. This made the girls cheer harder to keep up the pride.

"It was a lot of fun getting more involved with in everything. It was a real honor being on the JV team as a freshman," freshman Abby Howden said.

The freshmen squad had a great season cheering. While smiling all the time they kept the spirit up. The winter squad changed from football season because they lost two girls that were moved up to JV.

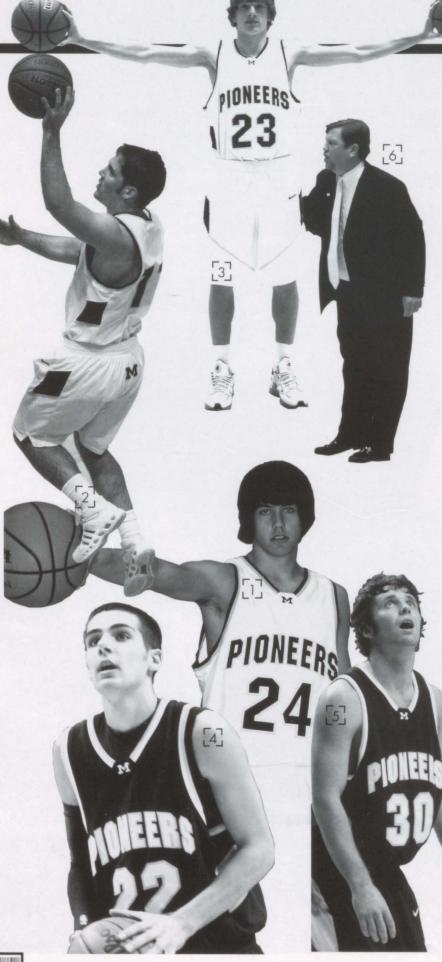

With the pressure of being in a new school the girls adjusted well to the difference from middle school to high school.

"It was really fun during basketball games because we all had a great time and got along really well with each other," freshman Alicia Spivey said. -SAMI FRYE

THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE STARTING FIVE AND THE HEAD COACH

L<sup>1</sup>LEVERY SECOND COUNTS. Junior Brayton Caudill (number 24), a three year varsity member, made a very impressive shot against New Palestine. During the whole game the team was down until the last second when Caudill got the ball and hit the buzzer- winning shot allowing the Pioneers to win 60-58.

THE JUMP

L<sup>2</sup>JMVP. Senior Trent Mossbrucker achieved many things during his last year at MHS on the field and on the court. He achieved an amazing accomplishment by scoring over 1000 points during the '07-'08 season. Being just the sixth person in MHS history to achieve this.

"It took a lot of hard work, coming in the mornings and shooting and around and the support of Coach Carter," Mossbrucker said.

[3] SLAM DUNK. Imagine standing on the basketball court guarding an opponent when he seems to just fly over you. Junior Matt Kenny dunked 7 times through out the season.

"I felt like I had to finish it strong and dunking meant I had a for sure basket," Kenny said.

"Even though we didn't go as far as we wanted to in sectionals we had an overall good season."

4. SEIZE THE MOMENT. The biggest thing that basketball taught senior Ryan Ruble was "Don't take a day off of anything you love to do because there will come a day where you can't do it anymore."

"The most memorable thing of my senior season was how well we worked as a team," Viles said. "My biggest accomplishment was becoming a leader on the court."

6 THE BIG 20. A lot of things change in 29 years and varsity basketball Coach Carter had seen first hand these changes. As a Pioneer basketball player in 1979.

"The biggest change is the athletes themselves. The focus on athleticism has overshadowed the skills involved in basketball," Carter said.

Band member Adam Hakes held this sign that reads "Manifest Destiny." At most of the Pioneer's games it came to be a source of good luck.

"When I watch college basketball on TV I notice how fans have signs, and I thought what if the pep band had signs? In AP History we were talking about the early day pioneers and manifest destiny which was that it was Americans destiny to conquer America and I thought it would make a good slogan for the Mooresville Pioneers," Hakes said. MANIFEST DESTINY: The Pioneer's destiny to defeat any opponent they foce most about next season is playing with Matt Kenney," Caudill said.

SHINE ON A BIG STAGE

"Basketball is a team sport," Junior Marty Broderick said. This was something that was a key part of the Pioneers game plan. Having won 14 games the most games won since the 1998 season, Pioneers had a large success. Assistant Coach Jesse Burgess was a pioneer 10 years ago.

"Basketball at Mooresville high school stayed the same in that hard work and dedication must be present in order to obtain the skill necessary to play," Burgess said.

The pioneers had several opportunities to shine on a big stage playing at Conseco Fieldhouse and being Channel 40 game of the week.

"Teamwork is EVERYTHING," junior Jordan Surenkamp said. I can't wait till next year were going to have a team full of varsity experience." -KAITLIN CHAPPELOW

JV BASKETBALL INSIDER

Local Knowledge

The JV Boys Basketball team was put to the test.

The Boys JV Basketball team had many close games. They beat many teams by very little points in the nick of time.

The team consisted of seven sophomores, one junior and one freshman. The season was a time for growth and change on the team. The JV team lost many of its players to the varsity squad.

"It was a rocky start but in the end we started doing better and gaining more confidence, " sophomore Kellen Mowery said.

They had a 5-12 record for the season, yet the boys had fun.

"For the most part, the season went OK, but I had a lot of fun on the bus because Shawn Downey would tell us really funny stories," sophomore Lucas Malicote said.

