Home of Mr and Mrs Claire Cook dates back to 1877

by Becky Hardin

Some of the most attractive, comfortable homes in Mooresville have been built a very long time. This one, on west Harrison street, was built in 1877 after the first house burned. A diary dated March 28, 1877, tells about the home.

In the old picture, Samuel Moore Rooker, Mrs Claire Cook's grandfather, is shown by the gate. He was the first baby born in Mooresville and was named for Samuel Moore, founder of the town. additions to the town (all of them until 1870) except one in 1852 that was made by a business associate, Alexander Worth.