Austin Viles was the only freshman on the JV team.

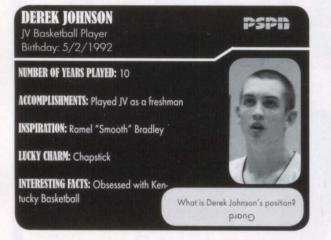

"The competition was a lot better, and it was cool being able to go to practice with my brother Adam (who is a senior)," Viles said.

All in all, the boys worked extremely hard and accomplished a lot throughout the season. They all could remember the season in hopes of continuing to play basketball throughout the years.

Setting Your Sights FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

We tended to focus primarily on actions. But when we did, athletes said we miss out on half the fun.

Freshman year was a big transition for many athletes, the boys said it's more intense when reaching high school. High school seems to be intimidating for the students and there is more pressure to be good and to excel.

"Coming in from middle school, basketball was definitely more competitive. We played tougher teams and had to work hard," freshman Steven Laswrence said.

Garrett Wilkerson, a 6'7" freshman, agreed that it was a different experience as well.

"My favorite memory of the season was being able to play for the JV and freshman teams. We could have done better throughout the season, but I think we did well," Wilkerson said.

The boys faced tougher teams in the 2008 season as well.

"The most difficult team we played this year was Bloomington North. They had better players," freshman Devon Woods said.

All of the boys agree that the season went OK, but they hope to succeed throughout their high school careers.

"My most memorable game was when we played Decatur, because they were probably our biggest rivals and it's always good to win against them," sophomore Sierra Chabra said.

Sophomore Meagan Callaway agreed and stated that the Decatur game is always a high energy game, but to sophomore Bailey Wellspring it was the Martinsville game that was the most exciting.

Junior Rhonda Pryor shows sophomore Chris Walker how to do a wrestling move correctly at practice. "The boys accepted the fact that I was a girl wrestler." Pryor said.

Varsity Wrestling team did very well last season

The Varsity wrestling team did very well last season. The team finished third at Sectionals and also finished second at Mid-State Conference.

The team did not advance to Regionals, but 10 wrestlers advanced to the individual regional. The Pioneers advanced two individuals to Semi-State at Evansville.

Alfred Warren remained undefeated by winning the Regional Tournament and advancing to Semi-State. Also advancing was Todd Hacker. Todd finished third and his record at the end of the season was 31-3.

"The season went well, the more experience they have the better they will become," Coach Zach Errett said.

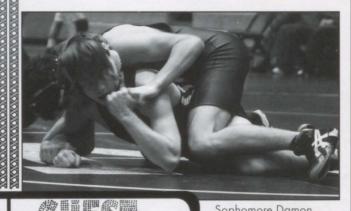

Only 2 percent of high school wrestlers are girls. Junior Rhonda Pryor is a contribution to that 2 percent.

"During the season, I had to wait for all the guys to weigh in and I didn't have my own locker room when we visited other schools. I had to change in the bathroom," Pryor said.

Rhonda Pryor was the only other girl in her sectional and regional. The other teammates didn't discriminate because she was a girl.

"The other boys I wrestled would get upset if I didn't lose right away, it was funny," Pryor said.

JV & Freshman Wrestling

Ready for Action

Because the freshman team was small, many freshman simply moved up and became members of the JV team.

Jake Gabbard, a sophomore, and member of the JV team started wrestling his freshman year.

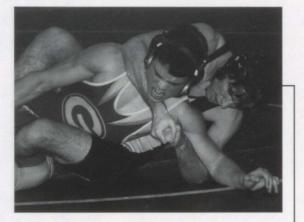

" I actually had a lot of fun on the team; I'm just not sure if I'll continue next year, because it was so time consuming," Gabbard said.

Wrestling was quite time consuming. One would have to get up early on the weekends, spend his or her whole day at the meet, practice throughout the week, and help clean up after all the home meets.

"We usually practiced five times a week for about threeto-five hours per practice," junior Logan Oakley said.

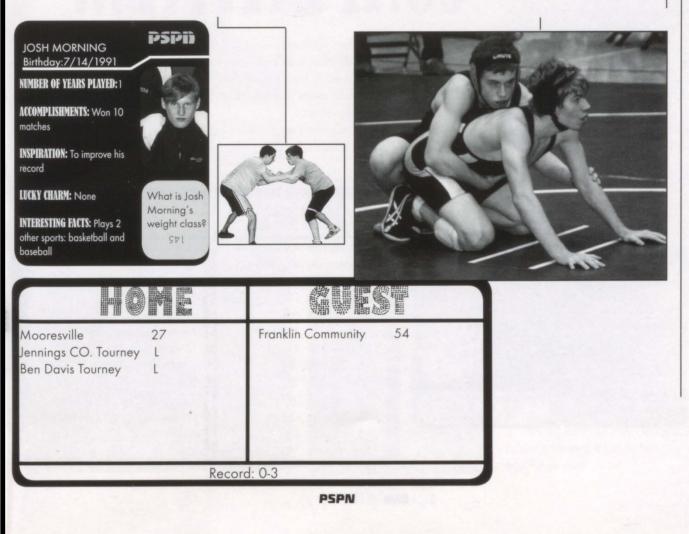

The freshman team wrestled at a tournament in Jennings County. The JV team sometimes joined the varsity at its home matches but sometimes they had their own matches with completely different schools.

The team wanted continually grow and get involved with the wrestling legacy. - ELYSE MCINTOSH

Junior Brian Julian takes on an opponent from Greensburg during their conference match. "The season was very long and hard and filled with hunger. But JV is so much fun," Julian said.

Junior Alex Thompson gets ready to face his opponent at Franklin Community.

"We have some big 'fins' to fill with the loss of our seniors," Coach Dennis Davis said.

The boys MHS swim team, stepped up to new challenges during the 07-08 swim season, with two advantages of the foreign exchange students.

"The team was really on it this year. It was probably the best year ever," senior Logan Rollin said.

The MHS varstiy boys set high standards for the upcoming years, in the pool. With four needed seniors leaving them, the reality would kick in the upcoming season. As a strong team in the '07-'08 season, there were still a few obstacles to overcome with some of the new upcoming swimmers.

"I feel like I achieved my goals. Well my number one goal was not to drown and I got that, apparently. I wanted to be a good breast-stroker and 200 free swimmer; I think I did both of those, but there is always room for improvement," sophomore Zach Rothenberger said.

The boys were hard working, but they couldn't do that without the support and being pushed by the new coaches who could give a different aspect on the competitive sport. All the boys were always there for each other, and very supportive. They made everyone feel like part of the team, as every good sport should.

"I feel that I had more fun than I did last year because we aimed to have fun and we did that, we achieved more," sophomore Matt Hendrickson said.

"I AM SO FAST, FAST, FURIOUS, AND COMPETITIVE..."

Every year, in every sport, memories were created within the athletes and the team itself. This was just another team, with an unforgettable season. With two foreign exchange students on the team, the amount of talent and heart put into the sport was doubled. On the MHS swim team, you would learn the meaning of team, and the respect they had for one another.

"The team grew closer together, we participated as a team and as a fellowship during travels," Rollin said. - LORI NICHOLS

Grayson Swaim

A senior for the MHS swim team, has created memorable moments during the swim season. The memory was when the team pushed coach Davis in the pool.

"I felt that Coach Davis deserved to be pushed into the pool after working us so hard in practice. He is a good coach and I wish him luck on the upcoming swim season," Swaim said.

"I think we have grown closer together, we were just close together and cheered each other on and got each other ready for our races," sophomore Zach Rothenberger said.

1. The MHS swim team pushed the coaches in the water.

 Grayson Swaim slides through the water.
 Sophomore Jeff Callahan, strokes his way to the finish on his back.
 The swim team did cheers before the meets to get pumped up and get everyone excited for the meet.

"I feel that the team grew closer together, because we were only a few people on the team and we lost and wan together," senior Felix Baum said

"I am going to remember most, our practices and just the time we spent together as a team," Martynov said.

Felix Baum

An exchange student from Germany, had the experience to see how the MHS swim team interacts.

"I feel that being on the team, we grew closer together, because we were only a few people on the team and we lost and won together," Baum said.

Baum had great accomplishments with swimming with the Pioneers. Records were broke, with the advantage of having a talented swimmer as himself, swimming for MHS.

"We broke alot of relay records and we taught Zach how to swim and that was a goal itself." Mendrickson said

Yuriy Martynov

The MHS swim team had the privilege to have an exchange student from Ukraine, help the swim team to victories. Martynov learned a lot from the team, not just physically but mentally too.

"I changed a lot. I started to understand that I need to work harder, if I want to achieve the goals in my life," Martynov said.

The Lady Pioneer Swimmers Chelsea Bain Kristen Blank Kaity Chappelow Andrea Cornelison Jessica Jackson Emily Jones Hillary Miller Lori Nichols Hannah Seyerle Victoria Shaeffer

"We had five records broken this year, and when records are broken it is a 'team' accomplishment as, working hard in the lane encouraging one another, and having a positive attitude in and out of the pool," Coach Dennis Davis said.

Coach Davis

An amazing coach, hard worker, and to say the least an all around good guy. Those are just a few ways to describe the girls varsity swim coach. The unthinkable happened at the South Putnam meet.

The girls made a bet with the coaches, that if they won, they would have the privilege to push the coaches in. The girls won!

"There are several individual moments that stick out in my head, but the best team moment was getting thrown in after a victory," Varsity Swim Coach Dennis Davis said.

This victory couldn't have occurred without the sportsmanship and the hard working ethics from every girl on the swim team.

"My inspiration for swimming this year was my community swim coach. I didn't know if I still wanted to swim and he told me to keep my chin up and work through it," sophamore Kristen Blank said.

PIONEER GIRLS MAKE A SPLASH!

As the girls started practicing, the intensity rose, not only just in swimming but in their whole attitude together. The Lady Pioneers started to understand what it really took to be true athletes.

"This year our team had more fun than ever! There were many instances, when we would start a set and I would just start cracking up under water because of something that had just happened," junior Kaity Chappelow said.

Together as a team, the girls learned how to bond and have fun while working hard. Many memories were created during the '07-'08 swim season, along with a lot of achievements. The girls also had two freshman divers, which helped the scores out tremendously.

"I improved a lot since last year, with both my dives and confidence. It was a great first season as a high-schooler," freshman Maggie Page said.

For making much improvement, as such a young team, the lady pioneers will be making great advancements, in the upcoming years. With no seniors on the team, juniors Lori Nichols and Kaity Chappelow helped lead the team to many victories, and accomplished many goals.

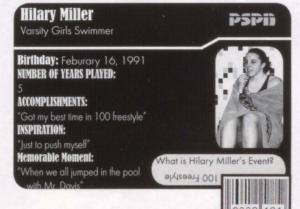

"We tried our very best at every meet, in every race and encouraged each other," junior Hilary Miller said.

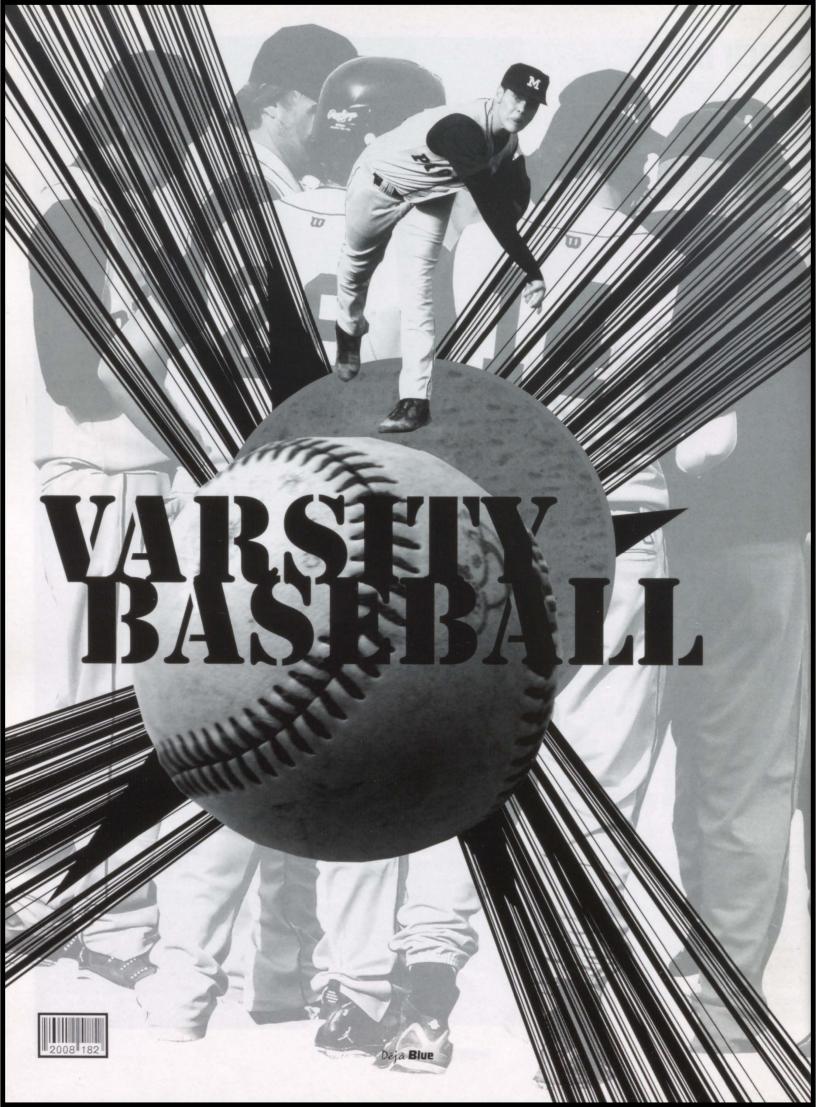

"Fun" took a whole new definition for the girls during the season. The team grew closer and built each other up, and cheered each other on in every way possible. Team spirit is just another way to describe the MHS girls varsity swim team.

- LORI NICHOLS

"It's not just talent that can make you an athlete, but it's how much heart and love you have for the sport, and the effort you put in it," junior Lori Nichols said.

What do you do to be an accurate batter?

Devin Bryant: I do a lot of tee work and batting practice to be accurate. Plus, when I step up to bat I look at the coach on what to do and then I do the best that I can.

Riley Howden: I hit a lot before games. I also take it seriously when others might be messing around. Also, before I hit, I kick lose dirt on the base, tap the bat three times, pull up my pants, and then I'm ready.

Nick Davis: To be accurate I do work on the tee and really Tisten to the coaches advice. I warm up by swinging on deck

Andy Swisher: I swing short and look to put it into play. I also pay attention to what pitch they are going to throw. When I get up to bat I walk across the batting box then take one swing,

"I have learned many things this year. My coaches have taught me to never give up and always have faith in my teammates," junior Marcus Merrick said.

Through out the tremendous baseball season many people inspired players to become the best they could be.

"My dad inspired me to get better and be positive each and every day," senior Cameron Riccardi said. "[I also had to learn] not to let the line up card effect my mood or swagger."

Team bonding played a huge role during the season according to Merrick. "We worked extremely well together, it seemed like we were together all the time so we all got along really well."

Senior Nick Davis agreed with that statement, saying that with their "team chemistry, we wanted to work harder and strive for bigger things for each other."

The coaches were also a huge part of the team.

"I had been in a slump pitching at the beginning of the season but with a little pitching help I got back into the grove and started dealing. Coach McGaha helped me get conditioned and ready for all the starts and situations that I may be in," Davis said.

Overall, the Dirt Bags conquered as much as they could with there hard work and dedication.

'Coach McGaha always said 'grind it out and pick up your team mates'. I think that's a big reason why we have been so successful," Merrick said.

JUNIOR VARSTLY- Team bonding mays a key role in every team out there, no matter what the game. As a IV baseball team member, Nick LeBlanc said he learned that "sticking together as a team" is the key to success.

That key came in handy, according to LeBlanc, when the team encountered Avon. "Our team played good together, that was one of our best games we played, even though we lost," LeBlanc said.

As freshman Joey Swisher reminisced on the season, he remembered the challenge against Whiteland. "I was pitching that game [and I remember it to be] hard because it was raining, but we still won 10-4," Swisher said.

Teamwork was always crucial and the JV team conquered that but as they look towards the next season, Swisher states that he wished "more fans would come to the games."

Team bonding; a task that was in the plans for many Pioneer sports teams during the 07-08 year, was accomplished by the boys track team.

'[The biggest thing the team accomplished] was a real team unity. In a sport that relies so heavily on individual achievement, we have found the desire to help each of our teammates succeed," Coach Clint Swalls said.

Mooresville competed against schools of all sizes throughout the year. In a sport that is competed as individuals it was difficult to fill all the positions.

"We have a young team, but some individual events are good. It's hard to fill all the spots and do well with such a small school," senior Brad Ashburn said. Forming a team was difficult, meshing the personalties of many individuals can be a difficult task, especially when a lot of the boys on the team had already shared the hardships as well as victories when they were members of the cross country team earlier in the season

All Eyes On A Big Target "Be good sports and play your best tennis for Mooresville High School." As the girls' tennis team took their spots on the courts, whether the match was home or away, Coach Mike Teders always started out their routine with that statement.

"Even when someone lost, our team was so positive that it made you feel okay, even though you lost. It just made you try that much harder. We were very positive and helped each other out in areas where others may have more experience," sophomore Michelle Rainbolt said.

The lady Pioneers had a challenge before them as they entered the season, but it was one they were willing to overcome. Losing four seniors the year before, the Pioneers were a young team.

"We had a better season than predicted," senior co-captain Kourtney McLouth said.

The girls placed third at the Shelbyville Invitational in which junior Shelby Woody won the championship for #2 singles. The team also placed fifth at mid state.

"Our biggest challenge has been getting over ourselves. Often times we are our own worst enemy. Once we get down on ourselves, we have a hard time picking back up," Coach Kori Swalls.

The team most certainly overcame the inexperience and bonded very well with each other.

"The girls have taught me a lot about not taking things too seriously. We laugh a lot and have a lot of fun," Swalls said. -KAITLIN CHAPPELOW_____

Tee, putt, par. Those are three words commonly associated with the game of golf. Golf is a sport in which a player, using many types of clubs, hits a ball into a hole on a course trying to get the lowest possible number of strokes.

Golf courses are all shaped and set up differently, which the team had to get used to, but they all adjusted well.

"The season went really well, we could have used a little more teamwork, but we still did good. My lowest score was a 43 so that was pretty cool," junior Jaron Ruble said.

The team practiced about five times a week at their home course the Heartland Crossing Golf Course. Though the season seemed tough, the boys worked extremely hard.

"I think we were the best team in Indiana. The season was so much fun and Kevin and Grayson helped lead the team," sophomore David Egler said.

All in all, the boys were worked very diligently.

"Slowly but surely we improved," junior Nathan Bingham said.

Hard Work Pays Off

The Varsity softball team went into the season very competitive. The girls came to every game ready to play whoever they were facing on the schedule for that evening. The lady pioneers started off the season very well. "We had a very successful season, we came together very well as a team. This years team performed well because the team was very experienced. It consisted of mostly upperclassmen," senior Kayla Robinson said.

Through the tough, to the easier games, the pioneers ended the season with a winning record of (15-8). This took teamwork and dedication but, together they did it. One of the toughest and closest games was against Whiteland. The girls finished the fifteenth inning, coming home with a victory, winning 5-3.

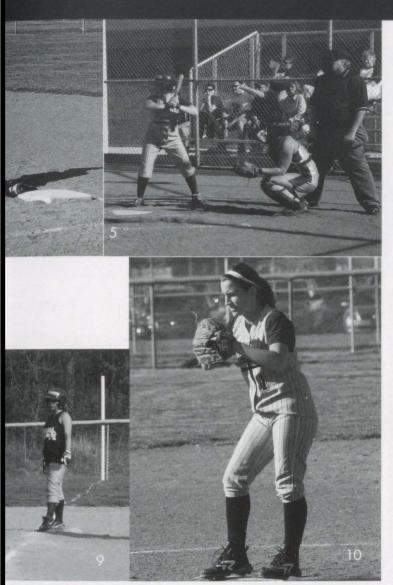

"I am proud of how the girls overcame a difficult season. There were a lot of valuable lessons as athletes and people that were learned. One of the biggest accomplishments was that the girls run ruled four teams this season," Coach Monaghan said.

HERE WE GO! Clayton Smith. Senior. Wrestler. Track Thrower.

Student body president. We've all heard of him, but what did he do for our school?

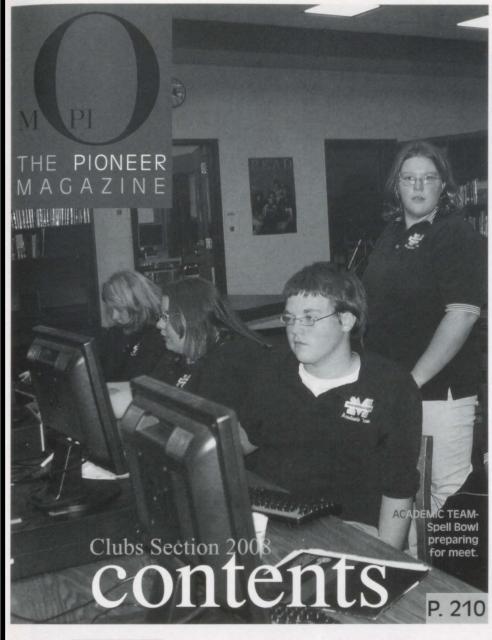

"As student body president I'm in charge of the [student council] meetings we have every Friday. I, basically, just be a leader and help where I can," Smith said.

Smith was not just "in charge of the meetings." He helped organize food drives and activities for Riley Hospital, and he and Spencer Roloff, vice president, spent a lot of time trying to think of fun and exciting ways to make money for Riley and help people out.

out. Smith had no lack of experience when it came to helping people out. He had been a three-time class president and became the first District-9 representative for the Indiana Association of Student Councils from Mooresville. He had attended three state conventions and one national convention. Through these experiences he gained many necessary leadership skills.

"[For future students] hopefully, we can keep up [with current activities] and expand the activities we already do [in student council]; and, keep representing Mooresvile in a good way," hith said.

Words of wisdom? "Just be yourself and don't worry about things. 'Hakunamattata'."

The Quake

Q-Crew was a seismology club. It was new to Mooresville, and had about 15 students in it. Earth and space science and geography teacher Mr. Jim Lindsey was the head of this crew.

"IU decided to loan Mooresville schools the seismometer for this school year, which was actually located in the basement of the school," Mr. Lindsey said.

Q-crew attempted to get a grant to be able to afford its very own seismometer for the school. They also wanted to be able to set it up to where they could have a computer system set up in one of the classes by the library. This would allow any student to view it. "We hope to have this system soon," Mr. Lindsey said. The kids of Q-crew seemed to really like being a part of the crew. President of the crew was junior Braden Pitts.

"It's really interesting to me, and it's something different for a school club and if you like science at all, you'll enjoy this club," Pitts said.

So the main question was, did they detected any movement? Well the answer to that was yes.

"Actually, we got some movement from a quake on the other side of the world," Mr. Lindsey said.

Jenny Egler, junior SADD officer, shares the importance of SADD.

What is the significance of SADD for our school?

SADD teaches teenagers why it is important to not do drugs. almost like PUSH. The difference is, that PUSH teaches elementary students and we teach our peers. We need to look up to each other. SADD not only teaches to not use drugs but also teaches about harmful decisions, such as, suicide and teen, pregnancy. It is important to educate about these issues."

Trailblazers was a fairly new club added only one year ago, so not many students were aware of the club. The members worked on making Trailblazers a yearround club, so they are able to do more activities with better weather.

"I want to try to help the kids experience and realize the world outside of Mooresville. I missed out on the opportunity as a child and a student, so I try to give that option to my students," club leader and teacher Mr. Jim Lindsey said.

Trailblazers was a club for students to grow around nature and experience the things they could do outdoors. It was about tying the academic world to the real world. Unfortunately, the club did not perform in many events this past year. Due to the weather, a great schedule has been set for the '08 summer and the school year to follow. The trip that was planned for the 08'-09' spring break was postponed to the spring break of the 09'-10' school year. The reason being for the decision was to inform more students so they have the opportunity as well.

The trip that was planned was to visit Hawaii, New Zealand, and Australia for 18 days.

"I would like to see more unity and more meetings to set more events, in case of canceling things," junior Nick Perry said.

"I think the best thing about being in a club like Trailblazers is the fun we get to have," sophomore Anastacia Jensen said.

For one of FFA's activities, Mr. Tim VanWanzeele to Kiss the Pig. "This was one of my most shining moments at MHS. They didn't teach this in administration school," Mr. Van said.

Just Farmin' Around

Although FFA used to stand for Future Farmers of America, to the students and members it meant how to get out and know how important our economy is to us, and letting our surrounding neighbors aware of what they learned.

"FFA is very important, it gives the students leadership and speaking skills, not only that, but they get to interact with older and younger people. It is beneficial to them when they get good responses back," sponsor Mrs. Tonya Weiss said.

FFA went to plenty of contests over the year, winning four, landed them first place at district. Some people didn't realize exactly what they did at contest, but they have multiple types.

"We did a lot of soil, meat, and forestry judging," junior Anna Dugger said.

Many of the members, like junior Lauren Lee, feel as if the club helps them try and experience new things.

"Being in FFA for my entire high school experience, it has been really fun to learn new things and going to the events," senior Sarah Ball said.

RM: What is the preparation you take for your academic meets?

LR: We have at least one practice a week to study. We also have a chili supper once a year (Mr. Damron makes us chili and we study). We download the music of the time period we're studying and listen to it all the time. It's a lot of work. AS: We study the material, do practice questions and hope we are ready!

SM: I have practices once a week (two times a week before a meet) and we go over practices questions.

DR: Normally once a week the academic teams have a meeting with each of their members on their own respective teams and practice and study their subjects.

Shover, Davin Rose, PJ Arant, Adam Hakes and Joe Malm.

"[My best memory was] when we won our first

JJ: A lot of studying and practice of questioning and quizzing. AA: [I look over] all of my notes and the likes to review for the meet.

RM: What has been your best memory from being on an academic team?

LR: I love being with my friends and when we do well it's so exciting. You feel so smart to get hard questions right if other schools miss them.

AS: When Amber lost her quarter.

SM: Rhiannon Gregory, Scott Brown and I got yelled at by a janitor for playing "secret agents" in the hallways of Whiteland last vear (2007).

DR: The science team got ninth out of eight qualifying teams that got to go to state, which is really exciting. I believe next year with a little work we can make it to state.

JJ: When we won our first meet of the season.

AA: At our first meet we placed in every category!

RM: How has the information you learned from academic team been applied in school or other areas of your life?

LR: Now when I hear many famous compositions, I can identify many of them and I know all about them; the same with art and people of the times. It helps me understand more about history and it's kind of cool.

AS: The commitment it takes has helped me be more responsible.

SM: The information hasn't helped me, but my preparation for the meets has.

DR: It allows you to get an even better grasp on whatever subjects you already enjoy making it really easy to learn much more and have a great time doing so.

JJ: It has helped me learn to retain and regain info for future use in that subject.

AA: Well, in history I can help because I know a little more and comprehend a little better that the others do, because I've been studying it.

RM: What actually goes on at an academic meet?

LR: Each team competes at separate times, and then at the end we have an interdisciplinary round

NAMES LR: Laura Randall, senior, Fine Arts AS: Aimee Smith, senior, Captain of History, English and Interdisciplinary SM: Stephanie Moore, junior, History and English DR: Davin Rose, junior, Science JJ: James Jacobs, junior, Math AA: Amy Anderson, freshman, Fine Arts and English

(a few members from each team work together to answer questions from all different subjects) and the rest of the time that we aren't competing we usually go for a walk, do homework or try to answer other teams questions.

AS: Basically what happens is a bunch of schools get together and answer questions based on six categories: history, English, fine arts, math, science and interdisciplinary.

SM: There's lots of debating on the right answers. The people at the table and others are always looking at the score charts to see what place they are in.

DR: Teamwork is one of the most important things you will see at an academic meet.

RM: What was your favorite question you answered at the meets?

LR: Where is Fort Sumter located? This was our practice question every meet, for every round. We always made fun of them.

AS: Don't have one.

SM: What is the name of the female slave who runs away with her child in Uncle Tom's Cabin?

DR: One question they asked we thought the answer was obvious, but after the duration of the question I was able to point out a common flaw in the wording of the problem and I convinced our group to change the answer and we got the question right.

JJ: I don't have one.

AA: I can't remember, but there were a few funny ones.

Key Club Helping the community

Key club was really just about helping out as a group in the community. "We've done activities like helping out at the Halloween hike, selling cookies, and the group also went to Riley Hospital and made dinner for everyone. It's also good for a college application," junior Samantha Frve said.

Key Club was a fun club for students to join and it helped them get more involved in their community by helping others.

Student Ambassadors It's all about the kids

The NCAA Student Ambassador Leadership Program was offered to help teach students about respect, caring, responsibility, and of course leadership.

"It is a group designed to mentor younger students about good character and also about being good role models to help encourage kids to stay in school and to make good decisions," club leader and assistant principal Mrs. Tricia Ferguson said.

This club was about high schools partnering up with 8 to 13 year-olds to benefit all the young people. The ambassadors were high school student athletes who were chosen by their school for their excellence, leadership, and their services on and off the field. Some of the activities they participated in were sharing stories on what they each thought respect was and how it could be portraved.

They also did what they called "icebreakers" which were group activities they did to get to know each other a little better.

"We learned from other student athletes about the importance of leadership; it was cool because we had played against these other teammates before, but then we worked together at being leaders and being mentors to young kids," junior Mackenzie Wiser said.

TSLA By: Allannah Beeler Being leaders and help ing others be leaders.

TSLA (Teen Student Leadership Acadamy) helped students help others and also help themselves. This was the kind of club that teaches about leadership and getting more involved. Junior Tony Wilhelm joined TSLA this year and seemed to really enjoy it.

"Every retreat leaves me feeling like a totally different person."

TSLA members said it was really about finding yourself and the strengths you have and also helping others.

What else is there to TSLA? Other than learning about leadership and helping others, TSLA was also about finding yourself and strengths that you didn't know In doing so, they did activities such as rock climbing, tight-rope about. walking, bungee jumping, making their own paths in the woods to get out, and lots of other fun Students that were in TSLA said games and activities. that it was a very fun club, and they loved feeling like they've helped themselves as well as others.

What has been the most fun or most memorable moment for you?

"When Bill Cordes threw the hard times at us," sophmore Shelby Hadley said.

"That's hard to say, because it's all awesome, but I would have to say bungee jumping," junior Tony Wilhelm said.

"When we all got to break a board that had our life goals on it," sophomore Macie Depew said.

Throughout the 2007-2008 year, senior Heather Warthen organized a golf tournament to raise money for Habitat for Humanity. On April 26, 2008 at Eagle Pines Golf course, she had raised more than $9,000. That was the biggest volunteer fund raiser that had ever to have taken place in National Honor Society.

"Heather spent her whole year planning this fund raiser for Habitat for Humanity, and she organized this event mostly by herself; her family and friends did help also," NHS sponsor Ms. Joyce Gilly said.

The donations went to Habitat for Humanity for Morgan County. Over the past months Heather > had been visiting and calling area businesses to get sponsors in town and surrounding areas. She also did various news spots to get information out about the tournament.

"I decided to make this fund raiser a golf tournament because I love golf. Next year, I'm attending Tri-State to major in golf management, and I also I work at Eagle Pines, so I knew I'd be able to facilitate the event," Warthen said.

Red, White and Blue Junior State of America enjoys success in inaugural year

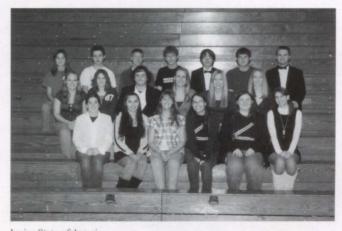

By Brittany Johnson

2007-2008 was the first year for JSA being a club. It was mostly a club about politics, but they also liked hanging out and debating each other. They were a very opinionated club.

The club debated many issues like the candidates that ran for 2008 presidential election, policies in the Untied States that they would change and what they would kept the same, the economy, and the environment.

"What I enjoy about JSA is simply debating current issues and listening to others's points of view. It is very interesting listening to other people's points of view," junior Megan Cowper said.

Under the sponsorship of Ms. Joyce Gilly and with the leadership of Teresa Wright, JSA members were very active in their first year. One of the groups most successful projects was its voter registration drive, which is on of the reasons why JSA was named the prestigious honor of "Chapter of the Year" at the JSA spring convention in Chicago, Illinois.

Makayla as your high school journey comes to an end, the hopes and dreams of a new journey begins.

> Congratulations on all of your accomplishments! You are truly a blessing and we love you very much. Good luck sis! Love. Mom, Dad, and Mariah

Christopher Jones

As your child grows, your expectations are high for them. Chris your achievements are much more than we could hope for! We could not ask for a finer son. Congratulations, and good luck in all you try to do in life. You make us very proud! Mom and Dad

Teresa Wright

God has blessed us with an amazing daughter who has given us so much love, joy, and pride. The cute little girl with the intelligent smile has become a beautiful woman both inside and out. We couldn't be prouder to be your Mom and Dad.

April 6, 1091 September 13, 2007 This pain of the past I hold seven tissues above my heart reminds me of a friend I once had taught my wrong doings and questions my worthiness of the proud soldier who fought the battle of life "Surrender to win" is what haunts my dreams and to never forget This scar is deep but raised above the layers a name printed in bold ink is all physically I have left May he rise above all even in the end his ashes scattered

So now do you get what the magazines had to do with this yearbook?

Yeah...I could really see the difference in which one they mirrored. It's that strange feeling of déjà vu!

Wow, did you see the varsity volleyball pages?

Yeah, those girls look really intimidating. Really, all of the pages look great!

Wow, can you believe that this year is over?

I know! It flew by so fast!

It's good that we have this yearbook to remember and reminiscence.

Like the time the boys varsity basketball team played in Conseco Fieldhouse. Or when we had a funeral in the auditorium during class time.

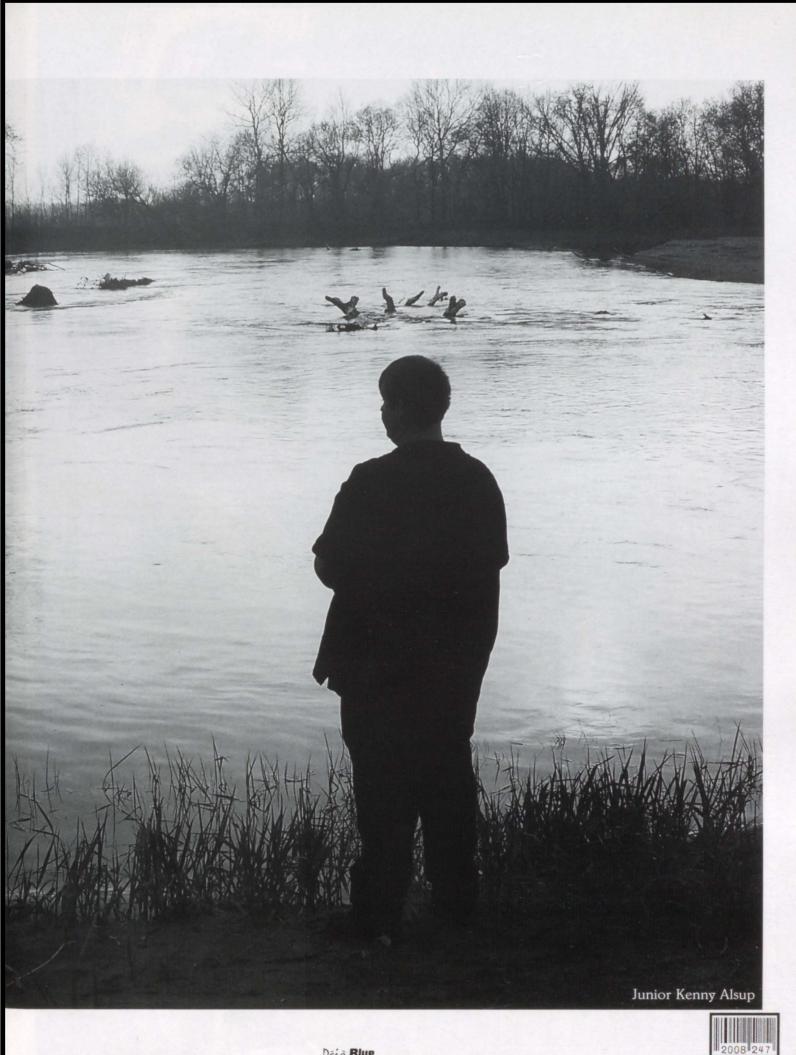

How about when the varsity football team went undefeated and won the Mid-State Conference title? Or when the administration had a meeting about a new building?

There were so many things that happened...

Yeah, we not only have these memories in our minds, but also in a book we can look over for years to come.
